BAGLEY DISAGREES

Closed Banking Policy Defended

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Concealing from the public the background of bank officials is necessary to maintain the public's trust in California banking institutions, the state superintendent of banking said yesterday.

"I'm not saying we allow crooks to run the banks just because they provide a service," he quickly added.

The remarks by James M. Hall came in testimony before the Assembly Statewide Information Policy Committee, which is drafting legislation to force more state agencies to give the people public access to records affecting the public.

Under existing law, records of the banking department "are not public documents and are not open to inspection by the public."

Hall, however, said he was willing to see some limited information on bank officials made public, but left unclear how much information he had in mind. Committee chairman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, suggested that Hall draft the kind of legislation he would support and submit it to the committee.

Bagley argued that since the 1968 Public Records Act applied "across the board" to city and county governments, it also should apply to state agencies like the banking department.

But Hall retorted that persons forming banks "are not running for public office," and therefore had a right to privacy. "Do you drag out the 1938 police blotter and expose it to public view?"

Congress In Wild Apollo 11 Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress roared a standing ovation today to the three spacemen who gave America its foothold on the moon, while President Richard M. Nixon moved toward the next space goal — a man on Mars.

Neil A. Armstrong, leader of the Apollo 11 space team, told the Senate and House, assembled in a joint meeting, that:

"It was here, in these halls, that our journey really began."

The lawmakers, who gave the spacemen two minutes of sustained applause as they walked into the House chamber, roared their approval again.

"The first step on the moon was a step toward our sister planets," Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., second second man to touch foot on the moon, told Congress.

The third astronaut of Apollo 11, Michael Collins also spoke, to laud applause.

Aldrin's forecast of space adventures far beyond the moon came one day after President Nixon endorsed a special task force report calling for a landing on Mars—perhaps within the next two decades.

There has been coolness in Congress toward the costly Mars adventure, but there was

Brusatori Officially Selected Police Chief

Joseph J. Brusatori, a 31-year veteran of the San Rafael Police Department, was named chief last night by the San Rafael City Council. (Other San Rafael Council stories, page 26.)

Brusatori, 58, will take over as chief on Oct. 1, the day after the retirement of Charles J. Chiesa becomes effective.

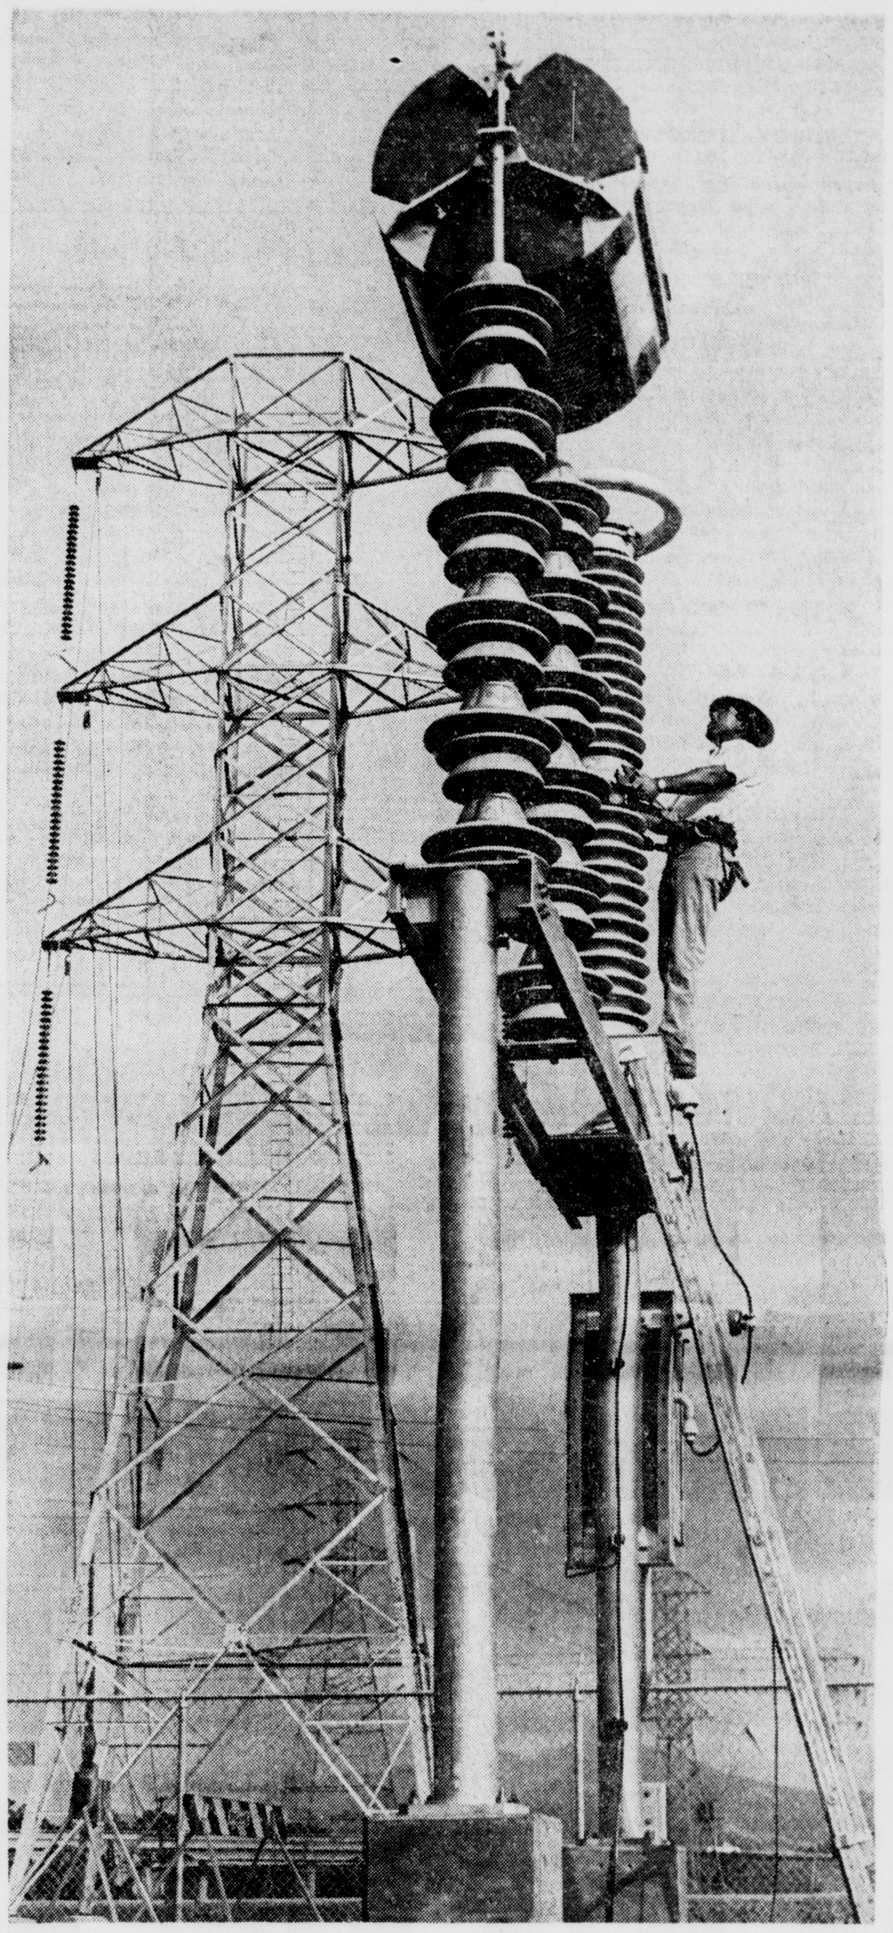
Chiesa, also 58 and also with the department for 31 years, announced last week he would retire and the council accepted his resignation with regret last night.

He has been working under a 75 per cent disability rating since shortly after suffering a heart attack in February 1968.

Brusatori was named juvenile officer in 1953 and his work in that job resulted in his selection by the Marin County Real Estate Board as Marin's "Man of the Year" in 1958.

He was promoted to captain and named assistant chief in the first promotion in the department after Chiesa's election in 1959. He was acting chief during Chiesa's illness.

His appointment is for the unexpired portion of Chiesa's elected term which ends in April 1971.



BLACKOUT GUARDIAN

This monster machine designed to protect Pacific Gas and Electric Company's system in the Ignacio area is being installed near the intersection of Highways 101 and 37, part of a $4.1 million project to be operating by Nov. 1. Julian Comenera, a member of PG&E's apprentice program is working the equipment, a coupling capacitator, as part of his training. Job foreman John Michael said the equipment picks up faults in the line and clears it through relays, keeping the fault out of the substation. The tower behind will support major new lines from the Vaca-Dixon and Moraga substations. Size of the mammoth coupler is suggested by comparison with the workman aloft. (I-J photo by Bob Hax)

Gate Span Buses Hit A Roadblock

San Francisco Board Wants Only Ferries

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A favorite political football — the Marin commuter — got kicked around yesterday by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

By unanimous vote, the supervisors adopted two resolutions declaring their "unequivocal opposition" to the bus system being considered by Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors, and reiterating their insistence that a ferry system be set up for Marin commuters.

The resolutions could halt in its track the bridge district's progress toward a $7.7 million crash program to set up a commuter bus service, since half the 18 district directors represent San Francisco.

One San Francisco source close to bridge district politics, who declined to be identified, predicted San Francisco's nine directors will buckle under to the supervisors' edict. "They're scared stiff of not being reappointed to the bridge board," he said.

Eight of the nine are appointed by the supervisors, and the ninth by the mayor.

Both resolutions were introduced by Supervisor William C. Blake, also a member of the bridge board and a strong advocate of rail transit to Marin. Blake is one of five supervisors facing re-election fights this year.

Blake argued that the bridge board was subsidizing the commuters with San Francisco money, which he said "provided 80 per cent of the funds to build the bridge." He apparently meant money San Francisco property owners pledged to back up the $35 million bond issue that built the bridge.

Only last week, however, Blake told meeting of bridge directors that the bridge was a financial flop until Marin developed a population base — clearly implying that the bridge district's huge revenues have been paid principally by Marinites, not San Franciscans.

A letter from the chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, John F. McInnis, asking that action on the resolutions be postponed until Marin supervisors could present their views, was ignored. McInnis' letter was dated yesterday, and noted the matter on the agenda had just come to his attention.

The resolutions also proposed expansion of the San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee from nine to 11 members by adding two bridge directors. The committee recently called for setting up a ferry system. Six of its members were appointed by the San Francisco supervisors.

The resolutions, after numerous amendments, also called for further study of the feasibility of a rail rapid transit tube to Marin. Blake said the study should be done by engineers for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The second vice president of the bridge board, Daniel F. Del Carlo, a veteran of almost 27 years on the board and one of its most influential members, told the Independent-Journal today that the supervisors' action

Nixon Sets New Vietnam Troop Cutback At 35,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today that at least 35,000 more U.S. troops will be withdrawn from Vietnam by Dec. 15.

That would bring to 60,000 the total of Americans in uniform to leave the war-torn country since the phased withdrawal program began in July.

(Following Nixon's statement, President Nguyen Van Thieu said in Saigon the withdrawal plan "is the measure of the progress in the strengthening of the army of the Republic of Vietnam."

(He further said "the government of Vietnam has agreed with the second reduction" after a careful study . . . "

(In Paris, the Viet Cong formally denounced the withdrawal plan, calling it a "maneuver aimed at appeasing American and world public opinion." And Hanoi said it still wanted all American troops out of Vietnam.)

A White House source said about half of the 35,000 would be combat troops—a lower ratio than in the original withdrawal of 25,000 men. He also said the total might turn out to be 36,000 or 37,000 once the action has been completed.

There was no word from Nixon on possible future withdrawals but the source said a number of contingency plans have been drawn up.

Nixon once expressed hope that U.S. withdrawals might exceed 100,000 by the end of 1969 and the source said he had no reason to believe Nixon had abandoned that hope. The latest announcement made the 100,000 level seem most unlikely.

The President coupled his new troop withdrawal announcement with a review of administration efforts to promote a peaceful settlement.

Calling for meaningful negotiations now, Nixon said: "I realize that it is difficult to communicate across the gulf of five years of war. But the time has come to end this war."

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said yesterday in Saigon he understood Nixon would announce a second-stage withdrawal of 40,500 men.

(In Saigon, the U.S. Armed Forces Network was ordered to censor Ky's troop statement.

(An official of the U.S. Command termed the censorship action a "rarity," but a staff member of the network said the command is "always telling us what we can and can't report.")

As for Ky's statement that he

Sausalito Superintendent Weathers Storm In Board

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Phillip W. Schneider, surviving a grueling four hours on the carpet with the Sausalito School District Board, last night retained his job as superintendent of the troubled district.

Board president Nathaniel Johnson, announcing the decision to a cheering audience after the lengthy closed meeting of the board, also outlined a new board policy calling for increased communication among the board, Schneider and the community and for the "depoliticizing" of the schools.

Although the board never specified any single charge made against Schneider, head of the district since 1967, he has been under fire from trustees James E. Muldoon and C. Gerald Clear for possibly withholding information on the past militant activities of Sidney F. Walton Jr., new principal of Martin Luther King School.

Many parents in the district also contended that Schneider has pushed the district towards

Village Near Da Nang Left In Shambles

SAIGON (AP) — Two hundred North Vietnamese troops raided a village in the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, killed 24 persons, wounded six others and destroyed 170 houses, South Vietnamese spokesmen reported today.

Sharp fighting was reported in various parts of South Vietnam as GIs and officers speculated which units would be included in new U.S. troop withdrawals. Allied forces killed 212 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in a dozen clashes from the Mekong Delta to the demilitarized zone, military spokesmen said.

Nuclear Weapon Test Skakes Nevada Desert

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) A hydrogen device with a wallop of nearly a million tons of TNT, called "very important to national security," was detonated deep under a desert mesa today.

Newsmen watching the shot on closed-circuit television from a protected site 15 miles away saw the ground jump an estimated 15 feet, tossing rocks and dust aloft and triggering ripples in the earth that knocked away from its aiming point temporarily one of two television cameras placed 12,000 feet away.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the shot — which according to unofficial speculation was a test of an antimissile warhead — released no radiation into the atmosphere.

A red plywood building housing power supplies, located on the surface just 30 feet from ground zero, was flipped some 30 feet into the air and then settled back down, apparently upright.

In Las Vegas, about 100 miles from the blast site, the 29-story Landmark Tower Hotel rocked with a circular motion starting about 30 seconds after the shot.

On the streets below, traffic never hesitated.

The device was fired at 7:30 a.m. at the bottom of a 3,800-foot, 64-inch-diameter hole

Tiburon Citizens Voting On Annex

Seventeen of 79 registered voters had cast their ballots by 11 a.m. today in an election to decide whether a corner of Tiburon will annex to the Corte Madera Sanitary District. Seven absentee ballots had been cast.

The proposed annexation, which has been protested by 18 voters, is for residents of Taylor Road and Antoinette Drive above Paradise Drive and west of Paradise Cay. The area is now served by septic tanks which a public health official has called inadequate.

The polling place in the Bertram H. Hirsch garage at 4949 Paradise Drive will be open until 7 p.m.

High Court Nominee Denies Union Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. denied today, at a Senate hearing on his nomination for the Supreme Court, that he ever profited financially from any decision of the Fourth U..S Circuit Court of Appeals on which he serves.

His testimony was in answer to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who questioned him about a conflict of interest charge by labor unions fighting to block Senate confirmation of Haynsworth's appointment.

The 56-year-old South Carolinian maintained he acted properly in not disqualifying himself from participating in a case involving Deering-Mifliken Inc., a textile combine with which a vending machine company partly owned by Haynsworth did business.

McClellan asked Haynsworth at the opening hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee on his nomination if Carolina Vend-A-Matic, the vending machine company, had any inter-

Warning Issued On Excavation Violations

The Mill Valley City Council last night threatened punitive measures against contractors and engineers who purposely ignore city development ordinances.

Such measures would include filing criminal misdemeanor complaints against offenders and reporting them to their licensing boards.

The council's threat came during discussions on correctig excavation work at 200 Marlin Avenue where the city claims 1,500 cubic yards of earth were removed when contractor John Ribeiro had a permit to remove only 100 cubic yards of dirt.

The city also charged the excavation may cause slides and floods on surrounding property during the rainy season.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala said sometimes the city can force contractors to repair damage but "once they excavate we can't put it back."

In August, the council told Ribeiro to repair the site to prevent damage to other property, including the city street, but, Bala said, nothing has been done.

The council told Ribeiro he had one more week to make repairs or Bala would do the job and charge it against Ribeiro's performance bond.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

MEETING — Heard a meeting of city staff with yacht harbor developer Paul B. Fischer of Los Angeles has been tentatively scheduled for 3:30 p.m., Sept. 25.

POLES — Heard that the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will charge $2,500 to remove two power poles or $35,000 to remove all power poles along Fern Canyon Road if the city wishes to install underground utilities.

WARRANTS — Authorized four city staff members to sign warrants.

APPOINTMENTS — Postponed appointments to the youth commission and architectural advisory committee.

DIPSEA TRAIL — Accepted improvements to the Dipsea Trail completed last month.

VASCO DRIVE — Approved drawings and plans for improvements to Vasco Drive drainage.

Move Forces Robinson To Quit Council

Mill Valley City Councilman Rodric L. Robinson resigned last night because he has moved to Tiburon.

In a letter read at the city council meeting, Robinson said the resignation would be effective immediately.

The council, required by law to select a replacement within 30 days or hold an election, set a closed meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss candidates.

Robinson said he regretted that "during my term of office the yacht harbor could not have been completed" and that he would not be able "to continue to work with the youth commission."

A resident of Mill Valley for 20 years, Robinson served on the city's planning commission from 1962 to 1966 when he was elected to the council.

Novatans Argue Route Of DeLong Extension

After hearing objections to proposed routes for the extension of De Long Avenue east of the freeway bypass when it is constructed, the Novato Planning Commission at an adjourned meeting last night asked the staff to make further study of possible routes.

These are to be presented at a public hearing at 8 p.m., Oct. 20 at the Novato Community House.

The routes presented last night include a short route over the hill east of Hancock Street with a hookup to Rosalia Drive. About 10 residents of that street objected to this connection with Olive Avenue, said assistant planning director Warren Baker.

Other routes shown for the 84-foot-wide eastbound connection to the freeway went behind Gnoss Estates, down the hill and connected with Olive Avenue east of Gnoss Estates, Baker said.

"Residents of the area are concerned with the increase in traffic which the offramp would generate," Baker said.

Both proposed routes extend about 3,000 feet over the top of a hill where there is no development at the present time, Baker said. The state Division of Highways would like the route set before it begins construction of the bypass because it would grade the street in order to get fill for the overpass at Olive Avenue, Baker said.

Industrial Chiefs Study Income Gaps

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A conference of 700 of the world's leading industrialists moved today from the rhetoric of its theme—closing the world's income gap—to details of how to do it.

Delegates from 70 countries to the International Industrial Conference began the second day of their five-day exchange of ideas at the Fairmont Hotel with a series of technical panels. These examined the monetary exchange system among nations, how to develop manpower and management talent, and management systems in various countries.

As the conference opened yesterday, about 1,000 young people, waving red flags and many wearing beards and long hair, demonstrated in front of the hotel against what they called "this imperialistic conference." Police threw a tight cordon across Nob Hill, and after an hour of chanting slogans the crowd melted away.

The International Monetary Exchange System "is in trouble," said Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the Bank of England, in a speech for his panel today.

The trouble is rooted in inflation, high interest rates and currency crises in individual countries, he said, but "it is important not to exaggerate" the problems.

"The decade since the major currencies became convertible in 1958 has been the most prosperous the world has ever known" he said. "The annual rate of growth of over 8 per cent in world trade and world production have probably never been equalled in any previous period."

England Re-Elected By Hub Commission

Robert England was re-elected chairman of the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission last night. Jay C. Stovall was elected vice chairman and Laura M. Cann secretary.

Two new commissioners, Carol Leach and Lawrence Husband, were seated to replace Walter J. Anderson and Richard C. Ehrhart, whose terms had expired.

The commission heard the Robson-Harrington Park Association outline plans for fund-raising events this winter to furnish the Robson-Harrington mansion: a fashion show, a midnight buffet, a jazz festival and an amateur art exhibit.

The commission recommended the city council allot $500 to the Third Rail teen center, subject to an opinion by the city attorney on legality of the expenditure. The commission agreed to investigate San Anselmo's teen groups and consider possible financial aid to each group that presents a program to the commission.

Director Frank L. Quinn told the commission the parks and recreation department has been accepted into the College of Marin's work-study program, meaning students studying recreation will be available to work in San Anselmo playground programs.

Hong Kong is now the wig capitol of the world with more than 200 factories producing them for export markets.

Hub May Hire Consultants To Get U.S. Planning Cash

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council tonight hire planning consultants Williams and Mocine to prepare an application for federal funds for a new general plan.

The firm would be hired at a fee of $1,000 to prepare a reconnaisance report, work outline and application for the program under Public Law 701, City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell said.

The commission also asked Leitzell to review the Town of Ross's experience with its ordinance on abatement on nonconforming land uses and report back. San Anselmo has no such ordinance but the commission is discussing one.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission Also:

SETBACKS — Recommended the council pass an amendment to allow architectural features such as chimneys to extend two feet into side yard setbacks, which recently have been increased from five feet to eight feet.

FOTOMAT — Denied a use permit sought by Alfred Nannizzi for a drive-up Fotomat business at 5 Red Hill Avenue on grunds traffic was too heavy for the use of the narrow lot.

APARTMENTS — Discussed problems of non-conforming multiple uess in one-family districts, then continued the public hearing to Oct. 6.

ZONE — Held to the Oct. 6 meeting an application by Anna Ghezzi and John Komo for apartment zoning of a duplex-zoned lot at 158 Tunstead Avenue.

VARIANCES — Approved variances sought by Melvin J. Chambers for a five-foot setback for an addition at 19 Hooper lane, Thomas D. Wilson for setbacks for an addition at 8 Crescent Lane, and B. M. Schmidt for setbacks for a garage at 61 Madrone Avenue.

CONGRESS

Minutes before the astronauts entered the House chamber, a resolution authorizing a new medal called the Congressional Space Medal of Honor was passed by the Senate and sent to the White House.

The resolution, which passed the House yesterday, would be awarded an astronaut "who in the performance of his duties has distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious efforts and contributions to the welfare of the nation and mankind."

Collins told the assemblage that when man eventually steps on Mars, "I think I'll hear him say, 'I come from the United States of America.'" There was long applause.

Armstrong said there were long shadows and only 11 degrees of sunrise at Tranquility Base on the moon.

There were two kinds of time, measured by the crew's routine, and the other marked by the ageless rocks of the moon, Armstrong said.

He recounted setting down the plaque that said "We came in peace for all mankind."

Collins told the legislators the Apollo team had taken to the moon the wealth of the nation, the vision of its political leaders, the skill and learning of its engineers and scientists, and the enthusiastic support of its people.

"We brought back rocks—I think it's a fair trade," he added, as the chamber rocked with laughter.

Just as Egypt's Rosetta stone unlocked the mysteries locked in ancient tongues, Collins said, the moon rocks may unlock many of the mysteries of earth, moon, solar system and universe.

Each of the spacemen seemed to assume that further explorations into outermost space are to be expected as a matter of course, despite rising complaints at their cost in Congress and elsewhere.

Another Lunch On Courthouse

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will meet with representatives of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce at noon Thursday to discuss disposition of the courthouse in San Rafael.

Under state law, the meeting is open to the public.

Burch Held Nominee For FCC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon will nominate Dean Burch, a former Republican national chairman, to succeed Chairman Rosel H. Hyde of the Federal Communications Commission, a White House source said today.

Burch, a Tucson, Ariz., attorney, helped direct the 1964 campaign of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the Republican presidential nomination. Goldwater, once nominated, picked Burch as chairman of the Republican National Committee, a post he held only briefly.

looked for a total U.S. withdrawal of 150,000 to 200,000 by the end of 1970, the White House source who talked to newsmen —declining to be quoted by name—said Ky did not get those figures from U.S. officials.

Further withdrawals will be considered periodically but, the White House source said, the United States is not going to commit itself to any specific date for a new review of U.S. troop levels.

The informant also discussed Nixon's order last week for a 36-hour halt in B52 bomber missions over South Vietnam — a move he conceded the White House had not fully explained at the time.

The White House initially said only the halt was designed to assess the level of enemy military activity following an uncertain truce that marked the death of Ho Chi Minh.

But the White House official said today there was an additional motive—to indicate to Hanoi that the U.S. negotiating position is flexible and that everything, including a complete halt of B52 missions, is negotiable with one exception: The right of the South Vietnamese to fix their own future free of outside interference.

Asked whether the United States had informed Hanoi of its reasons for the brief halt, the source would not comment.

He described the Paris peace negotiations as stalemated throughout the summer but added it was conceivable Hanoi stood pat because of Ho's last illness. He said it was possible negotiations now might become more active.

Since the beginning of the year, he said, infiltration of troops from North to South Vietnam had declined substantially. But he said there is no firm evidence yet whether this was a military decision or a political move that could be the prelude to intensified talks in Paris.

In related action, the Navy is considering deactivating a Marine division, one-third of which is in Vietnam, as a way of further cutting defense spending this year, Pentagon sources report.

Involved is the West Coast-based Fifth Marine Division whose 6,000 to 7,000 man 26th Regiment is operating around Da Nang, South Vietnam.

The outfit's other two regiments are at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Military officers said in advance of today's scheduled White House announcement on troop withdrawals they did not know whether the 26th Regiment might be called home for deactivation as part of the cutbacks.

But they said the deactivation of the Fifth if ordered, would almost certainly require substantial Marine cuts in Vietnam since that division serves as the corps' rotation base for the Pacific area.

Rohnert Park Area Collision Hurts Two

The drivers, Ronald F. Lear, 21, of 861 Sutro Avenue, Novato, and Warren N. Bailey, 49, of Santa Rosa, were taken to Community Hospital of Sonoma County where they declined treatment and said they would see private physicians.

HEARING

est in the litigation.

"No, sir," Haynsworth replied.

At the conclusion of the morning hearing, the committee made public a list of stocks, bonds and debentures owned by Haynsworth and also companies in which he has served as a director or officer.

The list of stocks Haynsworth reported holding as of this month included investments in three major textile companies —400 shares of Burlington Industries Inc., 1,575 shares of Dan River Mills, and 550 shares of J. P. Stevens & Co. Altogether about 45 different stock holdings were shown.

Haynsworth testified in response to McClellan's questions that Vend-A-Matic's gross sales in Deering-Milliken plant at the time of the court's 1963 decision amount to about $100,000 out of its total sales of $3.1 million.

McClellan asked how much of the $100,000 gross would be translated into net profit. Haynesworth said he could only guess but that over-all he thought the vending company made a profit of close to 10 per cent on its sales.

This would indicate that his share of Vend-A-Matic's profits from its business with Deering-Milliken would amount to about $1,430 a year. McClellan, however, asked that Haynsworth have company auditors figure out the amount and make the figure available to the committee.

Haynesworth also testified in answer to questions by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., that he did not own any stock in Deering-Milliken, a big textile combine in the Carolinas.

Haynsworth told the committee that "A judge is every bit as obligated to sit in a case in which he is not disqualified by statute or by the canons of ethics as he is to disqualify himself where required to do so by those standards."

The decision of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, on which Haynsworth has served since 1957, overturned a finding by the National Labor Relations Board of an unfair labor practice against Deering-Milliken Inc. and one of its subsidiaries, the Darlington Manufacturing Co.

Darlington closed down its plant after the Textile Workers of America won a representation election, and the court held in a 3-2 decision that the company had a right to do so, whatever its motive. The decision later was reversed by the Supreme Court.

Haynsworth said that after Carolina Vend-A-Matic had been taken over by another firm he disposed of his stock interests for a net sales price of $437,710. He had paid $2,400 for his stock after the company was formed in 1950, and later made a capital contribution to the corporation of $600, he said.

Haynsworth also is under fire from various civil rights organizations which have accused him of pro-segregationist rulings on the Fourth Circuit Court. He has been chief judge of the court since 1964.

Haynsworth was presented to the committee by South Carolina's two senators, Democrat Ernest F. Hollings and Republican Strom Thurmond.

A crater was expected to develop within 24 hours due to surface soil falling into a 700-foot-diameter cavern created at the bottom of the hole. Creation of the cavern, experts said, displaced an estimated 10 million tons of rock—much of which was instantly vaporized or melted.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of marijuana were William Robert Herman, 21, of 25 Wreden Avenue ,Fairfax, and Patricia Jane MacLeod, 18, of 73 Magnolia Avenue, San Anselmo.

Police said they went to the Wreden Avenue house at 5:35 p.m. yesterday with a search warrant obtained by the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau. Bureau inspectors said they had received an anonymous tip that 15 or 16 marijuana plants were visible through a window of the apartment.

Agents checked and found the tip appeared to be true and got the search warrant.

Union Killing Charge Dropped

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)— Murder conspiracy charges against Carl Black, 48, an Oakland accountant, have been dropped for lack of evidence.

Black originally was charged with murder in connection with the shotgun slaying in 1966 of Ralph Alsup, head of a Las Vegas plumbing union, but last January the charge was reduced to conspiracy, a gross misdemeanor.

Shortly before Black's trial was to begin yesterday, Chief Criminal Deputy Dist. Atty. Alan Johns told Nevada Dist. Judge Clarence Sundean the state had insufficient evidence to prosecute.

Thomas Hanley, 51, former head of a Las Vegas casino dealers union now serving a one-year prison sentence, was also charged with murder in connection with the Alsup slaying. The charges are pending.

No complaint has been filed in Sonoma Municipal Court against Jimmy Sims, 18, of Petaluma, who had been held as a suspect in the death of Robert F. Buhrer, 47, on Aug. 23.

BANKER

I'm getting sensitive, since I once spirited a salmon."

Hall argued that he saw "no benefit for every bank officer to bare his soul." Making public background reports on bank officers, he added, "might drive some very fine people into other fields, where instead we want a creative atmosphere in banking to attract productive people."

Hall warned that the same reasoning, if applied to everyone in businesses regulated by the state, would mean that up to 70 per cent "of the community would be exchanging financial information about one another."

Repeating his oppositton to full disclosure of records on the background of bankers, he said "a man who has overcome his youthful exuberance should be allowed a rest."

Hall insisted that his department's main job was "to protect community trust in the institution," a comment that prompted a committee member to suggest the department was more interested in protecting the bank than the depositer.

Also testifying before the committee at the Clift Hotel was the state's chief deputy corporations commissioner, James L. Kelly, who argued for the right to suppress information at least temporarily.

He used the example of an application for a merger. If the application were public, he said, speculation could prevent the merger by driving up the price of one of the firm's stock.

Several committee members noted that current law did not provide that information in Kelly's department must be made public after being acted upon, and Kelly said he was willing to have a time limit added to the law to remove his right to keep records secret indefinitely.

Saul Perlis, chief counsel of the division of savings and loan, also argued that many records in his department should remain secret. Many of the records have detailed information on persons making big loans, he noted, and the privacy of these persons should be protected.

Bagley and the committee, however, agreed that state officials will have to learn to live under the Public Records Act, which he authored. "There must be a balancing with the public right to know," Bagley said.

News Publisher H. S. Ridder Dies

LONG BEACH (AP) — Herman H. Ridder, president and director of a nationwide newspaper empire and a believer in crusading journalism, is dead at 61.

"Guts—they're priceless. You can't have a newspaper without them," he once counseled a group of college journalists.

Ridder followed what he preached. For almost 40 years he pushed for enterprising reporting and strong, community minded editorials in the 17 Ridder newspapers.

Military funeral services will be held Thursday for Ridder, who died yesterday at his Long Beach home. He was a reserve Marine Corps colonel. Burial will be in Rye, N.Y.

In 1952, Ridder became head of Ridder Publications, Inc., founded by his grandfather, as well as publisher of the chain's largest newspaper, the Long Beach Independent and Press Telegram.

Cousins Admit Union Hall's Burglary

Two cousins, Robert B. Deem, 26, and Richard B. Deem, 21, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that they had burglarized the Painters Union hall in San Rafael June 29.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Nov. 3 after warning the younger Deem that he might face a stiffer sentence since he has a worse record than his cousin.

Warrant Is Issued In Burglary Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson for Harold Gene McDonald, 20, of Sausalito, when he failed to appear for a jury trial on a burglary charge.

The youth is accused of burglarizing the Mill Valley Tennis Club March 30.

an exclusively black curriculum, that discipline at the schools had disintegrated and that the quality of education in the district has dramatically declined.

Schneider also has been criticized for his backing of William Bradley (Chaka), another militant black educator who was on the district's staff last year.

Chaka had his application for a temporary teaching credential denied last month by the Marin County Board of Education, because he is under investigation by the State Department of Public Instruction, whose credentials committee is to hear his case next Tuesday.

Johnson read the statement and the board immediately adjourned without taking any questions from the audience. Johnson said the board would consider questions at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Monday.

The statement said: "For many hours the board has discussed with its administrator a wide range of questions and concerns raised by individual board members and the community. There have been disagreements in the meeting on a number of points. The board and the administrator have recognized the need for reforms and reaffirmation of certain objectives with regard to:

"1. Communication between the board and the superintendent.

"2. Communication between the superintendent and the school's communities.

"3. The board's communication with the public.

"4. The educational objectives of the district.

"5. The decided need of the depoliticizing of the schools, staff and the communities in terms of our educational functions.

"6. The need for more open communications."

The statement continued that to move towards those objectives, "the emotional fever of the district (should) be put aside in consideration of the educational programs we are trying to implement."

The board also said it will immediately initiate a program of weekly coffee sessions with the superintendent, parents, teachers and school administrators to discuss school problems.

The statement concluded by saying, "By consensus, the board has agreed there will be no change in the status of our chief administrator, Mr. Schneider."

Johnson, expanding briefly on the statement after the meeting, said, "It's time we get back to education." He said the board wanted to "get the political aspects out of the schools" and start "redirecting our energies towards basic educational goals."

Muldoon had said several weeks ago he was considering resigning from the board as a result of the furor over the district's direction. Last night, asked whether the board's stand had any effect on whether he would quit the board, Muldoon said, "Not at this time."

Many in last night's audience of more than 50 people were teachers in the Sausalito district who chanted "If Phil goes, we go" as each board member arrived.

The teachers, who cheered "Right on" and applauded when Johnson read the board statement, held signs bearing such slogans as: "Enlightened Leadership Schneider," "Phil Schneider is Color Blind," "We Need Phil" and "We Go With Phil."

"caught me off guard." He declined to comment in detail until he had read the resolution, but said "I never make it a policy to vote for something because a supervisor voted for something."

Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco said, "I'm not bound by them (the supervisors), but I'm not saying I would oppose their position either." He added that he probably would oppose the bus system unless a ferry system were started at the same time.

"But I am not totally opposed to buses the way the San Francisco Board of Supervisors is," Dearman said.

Director Ben K. Lerer, the only other San Francisco representative available this morning, said he had no comment on the supervisors' action.

The bridge board's reaction to the supervisors action should come when it meets at 9 a.m. on Thursday in district offices at the toll plaza to consider setting up the bus system.

A Petaluma man was arrested today on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon and for being drunk in public.

Gail C. Spalding, 46, of 314 Edith Street, was released on $625 bail to appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Sept. 29.

Police said that Spalding, a bartender, was found drunk at Wilson and East D streets and had a loaded pistol in his pocket.

Jail Meted In Furlough Skip

Morlin Smith, 21, of Marin City pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge of failing to return to the county jail from a work furlough last June 28.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the time that Smith has served since he was re-arrested was sufficient punishment and released him.

Tam High Bus Charge Idea Draws West Marin Fire

By FRANK FARRARA

A Bolinas-Stinson School District trustee last night rapped a proposal that Tamalpais High School District levy a charge for bus service.

Edward Z. Lewis, said the district should assume transportation costs in its budget and it was "unfair to make the students farther away pay for the costs of transportation."

David D. Ring, chairman of the Tamalpais High School District Transportation Committee which recommended the new pay system, said there are inequities in the present system.

The district has been providing charter bus service to several areas, including Bolinas-Stinson, at no charge to students, but at a cost of $23,500 a year to the district.

Students from areas not served by charter buses, either have no facilities available or are paying commuter rates, Ring said.

Student, living outside two miles, would pay 30 cents a one-way trip, 60 cents round trip or $2.50 a week for a book of tickets, and the service would be provided by Greyhound Bus Co. under charter.

Ring said it would cost the district $110,000 to serve all the students living more than two miles from school and the committee felt "priorities didn't justify spending those kind of funds" on transportation.

Lewis said the taxpayers in the Bolinas-Stinson School District pay more per student than taxpayers in other areas of the district. "We are paying enough to have our students transported," he contended.

Some students in the Bolinas-Stinson School District area are living as far as 27 miles from high school, he pointed out. "The first order of importance of any school is to get the students to the school."

He said the annual cost would be unfair to families in the Bolinas-Stinson area, and the cost would result in more students driving cars, hitch-hiking and missing school days.

Students in Marin City's public housing would be exempt, and trustees said provision could be made for other low-income families.

Ring pointed out that the district doesn't own any buses, the county doesn't have any transportation system, leaving only Greyhound.

Under the present plan, some students are paying for transportation at commuter rates while others are receiving it free, which Ring felt is an inequity.

The proposed plan calls for retaining the present runs, and expanding services by starting new runs, he said.

The proposed 30-cent charge is less than some students are paying in some areas now with "the typical commute" rate about 45 cents, and some paying 90 cents, Ring said.

Frank A. Cassou, business director, said the proposed new system would provide service to areas not now served such as the Paradise Drive area, Corte Madera, east of Highway 101, and the Sausalito area combined with a loop through Mill Valley.

Trustees advised the audience including about a dozen primarily interested in bussing, that there would be another hearing on the proposal before any action was taken.

Speed Limit Signs Asked

I-J Special Report

SANTA Rosa — Residents of Thomas Lane just outside Petaluma city limits yesterday petitioned the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to post speed limit signs on the street.

Mrs. Jerome J. Durenberger, 210 Thomas Lane presented a petition signed by all residents urging that signs indicating the speed limit be installed.

She said that visitors to homes on the street and patrons of a nearby beauty salon do not realize how short and narrow the street is and usually speed. Mrs. Durenberger said the present situation is dangerous for children and pets.

Supervisor George T. DeLong of Petaluma said that he and Donald B. Head, a road commissioner, would look into the problem.

The BSU plans to close its conference Friday with a workshop from 4 to 7 p.m.

The conference opened at noon yesterday when Delmar Jackson, a member of the BSU, talked about the Third World Movement and capitalism.

Antilitter Cleanup Set For Taylor Park

A litter cleanup will be held at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in West Marin Oct. 10 through 12 under the sponsorship of the California Outdoor Recreation League.

Alcatraz Plans Decision Put Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The board of supervisors has postponed for two weeks any decision on the future of Alcatraz Island, while indicating it prefers no large scale development there.

Meeting yesterday as the Surplus Property Commission, the supervisors decided to continue negotiations with a joint venture proposing tours of the once famous federal prison.

Harbor Tug and Barge Co. of San Francisco and Macco Corp. of Southern California made the joint offer for tour rights, offering $2 million for a 10-year lease.

Year-Round Classes Answer To Crowding?

Tamalpais High School District Trustee Robert W. Corlett suggested last night the district consider year-round classes to meet its housing needs.

Corlett also suggested looking into borrowing from banks for capital expenditures and leasing of air rights and subsurface rights on district lands.

For example, he said, the district could lease air space above one of its sites to a private developer for a building, or subsurface land for underground parking, and use the income to pay for school buildings.

Interest on a bank loan, he felt, could be cheaper than the interest rate on bonds.

Trustees said that changing to a year-round system would take long study, and Corlett felt the district could get community opinions by holding hearings on the idea.

Trustees also received a letter from Leo Souza, a member of the Reed School District board stressing the need for additional buildings in the district, "particularly a Tiburon Peninsula high school."

He recommended that the district reactivate its citizen committee and start a program of informing voters of the district's building needs.

Trustees agreed that the building problem was significant enough to warrant a board workshop, but no date was set.

Novato TV Antenna Plea To Be Aired

A request to erect a 74-foot antenna on the Lynwood Park tank site will be discussed by the North Marin County Water District board at 8 p.m. today at the water district offices at 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

G'Tec, which holds the franchise for cable television in Novato, has asked to lease a portion of the water tank site to build a community television antenna. The property is on the hill south of Sunset Parkway and east of South Novato Boulevard.

The request came before the water board on Sept. 2, but was continued until tonight so that people in the area might protest the antenna if they wanted to.

The board will consider requests for easements from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and Western California Telephone Co. for poles to be placed on the land owned by the district near Stafford Dam.

Other items to come before the board include the renewal of the grazing lease of the land around Stafford Lake, a report on the season's fishing on the lake and a pre-audit statement on the district's finances.

Board Approves Auto Show Use

Wilson was convicted on July 11 after his second trial. In the first one the jury could not reach a unanimous decision.

He was arrested 10 days after the July 30, 1968, robbery of the Horn Shop which was followed by a wild shooting fray on Princess Street. The jury found him innocent of assault with a deadly weapon.

Man Wanted In Texas Arrested

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 6, the 259th day of 1969 with 106 days to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1630, the Massachusetts village of Shawmut changed its name to Boston.

In 1893, the Cherokee strip in Oklahoma was opened to homesteaders. More than 100,000 persons rushed to claim land.

In 1963, the Asian nation of Malaysia was created.

A thought for the day: American novelist Mark Twain said, "There are several good protections against temptations but the unrest is cowardice."

Truly Busy Day For Mr. Estrada

ALICE, Tex. (UPI)—In one day, Hector Estrada was sentenced to prison, granted a divorce, and married—all by the same judge.

Estrada drew a prison term of four years after a previous burglary probation was revoked. Judge C. W. Laughlin then granted a divorce petition that Estrada had filed several months earlier, and married him to his second wife. After the ceremony, Estrada was taken to the county jail to await transfer to the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Annual Meaning Is Given To Signal Play At Beginning

When your partner's opening lead is the king of a suit you can signal encouragement by following suit with a higher card than necessary. In general, this signal asks your partner to continue the suit for a second and then a third time. In unusual cases, your signal may have a different meaning.

COLLEGE TOURNEY

When today's hand was played some years ago in the annual Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament, the final contract was four spades at almost every table. West invariably led the king of clubs against any kind of spade contract.

Every experienced East followed suit with the seven or eight of clubs to encourage a club continuation, but not every West stopped to think of the true meaning of this signal. The average West player blithely cashed the ace of clubs at the second trick and then looked around for new worlds to conquer.

There were no new worlds. If West promptly took his ace of hearts, he could get a third defensive trick. If West failed to take the ace, he wouldn't get it; South was ready to draw trumps and run the diamonds to get rid of his hearts.

SHOWS QUEEN

In the ordinary hand, signaling with a high card does not promise a definite card but merely urges partner to continue the suit. In this case, since East had bid clubs, he could not wish to ruff the third round of clubs. East's signal at the first trick could be based only on possession of the queen of clubs.

If West stopped to think, he would lead a low club at the second trick instead of cashing the ace of clubs. East would win with the queen of clubs and would return a heart, defeating the contract.

EAST'S ACTION

If East had the king of hearts but did not have the queen of clubs, he would play his lowest club at the first trick, and West could switch to hearts at the second trick.

What do you say?

Planners Approve Rules For Richardson Bay High-Rises

By WAT TAKESHITA

A specific plan for development of Richardson Bay, which would allow high-rise buildings up to 12 stories along Highway 101, won unanimous approval of the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday.

The decision came on a motion by Jack G. Nixon, and amendments by Margaret Azevedo.

The plan will permit not more than one high-rise per property owner.

Mrs. Azevedo's amendment set the maximum height at 12 stories. However, this maximum is only a guide for developers and does not mean that every 12-story plan will be approved, said Mrs. Azevedo.

Nixon also warned that permission for a high-rise per owner is not automatic, and each must be decided on its own merits.

Nixon said he hopes the developers will do more than merely consider economic gain but come in with "plans that are distinct and unique and make this a show place, something like Ghiradelli Square."

Under the plan, the area between Kappas Yacht Harbor and the heliport will be left in open water, with a marina green along the highway.

Maximum fill allowed must not exceed 40 per cent of each owner's existing open water area. Water use (such as houseboats and marinas) development will be allowed up to 67 per cent of the existing water area.

The planning staff drew a line parallel to the shoreline, about 600 to 800 feet from Highway 101. High-rise buildings will be allowed only to landward; beyond the line, maximum height will be 44 feet above mean sea level.

Planning Director Paul C. Zucker explained that high-rise buildings closer to the bay would mar the horizon when viewed from Strawberry Peninsula.

The 44-foot height restriction is also imposed on a semicircular piece of land along Bridgeway, opposite a hill where apartments are located, to preserve tennants' views.

Hugh S. J. Allen, representing George Zaro, objected to a restriction that said, "Piers shall only be allowed where shoreline appearance is enchanced." The commissioners deleted this language.

Allen also objected to requirements for open space. If open area is required on private land, that open area should be taken off the tax rolls, declared Allen.

"How different is that from land where open space is preserved for the privilege of clustering?" replied Chairman Michael Praszker.

None of the other property owners raised serious objections to the Richardson Bay specific plan.

Southern Marin Homes Looted

Two burglaries with loot totaling $790 have been reported in Southern Marin, deputies at the Marin City substation said yesterday.

They said $525 worth of stereo equipment, a jewelry box and credit cards were stolen from the Norman Wallen residence at 7 Morningsun Avenue in Tamalpais Valley after burglars entered an unlocked window while the family was away for the weekend.

Burglars also hit the Luella Head residence at 420 Panoramic Highway during the weekend and made off with $265 in travelers checks, a radio and stereo portable and stereo tapes.

Deputies said thieves apparently gained entrance by reaching through a door panel that had been taken out as a pet door and unlocking the door.

Alarm Goes Off, Burglars Flee

Thieves ransacking the offices of the La Fargue Laundry at 1110 Third Street, San Rafael 11:38 p.m. Friday, set off a burglar alarm which brought police but scared off the burglars as they arrived, police reported yesterday.It was not determined if anything was taken by the two men police saw jumping over a rear fence.

Also scared off by a burglar alarm were thieves who cut a lock on the door of the D and S Garage warehouse at Francisco Boulevard and Grand Avenue at 11:25 p.m. Sunday night. Nothing apparently was taken, police reported.

Mobile Home Park Near Hamilton Vetoed

A 50-acre mobile home park with 373 pads, proposed just north of Hamilton Air Force Base runway, went down to defeat 5 to 2 before the Marin County Planning Commission late yesterday.

On a motion by Eugene R. Trombley and a second by Hugh Dougherty, the majority denied a mobile home zoning for Max Dillman of Balboa, who wanted to build the project on a portion of the 400 acres owned by Jack and Lerona West of Novato. The property is located about a mile east of Highway 101 just north of the northern tip of the Hamilton runway.

The commissioners agreed with Planning Director Paul C. Zucker that the area is too close to the flight zone and would be subject to noise and hazards. The Novato general plan proposes an industrial area at the location, with low density.

"Novato is already overwhelmed by mobile home sites," declared Trombley, in moving for rejection.

He was backed by Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation, composed of 10 homeowner groups, and Jack Kniveton, president of Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association, who filed a protest petition signed by more than 300 residents.

North Marin already has 1,000 mobile home pads approved, with more planned, including 1,800 units by John Kenney at Black Point, said Baptiste. He said 5 per cent of the North Marin population is already in mobile homes.

Baptiste presented financial studies showing that mobile homes bring in $400 to $500 less per pad in tax revenue than conventional homes, and also asked for state legislation to raise the share of taxes to be paid by mobile homes.

Kniveton charged that the approval of the Las Robles Mobile Home Park at the entrance to Bel Marin Keys had induced West to offer 50 acres to Dillman for the new mobile home park proposal. "Pretty soon North Marin will turn into one big mobile home park."

Dillman argued that his mobile home park would have five lakes with connecting streams where trout could be stocked year round. He said his project would be only for adults. He claimed that highway traffic creates far more noise than planes landing at Hamilton.

Commissioner Walter F. Freitas backed the mobile home project and was joined by Niels Schultz Jr., but they were outvoted 5 to 2.

Nicasio Trustees To Talk Of Bus Pact

The bus transportation agreement with the Tamalpais Union High School District will be discussed by the Nicasio School District board at 8 p.m. today at the school.

Other items on the short agenda include the hiring of a teacher's aide for kindergarten and receiving the principal's report.

Bussing Petition Faces Court Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The effort to place an anti-compulsory school bussing measure on the 1970 general election ballot will be challenged in a state Supreme Court suit filed by a Negro attorney.

Attorney Nathaniel Colley disclosed yesterday he plans to file the suit in an attempt to bar the initiative from the ballot. Colley said his action is supported by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The initiative, sponsored by Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, would ban busing of pupils for integration purposes without written consent of a parent or guardian.

County Slates Hearing On Mill Valley Link

A hearing to discuss the route for the Miller Avenue Extension will be held before the Marin County Planning Commission on Oct. 13, commissioners decided yesterday.

Stanley M. Bala, Mill Valley city engineer, pushed for a decision on the route. He said that Miller Avenue now carries 13,000 to 14,000 cars daily, and Dolan's Corner is unable to handle all the traffic. "If we don't move ahead, nibbling development will occur and the dump at Dolan's Corner will spread," he warned.

The county planning staff presented sketches of three different routes for the Miller Avenue extension — from the Tamalpais High School area across the marshlands to Shoreline Highway near the Howard Johnson hotel and restaurant complex.

The first route would head straight across the marshes, the second curves slightly toward Dolan's Corner, and the third would curve far toward Dolan's Corner so that the lands of Bothin Real Estate would not be chopped through the center.

Bala said Mill Valley favors the middle route, which curves slightly but not enough to create a traffic hazard at T turnoff to connect the extension with Dolan's Corner.

Richard Gatley III, representing Bothin, said he will work with the county staff on the route, but prefers the third route with the biggest curve so that the bulk of his property would be left intact.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

LAND DIVISION — Granted Stanley W. Taylor a two-lot land division at Strawberry Point, at the corner of East Strawberry Drive and Herring Drive. Each lot would be 13,750 square feet, much more than the 10,000 square feet required. Neighbor Eugene Kvasnikov of 414 East Strawberry Drive protested without success.

REZONING — Denied a rezoning from one-family home to raodside business on a 17,000 square foot lot at Alto, owned by Arthur Dillard. The lot is located at the corner of the Highway 101 frontage road and Central Drive. The vote was 6 to 1, with Walter F. Freitas favoring the rezoning.

GOLF CLUB ACCESS — Extended for an indefinite time the present access to the San Geronimo National Golf Course clubhouse, which was granted on a temporary basis in 1965.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Rezoned by split vote the five and one-half acre Howard Johnson hotel and restaurant site on the west of Richardson Bay Bridge from resort commercial to planned commercial. Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said the rezoning is to make the zoning conform with an accomplished fact. Margaret Azevedo voted "no", explaining: "This is the last act of protest to what I consider an act of political erosion." Hugh Dougherty and Michael Praszker joined her, but were outvoted 4 to 3.

STRIP MINING — Continued until Sept. 29 a discussion of controls over strip mining in Marin. Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, said uncontrolled mining can ruin the landscape.

MERRYDALE ROAD — Set Oct. 13 as the time to discuss future width lines and building lines on Merrydale Road in Los Ranchitos.

COFFEE SHOP — Voted Richard Pace permission to operate a coffee shop to be known as Rush House at his Rush Gallery, 267 Shoreline Highway, ruling it an accepted use on the property zoned light industrial.

Bearded Man Wins Coffee House Permit

A young businessman with beard and long hair will be allowed to establish a coffee house at 267 Shoreline Highway near Tamalpais Junction despite the lack of adequate parking spaces.

On the advice of County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, the Marin County Planning Commission decided yesterday that Richard Pace should be allowed to use an existing building for a coffee house because it is an accepted use on the property.

Werner von Gundell, chief of current planning, said the building, which has only four parking spaces, is a legally nonconforming use, and no additional parking can be required under the law.

Pace told commissioners he had tried to get more parking from Neil Martin, part owner of an adjacent shopping center. "Due to my beard and long hair, Mr. Martin just will not relate to me," complained Pace.

Pace said he has been operating the Rush Gallery at the site for 19 months and now wants to put in a coffee house called Rush House. He will serve only coffee and bakery goods and will have no organized entertainment.

Mrs. Kenneth Wishhart, who operates the Tamalpais Laundromat next to the proposed coffee house, complained before and after the vote that Pace's patrons are parking in the laundromat parking area.

Riders Get Wallet

Elizabeth Little of 861 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, told Corte Madera police she gave a ride to three youths yesterday from Mill Valley to the Corte Madera interchange on Highway 101, then found her wallet missing from the back seat of her car. The wallet held $10, a driver's license and 17 credit cards, she told police.

RUTHLESS, NOT MAD

Stalin's Daughter Explains Purges

NEW YORK (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva says her father Joseph Stalin "knew exactly what he was doing" when he carried out the bloody purges which shook the Soviet Union before World War II.

"My father was not mad, at least not in the 1930s," Mrs. Alliluyeva said in an interview Monday. "He was just ruthless.

"He knew that the party was filled with opposition to him, that people would move against him if they could. He simply destroyed all of the opposition with complete ruthlessness."

She said the purges Stalin ordered after World War II "had a different quality."

"Certainly in his last years he was a sick man," she said. "Was he mad? I don't know."

How does she view Soviet leaders other than Stalin?

She said former Premier Nikita Khrushchev "was a good man. Very ignorant. He tried so hard but in the end they pushed him out."

Commenting on Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, she said, "When you see that face you know he just can't succeed." She described Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist party, as "just a rude party bureaucrat. A nothing."

Mrs. Alliluyeva, 43, also held a news conference here yesterday introducing her second book "Only One Year."

She told reporters she now is at home in America and would like to be a student again "but not a teacher." She would like to become an American citizen but "it would do no good to apply now," she said.

"I once was a member of the Communist party and that would be against me," she explained. "Perhaps some day when everyone understands that I am not a Communist it will be possible."

"Only One Year" starts on Dec. 19, 1966 when Mrs. Alliluyeva left Moscow to take the ashes of her husband Brajesh Singh to India, having no plan to defect at that time. It describes her decision a few months later to stay in the non-Communist world and the aid she received from the U.S. Embassy in India. It ends one year later in Princeton, N.J., where she now lives.

Traffic Problem Is Cited At Elizabethan Faire

A suggestion that the annual Elizabethan Pleasure Faire, which is being held off North San Pedro Road, may have to be moved elsewhere because of the traffic problem it causes came today from the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"We should ask the department of public works and the county fire chief for their opinions as to whether we should permit the fair to be located there in future years," declared Chairman John F. McInnis.

He said he found traffic completely stopped for 45 minutes at a time, once on Saturday and twice on Sunday. "It would have been impossible to get an emergency vehicle to the densely populated Santa Venetia area."

The county fire department has a truck standing by at the fair site, but McInnis said he asked county Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom to station another truck in Santa Venetia on weekends for the rest of this month while the fair is going on.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said he was impressed with the efficient handling of the traffic problem during the times he visited the fair.

"I'm not criticizing their efficiency," replied McInnis. "It's just that we have only one two-lane road to the area."

McInnis said that the system used last year, where shuttle buses took patrons from the Civic Center parking lot to the fair site, might be one solution.

The supervisors asked the department of public works and the county fire chief to recommend some solution.

Hearing Is Held In Theft Of Cycle

A preliminary hearing was held yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court for Wesley Dennison, 18, of 53 Arlington Drive, Petaluma, who is charged with the theft of a motorcycle.

Dennison was released on his own recognizance and ordered to appear Sept. 29 at 1:30 p.m. to enter a plea. He is charged with stealing the motorcycle of Steven Bjork of San Pablo on Sept. 4 from Lee's Shell station where it was being repaired.

Picketing Ends On Waterfront

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Teamsters Union members, who had picketed for three days in defiance of a court order, were back at work today at the ports in San Francisco and Oakland.

The return to work came yesterday just a half hour before Judge Gerald Levin in Federal District Court was to rule on whether to make permanent a a temporary order against the picketing. The judge postpone a decision until Friday.

Picketing had started last Friday in a dispute over whether teamsters or longshoremen are to pack and unpack containers bound for overseas shipment.

Community TV Channel Action Asked

The Rohnert Park City Council last night asked Storer Cable Television to step up efforts to provide the community television channel that was promised a year ago.

Councilman Arthur N. Roberts said that when the council approved the cable television system last year, Storer had promised to deliver a community channel for the televising of local events of community interest.

Roberts said that the council still thinks highly of the proposed local channel and would like to see council meetings televised as well as school musicals and events like the Founder's Day celebration.

John Harper, representing Storer Cable Television, said the company is awaiting a ruling from the Federal Communications Commission on the legality of local channels. The council asked the company to move ahead with plans in the event the commission decision is favorable.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

PLAN FEES — Approved an agreement with the Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District for plan checking services.

UNDERGROUNDING — Delayed the introduction of an ordinance requiring total undergrounding of utility lines in new developments. The proposed ordinance is being studied by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

"WHERE SERVICE IS A MATTER OF PRIDE"

Bales Deplores Lack Of Attack Treatment

The case of a Novato mother of three who was raped yesterday and then refused immediate treatment by hospitals and doctors is "appalling," according to Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

"We haven't had trouble in this area before," said Bales, adding he intends to look into the situation. "If we are going to have difficulties, we'll have to work out some system for medical examination and treatment."

The 28-year-old wife of an Air Force sergeant serving in Vietnam told police she was bound and raped in her bedroom and then robbed early yesterday by two men.

After they left she called to her children to notify police.

Officers said they took her to Novato General Hospital where two doctors refused to examine her and then to Marin General where a private physician was finally persuaded to care for her after police convinced him his fee would be paid.

Milton Scott, administrator of Novato General Hospital, said it has a standing policy to refer rape victims to Marin General when there is "no physical state of emergency." Reportedly, the woman had only a cut on her nose.

Marin General's assistant administrator, Lawrence Malkin, said many doctors are reluctant to become involved in rape cases because of the possibility of time lost making court appearances.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said he did not think hospitals were required to perform tests to determine if a rape had been committed, though they are required to give medical treatment.

Don W. Sower, executive director of the Marin Medical Society, said he is looking into the case to determine whether the society has a responsibility in such cases.

Marijuana Raid Suspect Freed

Marijuana charges against Joel Anderson, 25, of Mendocino were dismissed yesterday in Marin Superior Court by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for lack of evidence.

He said he will decide on Sept. 29 whether to dismiss cases against two co-defendants, Jeffery Scott Meeler, 20, of Sausalito and Rodney John Shimmon, 36, of San Francisco.

The three were arrested Dec. 4 in a raid on a Sausalito apartment which police said contained 330 pounds of marijuana and equipment for making methamphetamine.

The first five books of the Old Testament are called the Torah by Jews .

Iowan Faces Auto Theft, Pot Counts

A 25-year-old Iowa man, reportedly driving a stolen car, was arrested early today by San Rafael police on suspicion of bringing marijuana into California, car theft and possession of marijuana.

Also booked on the same charges with John Lynn Portis of Sioux City was a feminine companion whom he said he picked up in Sausalito, Ethel Marie Wilson, 18, of Sacramento.

Police said they stopped the car about 12:45 today at the intersection of Woodland Avenue and Auburn Street because of a defective taillight.

Found in the car, which police said was stolen in Sioux City on Aug. 10, was a pouch of marijuana.

Portis told officers that the marijuana belonged to two friends whom he had given a ride when he found them hitchhiking.

He said the friends had a "large quantity of marijuana" with them which they were importing to California.

Portis and Miss Wilson were held today without bail for an appearance in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m.

Dump Operators Say They'll Fix Dikes

The threat of court action against San Quentin Disposal Site for polluting the bay has been dropped in the wake of an agreement by the dump operators to correct the problem.

Marin County Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said the agreement was reached this morning in a conference at the dump attended by himself, representatives of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board and Bruce Berhnard, solid waste consultant for the dump.

A break in the dike at the dump, which has allowed toxic wastes from rubbish to pollute the bay, has been repaired, Thomas reported. The remaining problem, water inside the dike polluted with highly odoriferous hydrogen sulfide, will be neutralized chemically this week and pumped out in about 10 days, he said.

Failure by the dump operators to carry out the agreement, Thomas noted, could revive consideration of legal action against the dump.

Two Injured As Cars Hit

Two Marin City men were injured slightly yesterday when their car was hit head-on by another on Cole Drive near Drake Avenue in Marin City, the California Highway Patrol said today.

David Townsel Jr., 22, of 99 Cole Drive was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised left elbow and George Armstead Gaines, 29, of 167 Drake Avenue apparently did not require hospital treatment.

The patrol said a car driven by Gussie Mae Blakey of 235 Drake Avenue collided with Gaines's car at 5:45 p.m. Mrs. Blakey was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

A Coed Tells What's Right In Campus Dress This Year

The understatement of the year from college girls on campus dress is brief. A-line and flared mini shirts, tighter fitting blouses and the simplest of skimpy dresses.

"You can spend $200 or more on a new wardrobe, but you will be accepted for you, so save your money for books and rent", advises Melanie Annin, College of Marin sophomore who was elected secretary to the Associated Students for the fall semester.

"THE RULE here at Marin is dress comfortably," says Melanie. "There is no fashion show among students on the College of Marin campus", she explains.

Ninety-nine per cent of the clothes you do see will fall into the category best described as inexpensive, functional and comfortable. Comfort for Melanie means short skirts that fall somewhere between micro and mini, because "I have long legs and do a lot of walking — they're just more comfortable".

"If your dress style is thrift shop renaissance, that's perfectly okay, if you stick to it. But, if you constantly change between the ultra mod dress and the wrinkled, slept-in-for-a-week hippie look, kids may wonder which is the real you", Melanie said.

THERE ARE no advantages she can think of to owning an expensive wardrobe. "Make-over, shorten and accessorize the clothes you have", she said. Students of this generation are quick to penetrate the clothes facade, and you'll be accepted on the basis of sincerity rather than the way you look, according to Melanie.

The uncertainty of dress rules by some students prompted the dean of students, Irwin P. Diamond, to ask the student officers to draft what they considered an appropriate guideline for dress for both men and women on the College of Marin campus. The first concern of the student officers, reflected in the report, was that students be permitted to dress in their own individual style and manner. The drafted and adopted rules state only that students dress within the legal boundaries of decency, and the new rules give the student a right to appeal if dress should become an issue.

ANY DIRECTION you look, on campuses from Berkeley to Columbia, you'll note the trend is to dress down in an understated, comfortable, be-very-very-free manner.

"The less constrictions the better", says Melanie, and students everywhere seem to agree.

However, there are still standards. An example would be the business student who words part-time in an office. Under those circumstances you adapt style of dress to the office situation. Students who must work to help support themselves often conform to a particular style of dress out of necessity. Another matter to consider is the type of class.

"If you go to ceramics lab twice a week you consider comfort and wear pants and sneakers to school on those days", Melanie explains.

MELANIE, 21, is totally self supporting, "with only a check or two from home for a birthday or special event now and then". She is working in the dean of student's office this semester, while carrying 14 units of credit. She worked during the summer months in the Woodlands restaurant in Kentfield, where she wore a waitress uniform. After working hours she assisted the student officers in preparing for the new semester. She shares an apartment close to the campus with another student.

Active in many phases of campus life, she served as the student representative to the college cabinet last year and editor of the Mariner, annual student literary magazine.

She regularly attends board of trustee meetings and speaks up for student interests on such matters as flood control through the campus and the need for financial aid for disadvantaged students.

THE ESSENTIALS then, for a basic wardrobe could be summed up, according to Melanie, as boots that are waterproof, an all-weather coat for the heavy rainy season, a few mini skirts, which you can sew yourself (she sews many of her own), blouses and sleeveless sweaters and perhaps a cardigan.

Melanie's shirts are bought in the men's shops, where "They're styled better and the colors are terrific, and often, they cost less", sandals, a pair of comfortable shoes of neutral color, scarves, belts and chains and the final and absolute must — a peace symbol.

"Concentrate totally on your studies and activities, and don't worry about what you're wearing", is Melanie's conclusive advice to the new girl on the college campus.

SAVE YOUR money for books and rent, advises College of Marin coed Melanie Annin, who says that girls' dress on campus is simple and comfortable. "The rule at Marin is dress comfortably, there is no fashion show . . ." says the secretary to the Associated Students.

Electronic Babysitter

HAMBURG, GERMANY (GF) — An electronically controlled "babysitter" was one of the prime attractions at a recent fair in Hamburg. It enables mothers to go about their work without constant concern when babies aren't in view.

The special electronic trigger is linked to an automatic cradle-rocking machine, a lamp and a radio-tape recorder. The trigger is touched off acoustically.

If baby awakens while mother is elsewhere, a single cry is enough to touch off the alarm: the radio-tape recorder begins playing a lullaby, the lamp goes on and the cradle starts rocking.

Three minutes later, the system shuts off automatically. If baby hasn't fallen back to sleep, but continues crying, the entire network is tripped off again.

A Crusade For Ordination

By LOIS VOSBURGH

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "This is my thing," says Betty Schiess, referring to her program to earn ordination as a clergyman in the Episcopal Church.

"No one can tell me this isn't my cause," she says. "Even my husband (Dr. William Schiess) says he is getting used to the idea of being a rector's wife, the dear."

MRS. SCHIESS is a student at Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, where she has completed her first year. "Although there have been other women enrolled, I believe that they were candidates for degrees in Christian Education and that I am the first to seek priesthood in the church," she says.

Soft spoken, with an exceptionally gentle manner, Mrs. Schiess, who has two sons in college and an 11 year-old daughter, does not fit the traditional picture of a crusader. But her decision to seek priesthood was based on a desire to attack discrimination against women in her church. The new crusade is a result of her involvement in the fight to obtain rights for Negroes.

"My husband and I spent a year in Algiers with the Medico program," she explains. "When we came back to this country, we returned with the determination to do something about the plight of the Negro. We have taken part in many of the marches and demonstrations in the South, including Selma, Ala., and Jackson, Miss."

CHURCH Crusader . . . Mrs. William Schiess, who is pushing for equality of women in the Episcopal Church, is attending divinity school in the hope of becoming a priest.

"I STILL believe in better opportunities for the Negro people," she says, "but I am even more committed to the cause for equality for women in the church."

Dr. and Mrs. Schiess were early workers for the integrated program within the Episcopal church, leaving a suburban parish and joining the parish of Grace Episcopal Church here when the Rev. Walter Welsh started his inner-city program.

"In working within the church, I found that women are more discriminated against than the Negores," Mrs. Schiess declares. "I think this is equally true in many other Protestant churches, but in our church, there is a difference. In other churches, it was apt to be "de facto" discrimination. In our church, it is a matter of church law.

"I think the place of women in the Episcopal Church is far worse than that of any minority group today. We can't vote. Canon law prevents us from entering the priesthood and blocks us from participation in the liturgy as lay readers. Women can become deaconesses but cannot serve communion."

OBVIOUSLY, CANON law could not be challenged unless some woman was properly qualified, she points out. This meant literal soul-searching. "I had to decide first whether or not I really wanted to become a spiritual leader of the church, then find out if I could meet the academic requirements."

Although she is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, with a master's degree from Syracuse University, the course in divinity school presents a challenge to the 46-year-old woman. She commutes to Rochester daily during the college year and this past summer fulfilled her clinical requirements by serving in the local Y-MED program for pregnant teen-age girls.

Her first year's average was "satisfying." "I was even more pleased to be elected secretary of the class, because it meant the other seminarians, almost all young enough to be my sons, accepted me," she adds.

Mrs. Schiess has yet to be made a Postulant for Holy Orders, but her future looks promising. The Rt. Rev. George W. Barrett, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester, recently spoke in London saying, "If we reject the proposal to ordain women, we had better be very, very careful of telling the world anything about racial discrimination."

AN ACTIVE member of NOW (National Organization of Women) she does not take part in either leftist or activist women's rights groups. "I feel that they are beyond me," she says. "They are talking about things like abolishing marriage, which I am not ready to accept."

Frozen Fruit

Freeze nectarines like peaches with sugar to preserve shape and texture, as well as flavor. Packed plain or in water, fruits tend to become limp when thawed. Sugar increases their firmness and reduces moisture loss.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

What To Tell The Jokers Who'll Say He Married His Sister

DEAR HELEN:

Have been going with Cindy for three years, and we want to get married when I am out of the service.

But last week my mother and her father got married. They met through us, but we didn't think it was serious. Not that we don't all like each other. We get along fine. But what do you say to these jokers who kid me about marrying my own sister! — NO RELATION

DEAR NO:

DEAR HELEN:

I missed my graduation because of a terrible mistake. I was pregnant, but the boy ran away when he heard. Later I lost the baby. I'll never forgive myself or forget.

I swore I would never fall in love again, and I didn't date for three years. Then I met this wonderful 34-year-old man at work. There are two problems. He is 14 years older than me, and has a wife and three children. He says he is very unhappy and hopes to get a divorce. We see each other whenever we can, and we're talking marriage.

Do you think I'd be taking on too much! — ONCE BURNED

DEAR ONCE BURNED:

Remember the end of that adage: "Twice cautious!" I think you may be expecting too much. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please would you tell us again how to get foreign pen pals? — E.F.

DEAR E:

Send 35 cents, your name; address, sex, age, and country-preference to World Pen Pals, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., 55455. Good luck — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What use is it to have good and thoughtful opinions on politics, prejudice, etc. if only your friends listen to them, but grown-ups laugh at you? My parents think the reason I liked Bobby Kennedy was because he was cute. When I finally broke through the kidding and told my dad all about the things Mr. Kennedy stood for, he backed off a little, but not much.

The adult attitude is 'what do you know — you're only 14?" Well, I know a lot more than the generalizations they put out. Even if I can't vote, study the candidates and don't just take what somebody rumors about them.

My history teacher says that evey man has prejudice in him. I guess he's right, but I think I lost a lot of mine in the fourth grade. A new girl in school had a funny southern accent and looked different, so I immediately didn't like her. The next day some kids were throwing rocks and she got hit, almost losing her eye. When she came back to school, the kids all tried extra hard to make it up to her and I found out she was one of the nicest girls I'd ever met — because I made an effort to know her. Every time I jump to conclusions now, I think about this girl.

About the black and white business: In the middle of a riot, if everyone turned white, they'd keep right on rioting, wouldn't they? — NOT LISTENED TO

DEAR NOT:

Your parents and other adults are making a big mistake when they don't listen to thoughtful teens such as you. They could learn a lot! — H.

Children's Shoes

Experts advise that when purchasing shoes for children, have both feet measured and the larger one fitted. Proper measurement is done with the foot up on the fitting stool and the leg at a right angle. Make sure the salesman holds the child's food down while measuring, says Jane Speece, textiles and clothing expert at the University of Nebraska extension service.

Strawberries

Sugared strawberries form their own juice syrup and so can be frozen with dry sugar to preserve their shape, color, and flavor. Spread washed and hulled, sliced berries in a shallow dish. Sprinkle with ¾ cup of sugar per quart of berries; stir gently. When juicy, pack in ontainers and freeze.

Clean Marble

To clean marble, mix soft soap and whiting to a thin paste and apply with a soft brush. Let stand until dry and wash off with lukewarm suds.

Paint Splatters

Try placing a paper plate under a paint can instead of the usual newspaper to prevent splatters. The plate can be moved around easily.

Corte Madera Rejects Northridge Proposal

Corte Madera Town Council last night turned thumbs down on Mill Valley's major street plan for the Northridge area development.

The plan would wind a major street along the ridgeline between Corte Madera and Mill Valley to emerge on Corte Madera Avenue.

The council agreed with its planning commission that traffic anticipated from the Ridge Street would overload Corte Madera Avenue, the street winding down to downtown Corte Madera.

The council ordered a letter sent to the Mill Valley Planning Commission expressing concern over the traffic and declaring the plan inacceptable to Corte Madera. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said the street could be re-routed so it joins Camino Alto, on the Mill Valley side of the hill.

The council also approved introduction of an ordinance to ban conduct "adverse to public welfare" on public property. Suggested by the park and recreation commission and based on a new county ordinance, it would ban destruction of property, uprooting plants, "sleeping or protracted lounging" which blocks public ways and several other specified acts. The ordinance also bars golfing, using motorized vehicles and flying motorized model planes in Town Park.

Preparatory motions toward another bout with the Bay Conservation and Developemnt Commission were made when the council told Usher to resubmit the town's plan for the westshore development, which calls for a golf course, marina and similar uses on the Muzzi property east of Highway 101. BCDC has never ruled whether the plan is acceptable.

The action came after the council read a letter from the BCDC chairman explaining the commission's vote against a development plan for the Burke property immediately north of westshore.

Councilman Byron D. White called the BCDC rejection an "assumption of local zoning" because it banned warehousing on the Burke land.

BCDC claims control over nearly all the Burke property as part of the bay, although it is marshland rather than open water at all but very high tides.

Usher said the westshore case may force the BCDC to consider some basic policy decisions it has never tackled as to its jurisdiction and future actions.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

EMPLOYEE — Set a hearing at 7:35 p.m. next Monday on a appeal by Gerald D. Fries, police patrolman discharged Thursday by Usher.

CORPORATION YARD — Approved a landscaping plan for the town corporation yard.

NAME — Approved renaming the lower section of Presidio Avenue Manzanita Court. The two parts of Presidio are not connected and the joint name led to confusion, Usher said.

BICYCLES — Postponed discussion of the county bicycle paths plan until Oct. 20.

SLIDE — Awarded a contract for correction of a street slide at 5116 Paradise Drive to Maggiora and Ghilotti, Inc., low bidder at $8,520. Sole other bid was $13,369 from Ghilotti Brothers, Inc.

DRAINAGE — Awarded a contract for installation of storm drains under Tamalpais Drive to Ghilotti Brothers, Inc., low bidder at $17,828. Sole other bid was $21,097 from Maggiora and Ghilotti, Inc.

PROBATION — Told Usher to draft an ordinance amendment changing the probation period for new town employees to a year instead of six months.

CITY-COUNTY — Endorsed a statement by the City-County Services Committee outlining how to costs of programs benefitting only inincorporated areas could be shifted from incorporated areas, and agreed to ask the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen to push for rapid establishment of a county service police protection area.

TRUCKS — Went on record opposing a congressional bill to raise weight and length limits for trucks in interstate commerce.

CRUSADE — Endorsed the United Bay Area Crusade fund drive.

Firm Plans Permit Revocation Appeal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — McPhail's Inc. of San Rafael will appeal to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors on the revocation of its use permit on a sand and gravel operation in Alexander Valley, northeast of Healdsburg.

The use permit had been revoked by the Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments after a two-hour hearing Thursday night. The appeal has been filed at the supervisors office, but no hearing date has been set as yet.

Attorney Carlton Spridgen, representing property owners in the vicinity of the operation, said the rock crusher used at the site was a violation of the permit that called for a portable crusher. Spridgen contended that the crusher put into use was far from portable.

The attorney said the operation was endangering the health and safety of persons in the neighborhood and had become a nuisance over the years. Spridgen said that noise, dust and smoke as well as increase truck traffic was objectionable to his clients.

Francis Passalacqua, Healdsburg attorney representing McPhail's said the quarry served a good purpose in reducing the dangers of floods in the valley. He said the crusher was, indeed, portable and could be moved in a matter of hours.

He also said that the company had saved the county $3,000 this year by bidding below other firms for construction projects. Paul Zuefelt, plant manager, said that the company has a large payroll and contended that dust caused by the plant was not excessive.

Marijuana Raid Charges Changed Over Informer

Charges of possessing marijuana for sale brought earlier against two young Muir Beach men were dismissed yesterday in Marin Superior Court when the district attorney's office refused to disclose the name of the informant in the case.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas agreed to allow Jeffrey James Morse, 22, and William Mansfield Graham, 19, to plead guilty to possession of LSD when he learned the informant would have to be named if the case were to go to trial.

The offense was declared a misdemeanor and the youths were placed on one year probation by Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Morse and Graham were arrested in a raid Feg. 19 on their Sunset Way home. Agents said they believed the men were volume marijuana dealers who specialized in selling the weed in large quantities.

Bike Path Session

The Sausalito Planning Commission will study a proposed amendment to the Marin County Parks and Recreation plan on future development of a county network of bicycle paths at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow in the conference room at city hall.

DRAMA REVIEW

Good Try At Topical Immediacy

NEW YORK (AP) — A Madison Avenue advertising man provides off-Broadway with some funny-fierce drama in "The Ofay Watcher" that premiered last night at Stage 73 Playhouse.

Frank Cucci tells a fable of Negro-white encounter several notches better than many of the attempts to deal with the theater's favorite issue of topical immediacy. A good first play.

In the beginning, Cucci decoys attention with a farcical meeting between a slang-slinging drifter and an intent young park stroller who turns out to be a chemist with a formula for altering skin pigmentation.

"How can there be a color problem if everyone is the same color?" he argues. At the moment, having tested the potion on mice and fish, he is seeking the first human volunteer. Or is he? The first clue that this is not to be just a sustained vaudeville of hippie-world comment has been dropped, but the audience won't realize that until much later.

It isn't, in fact, until well after the third character has joined the interracial pair amid the slapdash decor of life in Manhattan's East Village, that Cucci swivels the charade from mirth to menace, from flippancy to ferocity.

Much of the turnabout effectiveness can be credited to the threesome's skill in shifting with the multiple moods through which the dialogue flits. The players are Cleavon Little, the man of changing color; Terry Kiser, the man with the secret prescription, and Billie Allen, his Negro amour who catalyzes the ultimate explosion.

The taut pacing of the long one-acter was engineered by Jerry Adler, with Dahl Delu providing the authentic atmosphere in Stage 73's awkward proscenium area.

The bands and other entertainers will appear on three stages, one at Bolinas Road and Elsie Lane, one near the Redwood Grove and the third in the ball park.

Admission to the festival is free and all performers will appear without compensation.

At 4 p.m. Water and Bicycle, rock bands; 5 p.m. Sounds Unlimited, rhythm and blues, and Flaming Groovies, rock.

Sunday's schedule includes a pancake breakfast beginning at 7:30 a.m. and the bicycle races at 9 a.m. Entertainment includes, at 10 a.m., the No Name; noon, Dirty Rug and Rom, rock bands; 1 p.m. Devil's Kitchen, rock, 12th Naval District Band;

At 2 p.m., Water, rock; Buzzin Boots, square dancers; A. B. Skhy rock, and Shades of Joy;

At 4 p.m., Thompson Brothers; Scottish Dancers and Bea Blum's variety; Sounds Unlimited; 5 p.m. Water, Mendebaum and Bycycles, rock bands.

Other bands have also indicated they may perform, with an announcement expected later this week.

The art show to be held in the pavilion has been judged, with the jury accepting only 27 of 119 entries, festival officials reported.

Prizes of $50 each went to Richard Waters, acrylic and water color; Orene Neal, graphics, and John Fitzmaurice, mosaic. No prizes were given in the oil and mixed media categories.

Awards of merit went to Tony Williams and Robert S. Titus for acrylics and to Jack Schneider and Ludvig Limberger for graphics.

A non-juried show will b eheld in the Redwood Grove and a children's art exhibit and art-in-action booths on the path between the grove and the pavilion.

Still needed to round out the festival plans are volunteers for the information booth to work in hour shifts Saturday and Sunday, according to publicity chairman Priscilla Gray. Persons interested may contact her at 126 Ridge Road, Fairfax.

Seminarian To Lead Vote Lowering Age Drive

By ALAN JONES

The vote for 18-year-olds has become a political football in Sacramento, a San Anselmo seminary student charges, so a campaign is now being organized to put the question before California voters in the 1970 general election.

Circulation of initiative petitions will start once enough volunteer workers have been enlisted, said Norman E. Leach of San Francisco Theological Seminary. To put the vote question on the ballot, 522,000 valid signatures of voters must be gathered in 150 days from the time the campaign starts.

Leach claimed the issue in the California Legislature has become tied to party politics — Democrats for lowering voting age and Republicans against.

"When things as important as this . . . become partisan issues and the merits are not discussed, it's time for the public to step in and take it out of the hands of the politicians," he said.

Leach is closely connected with the generation most concerned. He is president of the Student World Federalists, and runs the Third Rail Coffee House at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

The Assembly Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee shelved a measure to put the proposal on the 1970 ballot, but is continuing to study it during the interim. Leach testified before the committee in San Francisco last week, along with San Rafael High School students Lee Harris and Chris Smith.

The federalists, he told the committee, believe all have a right to take part in a government which "makes demands of them and their lives and futures."

Pamphlets, which Leach hands out freely, list several reasons for lowering the voting age. Among them:

Several million people between 18 and 21 are married and have established homes, but have no vote.

Servicemen and women can perform military duties, but cannot vote.

NORMAN E. LEACH
Seeks 18-year-old vote

When the country was founded, many Americans were illiterate and few had attended high school. Today, most Americans are high school graduates at 18, and most know more about their world than adults did in past eras.

Leach told of the formation last February of the Youth Franchise Coalition, a group of organizations working nationwide to lower the voting age. Member groups include Americans for Democratic Action, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Student Association and some thirty other groups.

Referendums on lowering the voting age will be on the ballot this fall in Ohio and New Jersey, and in 1970 in Alaska, Hawaii, Minnesota, Connecticut, Montana, Nebraska, Maine, Oregon, Massachusetts and Wyoming.

Four states have already lowered voting age below 21 — Georgia and Kentucky to 18, Alaska to 19 and Hawaii to 20. The coming votes in Alaska and Hawaii would lower the age to 18.

Legislation is now in process in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Nevada for referendums in 1970.

The petitions in California, Leach said, will be started in last October or early November. Circulators must be registered voters, which oddly enough throws the fate of the youth vote into the hands of those already 21 and enfranchised.

Leach is confident the campaign will succeed if organization is good enough. An earlier petition drive this summer fizzled because some counties were not organized, he said.

A poll has shown a majority in California favors lowering the voting age, and Leach said several people who oppose the idea have told him they will sign the petitions anyway, to give the public a chance to vote on the question.

Anyone wanting to work in the campaign or to contribute to the campaign fund, Leach said, should get in touch with him in care of Student World Federalists, San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

DOWNTOWN'S OUTLOOK

Nearing Exodus Brings No Panic

By JOANNE GRANT

The peculiar charisma downtown San Rafael has for its businessmen is alive and well today, despite the impending departure of more than 600 persons from the daily scene.

The 600, the 358 employees and a conservative estimate of 200 to 300 persons generated daily by the courthouse and other downtown county offices, will be leaving next month, if the latest Hall of Justice moving date doesn't change.

Only a few businessmen, chiefly restaurateurs, believe it will affect them directly, but most feel the move will be bad for others.

On the other hand, almost every businessman interviewed in a random sampling on Fourth Street indicted hope that something would be done soon to develop the site, though none believed its vacancy would lower property values.

On that point, Marin Clunty Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell disagrees. "It's obviously going to be a black eye to downtown San Rafael," he said.

Mitchell predicted "a significant impact on taxes in San Rafael and all of Marin County" if the property is left vacant. And, he said, "it will really do a lot of damage to property values in San Rafael."

But businessmen, many of whom have been here for decades, don't foresee even a drop in their own revenues.

"We don't get an awful lot of walk-in trade," explained Tom McGruder Jr., indicating most of that men's clothing store business is from regular customers.

"We have lots of customers who prefer to shop in downtown San Rafael," said the assistant manager of a major department store who doesn't believe people who come downtown to pay a traffic fine spend much money.

He and several other merchants said they would be better able to calculate economic effects some time after the move.

Walter Zurcher of the San Rafael Toy Shop, who fears the empty "haunted house" will be "psychologically depressing" nevertheless maintains downtown San Rafael "still has by far the biggest selection of assorted services and retail stores. I think it's going to stay that way."

And that assessment was echoed by several other businessmen.

Leon J. Netboy, like many specialty shop owners, said he believes people come directly to his shoe store rather than coming downtown for something else and dropping in.

Several businessmen indicated it would be impossible to gauge the number of persons who come to their stores from the courthouse but noted there is a definite noon time influx from somewhere.

Carl Schwartz, another men's clothing store operator, believes the mass departure will be most noticeable. "There's no question about it. Once you take people off the street, they're not going to come in."

Anyone who doesn't think that way is naive, Schwartz said flatly. "The whole Fourth Street will miss it."

However, Schwartz said he doesn't think the property will be empty long. "It would reflect on them (county and city officials) more than the Fourth Street merchants," he maintained.

George T. Lawrence, manager of Lachman Brothers and another who believes there will be a definite economic effect, said merchants who are not concerned are not "because they've never been hurt."

He pointed out that eventually Northgate and Greenbrae shopping centers will have the kind of diversification that San Rafael now enjoys.

Restaurants generally seem most likely to feel the impact.

The manager of the Courthouse Creamery said he foresees a 5 to 10 per cent drop in business but added, "I'm not going to worry about it."

He said everyone had been worried when Montgomery Ward moved from downtown San Rafael several years ago but it hadn't made any difference.

Other restaurants who reported heavy courthouse related traffic at noon indicated the move is bound to affect that but saw no change in dinner business.

Several merchants have definite ideas about how the Courthouse Square should be developed, but agree that anything that went in would bolster the downtown area.

The most frequent suggestion was for a shop complex and parking. Thomas McGruder Sr. proposed three stories of parking with a mall-type shopping area on top, shared on a cooperative basis by many merchants.

HUB FESTIVAL SET TO OPEN TOMORROW

The third annual fall festival sponsored by the San Anselmo parks and recreation department and more than 20 local organizations will open at 6 p.m. tomorrow at Memorial Park in San Anselmo.

Twenty-one organizations have signed up for game, food and drink booths, and rides will be provided by the Foley-Burke carnival.

The festival proceeds will go for the city's tot lot program. More than $2,000 was raised last year, festival director Frank L. Quinn said.

The festival will be held from 6 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow through Friday, and from 11 a.m., to 10:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Novato Asked For Autumn Cleanup Days

The Novato City Beautification Committee last night voted to recommend to the city council that the city hold a fall cleanup campaign on Oct. 11, 18 and 25, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

It will also recommend that the city charge 50 cents per load of debris taken to the pickup area or Rowland Boulevard in Scottsdale, according to Brown. The city will use only the one area this fall instead of several as it did during the spring cleanup campaign.

The city can't afford the cost of the pickup, so the committee is recommending a charge, he said. During the spring campaign, the city paid $3,600 for the six days of free pickup.

The committee is recommending that the pickup be made only on Saturday the 50-cent charge will almost defray the $685 per day which the disposal company will charge for two trucks, Brown said.

The fall campaign will be for regular cleanup and such items as furniture and large appliances will not be accepted.

Novato volunteer firemen have offered to man the pickup area during the three Saturdays, Brown said. The beauification committee will contact the service clubs, garden clubs and 4-H clubs to help in the three-day campaign, he said.

Suspects Booked On Auto Theft

Victoria Ann Wilson, 19, of Forrest Knolls, and Richard Sheldon Knowles, 18, of 49 Delores Street, San Rafael, were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft, the California Highway Patrol said today.

They were held in lieu of $1,200 bail each for arraignments in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

The patrol said they were stopped in a Volkswagen bus reported stolen from San Francisco Sunday after the vehicle was observed tailgating on Highway 101, then hitting a traffic island at the Lucas Valley Road offramp.

Knowles told the patrol he knew Miss Wilson, who was driving, but was just a hitchhiker, the patrol said.

Vote Contests Set In Eight Districts

There will be elections in eight special districts in Marin Nov. 4 as the result of a last-day flurry of filing by candidates yesterday.

By the 5 p.m. deadline, 70 candidates had filed for 53 posts in 25 districts, reported Peter C. Meyer, county election officer.

In 17 districts, there weren't enough candidates to require an election.

Where the number of candidates falls short of the number of vacant seats, the Marin County Board of Supervisors will fill the vacancies by appointment before Nov. 4, Meyer explained.

One seat on the Marin City Community Services District Board has already changed hands because the incumbents, Douglas J. Quiett, Alvin C. Bynum and Orpha E. Barnes failed to file for reelection.

The lone candidate for the Marin City CSD is C. J. Williams. Meyer said that supervisors must appoint Williams since he filed, and this will leave only two seats open.

Supervisors will have to fill vacancies in five districts, while candidates equal vacancies in 12 districts.

The Muir Beach Community Services District also plans to have a ballot measure to expand powers of the district to include recreation, roads and ditch maintenance.

Districts in which elections will be held are:

Richardson Bay Sanitary District — (six for three seats) Alfred O. Pratesi, Stanley G. Bennett and Kurtis T. Webb, incumbents, Eber D. Russell, George B. Szabo and Henry C. Whitescarver.

Truck Owner Stops Pair With Shovel

Two hitchhikers who apparently tired of thumbing rides yesterday wound up as prisoners of an irate, shovel wielding owner, who accused them of stealing his pickup truck.

Thomas J. Palmer, a 29-year-old equipment operator working at Lincoln Avenue near the Highway 101 offramp in San Rafael saw two men carrying bedrolls and a guitar, get out of a northbound car shortly before 5:30 p.m.

He watched as Ezequiel Antonio Palacios, 23, of Paramount (Los Angeles County), and Robert Landis Frank, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., started to thumb a ride.

A few minutes later, Palmer said he spotted the two men, Frank at the wheel, driving up Lincoln Avenue in his truck that had been parked closeby.

Palmer, who lives at 2223 Center Road, Novato, grabbed a shovel and took off in pursuit. Overtaking the truck, he subdued both Palacios and Frank, using the shovel on both, and held them until the police arrived moments later.

They were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of auto theft and held in lieu of $1,200 bail. Only an hour before their arrest, the hitchhikers had been seen carrying a gallon jug of wine and scuffling on Freitas Parkway near Los Gamos, Police had poured out the wine and sent them on their way.

Tam Valley Theft

Two television sets and a tape recorder, total value $1,305, were taken Sunday from the home of Fred C. Bisko of 235 Princeton Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, sheriff's deputies said today. The thief removed a glass pane in a door to enter the house.

WATCH YOUR GRANT AVENUE PARKING LIMIT

The two-hour parking limit in downtown Novato, especially on Grant Avenue, will be enforced in the future, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

For many years the Novato Police Department has not enforced the parking because of the police load and the lack of personnel, the chief said. In the current budget, the council authorized the hiring of a police cadet who will enforce the two-hour parking limit, DiGrazia said.

The public has become used to non enforcement of the limit, hence this warning, the chief said.

Ross Burglary Sentence Set

Curtis Lynn Ross, 18, of San Rafael admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he was an accessory after the fact to a burglary of a Ross home April 7.

Judte Joseph G. Wilson sentenced him to serve three months in Marin County Jail concurrently with a sentence he is serving for an earlier burglary conviction.

Still facing a burglary charge from the Ross case is another San Rafael youth, Michael Vincent St. Martin, also 18.

Special Session

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district offices to award the contract for laying of the Wharf Road pipeline, district secretary Jane Phillips said today.

SALIN SLAPPED

A Dressing Down Over Skinnydipping

Lothar Salin, chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, took a sharp dressing down from the Marin County Board of Supervisors this morning for suggesting a separate beach for undressed bathers.

"People in District One (San Rafael area) are not only offended but furious," declared board chairman John F. McInnis. "The chairman of a committee of that importance should think first before recommending that we conduct an illegal activity because public nudity is still illegal. . . ."

"I ask that the chairman of the commission be a little more thoughtful before expressing himself on matters not within the area of interest of county recreation."

Target of the attack was Salin's statement made at last Wednesday's meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, when he suggested the county look around "gingerly" for some beach, perhaps on a private ranch, where nude bathing would be allowed. Salin reasoned that the skinnydipping fad is growing so rapidly that it might be more logical to provide a separate beach rather than trying to stem the tide by mass arrests.

"It was an irresponsible statement," added Supervisor Louis H. Baar. "If Mr. Salin knew the problems in my district like San Geronimo Valley, he wouldn't have said that."

Supervisor Michael Wornum said he thinks Salin — who was not present today — had a right to express his opinion. On skinnydipping in general, Wornum observed: "I don't know why we get excited about it because with the type of bikinis we have now, it leaves so little to the imagination that exposing a few more inches wouldn't make much difference."

McInnis said he is especially critical because the comment came from an official of a county agency. "It can't help but be taken as an invitation for nude bathers to come to Marin." McInnis said the sheriff and the district attorney have enough problems already trying to police areas like Muir and Stinson Beaches. "Quite unintentionally, Mr. Salin has added to the serious problem."

"If they want to do it (bathe in the nude), they should join some private club," added Baar.

Overall School Picture Reason For Resignation

Sausalito Planning Commissioner Murray Smith said today he is not resigning his post because of the hiring of black educator Sidney F. Walton Jr. as principal of Martin Luther King School but because of the general situation of the schools in the Sausalito district.

"It has nothing whatsoever to do with Mr. Walton," Smith said. "It does depend to a great extent on what is happening in that school district, but it does not depend on any one individual."

Smith, in a letter to Sausalito Mayor Earl F. Dunphy said he had moved his family to Mill Valley. The primary reason, he said, "is the situation in our public school district."

He termed the district's present programs a "sociological experiment on the part of a few individuals at the expense of the learning process for all children involved."

Two hundred feet of lumber valued from $80 to $100 was stolen Sunday from a new home under construction belonging to the Ham Construction Co., at the end of Graceland Drive, San Rafael, police reported.

The Courthouse Square As A Revenue Producer

The importance of the sales tax in the support of San Rafael's municipal services is appreciated by relatively few residents.

For the fiscal year ended last June 30, the City of San Rafael had a budget of just over $4 million. And for that fiscal year, the city's share of the sales tax was $1,454,144. Thus, the tax paid well over a third of all the costs of city government and municipal services.

Still less appreciated is the share of the downtown section in producing that revenue. In the last fiscal year, the Northgate Shopping Center produced about 15 per cent of the sales tax. The rest came principally from downtown and Francisco Boulevard.

THESE FIGURES help explain the importance of what happens to Courthouse Square in terms of San Rafael's future. Desirable development of this block in the heart of the city can give a shot in the arm to the business section that produces a major share of sales tax revenue. Conversely, if the square lies idle or is put to a use which does not benefit the downtown, the city may face declining sales tax revenue — and consequently, major increases in a tax rate that at 86 cents per $100 assessed valuation is among the lowest in the county.

It is not surprising that, in view of this, there is a strong tendency to regard the future of Courthouse Square solely from the standpoint of its commercial development.

Merely building stores on the square will do little for the downtown —and for the residents and taxpayers —however. It is necessary that whatever is put there generate visitors to the extent that such downtown spending formerly was generated by county offices.

EVER SINCE the county decided to sell the block, there has been talk of development in the terms of a major department store and/or high-rise offices and apartment buildings. The city has insisted—rightly, we believe—that the square must not be covered with commercial buildings but must retain open, park-like areas. The aim is for a development that will do more than just make a few cash registers ring.

So far, no developer has come forward with an offer that fits the conditions. Right now, high interest rates and consequent "tight money" make the likelihood of such an offer appear rather remote.

Architect Robert W. F. Severin has proposed that the city locate its recreation center on the square—a use for part of the block that would help generate downtown traffic. Robert A. Roumiguiere, chairman of the courthouse square committee appointed by Marin County supervisors, has gone farther and suggested that part of the courthouse annex be retained, at least temporarily, for recreation center use.

MEANTIME, HOWEVER, the chance of an advantageous development hinges on parking. The City of San Rafael, regardless of who eventually buys the square and what eventually is built there, needs to get busy on planning for underground parking which will be necessary if the courthouse block is to be devoloped to "save the downtown."

The engineering studies and plans should be made, so that if and when development is agreed upon, the parking can be installed.

Keep Hills Alive With Music

"The Marin hills are alive with the sound of music."

That is the slogan adopted by the Marin Symphony Guild for its 1969-70 membership campaign, now under way.

The guild keeps "the hills alive with music" through sponsorship of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, Marin Youth Orchestra, Workshop for Strings, and Music for Minors. It also has a memorial scholarship program for music students.

For 18 years the Marin Symphony Guild has played an important part in Marin cultural life. It deserves support in its current campaign.

Don't Trust The State Report When You Buy That New Lot

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Reagan administration's cult of rugged individualism, which translates into some rugged economies in state services, now requires buyers in new subdivisions to be their own geologists.

State law requires a subdivider carving land into five or more lots to get a safety certificate from the state Division of Mines and Geology attesting to the probability that the lots will not collapse into a common heap.

Subdividers like to use these state reports to promote their sales efforts, implying that state geologists have checked the subdivision and judged it safe.

THE TROUBLE is that the state has only one geologist working on certification of the safety of new subdivisions. And he has a staggering workload of processing five subdivisions a day, so he almost never gets out of his office to visit the sites. As a result, he doesn't always know even their precise location.

As explained recently by Ian Campbell, director of the division: "All we can do is look at a topographic map and wave the red flag if something is obviously wrong. These reports have a lot of vague language because the division simply doesn't have the time to check out the applications."

Campbell also told the state Mining and Geology Board that subdivision maps do not match very well with geologic maps because the subdivision maps refer to streets which don't even exist yet.

Board chairman Philip R. Bradley of Berkeley suggested requiring subdividers to supply air photos, but Campbell responded that the Reagan administration has ordered even further cuts in division funds.

So, before you set out to check your lot, at least you'll need a hammer.

YOU MAY HAVE noticed on visits to San Diego that the bay there is twice as clean as San Francisco Bay — or only half as polluted.

But if the Vietnam War were to end, the seriousness of the problem would double, the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration warns. The reason for the threat is that 19,000 men would be on ships expected to be assigned to San Deigo after the war, creating an awful lot of untreated sewage waste to be dumped overboard raw.

The same sort of problem would hit San Francisco Bay, where the Navy also is a chief cause of pollution.

Control of pollution, of course, would be far cheaper than continuing the war.

SPEAKING of the Navy and vacations, we are reminded of the disgraceful way in which the Navy maintains a major national monument — the battleship Missouri at Bremerton, Wash. The historical "surrender deck" is kept with such little pride that a visitor wonders which side surrendered.

Council Should Represent People

For those who have forgotten — A city council is representative of the people and the council through its representation supposedly is acting in the best interest of the local residents. The Fairfax City Council evidently does not realize this power and trust that has been vested in them. I am referring to the prolonged "Short Stop Caper." How strange — that the council does not enforce its decisions and the city attorney seems confused as to certain legalities! I wonder just where the "power" lies in Fairfax? Come on now — what necessary shopping does one have to do after 11 p.m.?

I have had occasion to sit with George Weddleton's children while he and his wife were donating their services to charitable organizations. In a residential area the nights should be serene for complete rest of body and mind. Each time I was about to "doze," the screeching of brakes, car doors slamming and loud voices shouting would, of course, awaken me. Oh, how the night sounds carry!

Dear Fairfax City Council — you represent us — why not be "representative" of us? Shopping after 11 p.m.?

Column Inaccurate On Harris's Role

I don't dispute the right of your reporter, Larry Hatfield, to hold opinions contrary to mine or to express them in print. But I do object to use of inaccurate information.

Neither of my sons, whom he mistakenly quotes as having told me to "cool it," has done any such thing. I asked the boys if they were the source of the information, and I found that neither had talked with Mr. Hatfield. I think it is very unfortunate to air a non-existent family quarrel for public consumption. And as a matter of elementary fact, I haven't "cooled" it; he wrote on Friday that I had, but on Thursday night I expressed myself vigorously and with candor. I am prepared to be called "a former liberal" or any other name rather than be silent when a teacher, white or black, tells children to divide themselves along racial lines. My children have not formed their friendships on that basis, and I trust they will never obey adult instructions to do so . . .

Spaying Clinic For Cats Proposed

I am in complete agreement with Mrs. (Helena) Franklin (I-J., Sept. 11) regarding the cat problem except for one thing. It is true that many people just do not have the $30 to $35 to have their female cat spayed.

I have discussed this problem with many people. An idea came up that it might be possible for the Humane Society to hold a "spaying clinic." It certainly seems to me the Humane Society takes in enough money for stray dogs, $10 and up a head and $10 to adopt one, to help with this problem. They certainly spend enough money putting kittens asleep.

Even a more feasible idea came up. If one vet spent all day just spaying cats (assembly-line type of thing) he certainly could charge less per cat.

It is a very terrible thing for people to keep female cats and send litter after litter to the Humane Society where most of them get put to sleep. There must be something done about it. I might be wrong about this or it may just be gossip but I was told they put 1,000 cats to sleep one month.

Maybe a birth control pill for cats?

Constitution Week: Time To Remember

This week, Sept. 17 through 23, is Constitution Week, by proclamation of the President of the United States. This is a time for all citizens, particularly our young citizens, to study the Constitution and to evaluate the ideals of our Founding Fathers as set forth in this immortal document.

It is human nature to take an inheritance for granted; to accept it as a matter of course, to deem it unnecessary to defend that which others have fought for, that it might be ours. And so, with many voices raised in criticism of American institutions, American traditions and American ideals, few think it worth while to call attention to the incalculable value of these institutions, traditions and ideals. How is a new generation to learn that there is anything worthwhile in them? What is of more priceless value than the national ideals and traditions which have given this nation its proud place in history? Yet how little thought the average man or woman gives to this most vital of all questions affecting the most precious things in life! . . .

Institutions, governments, do not preserve thamselves. They can be preserved only by the vigilance of those to whose guardianship they have been committed. . .

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Sept. 16, 1959

San Anselmo City Council voted to let residents decide at the polls whether the city should have a city manager, city administrator or mayor-council government.

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 16, 1949

Col. Fremont S. Tandy, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, said Tomales Bay could be developed into a harbor of refuge for big coastwise ships as well as small craft.

Joe's Village Patio in Corte Madera advertised a New York cut steak dinner at $2.25, pot roast at $1.30 and prime rib at $2.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

An angry lady demanding a divorce gave as her reason that her husband had insisted on washing her face. "What's wrong with that?" queried the judge. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." "You didn't let me finish," maintained the wife. "Then he ironed it."

Overheard by Leo Rosten in Miami Beach: "Darling, you look wonderful. How have you done it?" "S-s-sh. I'll tell you a big secret. I'm having an affair." "How marvelous! Who's catering it?"

Two authors, who secretly loathed one another, embraced rapturously at a literary cocktail party. "You have no idea how I've prospered since last we met," boasted one. "The readership of my new novel is already double that of my last one." "Wonderful!" rasped the other. "I didn't know you got married."

Gromyko's Arrival Spurs Hope For Arms Limitation Talks

WASHINGTON — The September Song — "These few precious days" — is a fitting theme for the long wait that may now be nearing an end. Each day that passed, some 400 days, waiting for the strategic arms limitation talks to start has meant a steady advance in new weapons development and consequently a harder task for those who must try to apply the brakes to the nuclear arms race.

After a wait of six months to line up a negotiating position, the Nixon administration informed Moscow and the world that talks could begin any time after Aug. 1. From Moscow came a great silence.

BUT NOW with the arrival of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly, there is a new expectation. Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin is returning with Gromyko. They will meet in New York with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Perhaps they will tell him that at last they are prepared to enter into the talks.

In the waiting period, director Gerard C. Smith of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has worked long and hard to shape up a negotiating posture that can open the way to eventual agreement. In the face of the to-ing and fro-ing between the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House, he has achieved at least one tentative breakthrough. It is in the area that promises to be toughest and most resistant.

As the Johnson administration in July, 1968, shaped up a negotiating position, resolving conflicts between the barons of Pentagon and State, a highly significant decision was taken. The Pentagon got a go-ahead to test the multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle, MIRV. With MIRV — Three to 10 additional warheads on a single missile — the ratio of destructiveness is vastly increased.

The rationalization in the Johnson White House was as follows: Since "SALT" was soon to begin and since there was uncertainty as to how far the Russians might have gone with multiple warheads, the start of the talks could bring at the outset a showdown. You tell us how far you've gone with MIRV and we'll tell you how far we've gone. Then we can discuss a moratorium.

IN THE YEAR that has passed, the Pentagon conducted more than 14 tests of MIRV on the Pacific and Atlantic ranges. It works. As a result, of course, the military planners have dug in their heels against any mutual agreement to hold up MIRV.

But Smith has won a concession from the President. As chief delegate he will offer to discuss MIRV. He is not authorized to propose a moratorium, which the Pentagon so strongly resists.

In a discussion, however, Smith will learn presumably what are the Russian conditions for a downhold. They may agree to consider a moratorium, in which event Smith further instructions and what would surely be a fierce struggle with the military.

ALL THIS — The jargon of the incredibly complex nuclear race — has at times the sound of medieval theology. It has an abstruse quality divorced from the terrible realities of the nuclear cloud that hangs over every human being on this earth.

As for the precious days that have been lost, the blame is more than enough to go around. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia cut across an imminent start on the talks. The Nixon administration fussed and fussed over a negotiating position. The change for a pause in the race may have passed with the wasting of the days.

Politics Cool As Climate In Welfare-State Norway

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Other countries should have it so good as Norway.

The northernmost of the NATO allies has just completed a national election which returned the ruling coalition to power by a majority of one after a campaign in which the hottest moral issue revolved around a newspaper picture of Prime Minister Par Borten in his underwear.

Remarked the fatherly 56 year old prime minister:

"It is a nice country where there are no greater problems."

And, while Norwegian politicians take their work seriously, prosperout Norwegian voters couldn't have cared less about the few issues that could be drummed up. They preferred the sea, the beach and the mountains to political rallies.

The country has full employemtn, a favorable balance of trade and an increasing rate of production.

In the elections themselves the government coalition of Conservatives, Liberals, Christian Peoples parties and the Agrarian Center came out with 76 seats in the 150-member parliament and the opposition Labor party with 74.

For the coalition it was a loss of four and for Labor, which had ruled the country continuously for 35 years prior to the 1965 elections, a gain of six.

Like its Scandinavian neighbors, Norway is a welfare state which is expensive to maintain but preferred by most Norweigians.

How to pay for it provided about the only real issue of the campaign.

LAST JUNE the coalition pushed through a sweeping tax reform bill which made indirect taxes the chief source of government income.

The new law, which takes effect in January, drops the sales tax in favor of a 20 per cent added value tax to be applied at each stage of production and distribution.

It is expected to increase consumer prices by nearly six per cent.

At the same time, the new law eliminates state income taxes for more than 40 per cent of the Norwegians who now pay them and increases benefits to large families and persons living on pension.

It reduced from 72.5 per cent to 50 per cent the top tax on taxable incomes over $13,000. In Norway, where no one is very rich and no one very poor, this effects only about one-half of one per cent of all taxpayers.

POLITICALLY, attempts to look both toward close ties with its Nordic neighbors and toward the Atlantic give Norway at times the appearance of a split personality. Although a member of NATO, it carefully avoids arousing Russia, which with it shares more than 100 miles of border.

Its economy is linked closely to the United States from which it draws some $500 million annually. More Norwegians are said to live in the United States than there are in Norway.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Southern Sonoma Communities 'Marinized' By New Residents

It appears that Marin County is sending southern Sonoma County more than just an increase in population.

As the Marinites move northward to Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati, seeking more reasonably priced homes, they bring with them the Marin County style of living. Although sometimes regarded as unwelcome sophistication by old-time residents, the concerns of Marin are being felt.

WHEN VOCAL GROUPS appear before a city council or the board of supervisors, it can be safely assumed some former Marinites are in the forefront of the protest.

Conservation, which has never been a matter of widespread interest for Sonomans, is coming more into the picture. Organizations like Citizens Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands have attracted the interest of many new residents.

Peace groups like Sonoma County Citizens for Peace and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom count many former Marinites among their members.

The differences, although diminishing rapidly, still exist. Sonoma State College students, about one-third of whom are from Marin, still encounter some difficulty with Rohnert Park residents. Only in the past year have the hippie types been able to cash checks with local merchants and shop in the supermarket without drawing obvious stares.

AS SOUTHERN SONOMA changes from a series of small, individual cities into bedroom communities of commuters, the Marin penchant for participation in local government will be seen.

The newcomers do and no doubt will continue to feel the stigma placed on persons living in the subdivision area of the east side of Petaluma.

The first question old-timers put to new residents is, "Do you live on the east side?" Although the modern and comfortable east side homes may have greater financial value, they are not considered "established."

Undoubtedly Cotati will experience most of the influence of Marin as Sonoma State students take a more active role in city government.

Mayor Frank P. Dolinsek said that students already have 200 registered voters, which should be enough to elect at least one of their representatives next spring.

The mayor, who doesn't plan to seek re-election, said he'll watch the role of the students with interest to see what changes they will make. ... So will the other 1,500 residents.

Maybe Phone Company Could Have Recording As President

WASHINGTON — The most important division of the telephone company these days is the Department of Recorded Announcements. As telephone service in this country keeps getting worse, the Department of Recorded Announcements plays an ever-greater role in the system.

Heading up the DRA at the phone company is Miss Shirley Thrush, who recently was made a full vice president. I visited her at her complex which covered several acres outside Pleasantville, N. Y.

MISS THRUSH told me: "A few years ago I used to do all the recordings for the telephone company at my desk during lunch hour. But now, as you can see, I have an entire division devoted to it, and we're growing all the time.

"Any time anything goes wrong we have to make a recorded announcement, and you can imagine how many announcements we produce these days."

"Then, you thrive on the bad luck of the rest of the company?"

"I wouldn't say that," Miss Thrush said. "But let's say for years everyone in the company thought I was a joke. Now it's my turn to think they're all jokes."

"HOW DO YOU make the recordings?"

She took me down the hall to a large studio with a dozen mikes hanging from all positions. An attractive woman was standing at one of the mikes. In the control booth were an engineer, a writer, a script girl, a director and a producer.

Miss Thrush asked the producer what he was working on.

"We're doing 'the circuits are busy' recording."

"Oh," said Miss Thrush. "This is one of my favorites." We sat down in the control booth behind the director, who said over his mike "All right, Gladys. Let's do it again."

Gladys, holding her script, started to read into the microphone, "I'm sorry, all circuits are busy now. Would you please place your call at a later time?"

"NO, NO, NO," the director shouted over the mike. "You didn't sound sorry when you said it. The person who hears you isn't going to believe you. You must make him feel you're sorrier than he is that he didn't get the call. OK, let's try it again."

"I'm sorry," Gladys said dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief. "All circuits are busy. Would you place your call at a later time?"

The director said: "The sorry part was OK, but you didn't sound strong enough when you asked them to call at a later time. It was too weak. It someone heard you, they immediately would have dialed again. We want them to get the hell off the phone."

MISS THRUSH said to me, "They'll be doing this for hours. Come, I'll take you to another studio." We went down the hall to another studio and into the control booth. A girl was just reading the lines, "I'm sorry, the number you have reached is not in service at this time. Please be sure you have dialed the right number."

"Where were the chimes?" the director yelled. "They were supposed to come in before she says she's sorry."

"I thought you wanted chimes at the end," the engineer said.

"No, at the beginning, to get the caller in a good mood. You're going to tell him he's an idiot, and the chimes prepare him for it."

WHEN WE FINISHED the tour, I said, "You're doing a wonderful job here."

Miss Thrush replied, "The tail is now wagging the dog. If things continue as they have been, the telephone company could have its first woman president."

Bay Preservation Award To Be Given

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Creation of an annual award for the most significant contribution to the preservation of enhancement of the Bay Area environment was announced yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

The deadline to submit nominations for the award was set at 5 p.m. Oct. 22 at council offices in the World Trade Center at the Ferry Building. The winner will be disclosed in November.

The activity or project nominated must have taken place in the nine counties of the Bay Area between Jan. 1, 1967, and Sept. 1, 1969, and must "have been completed or implemented," the council said.

The chairman of the council's committee on Bay Area environment, Mortimer Fleishhacker Jr., speaking at the unveiling of the bronze sculpture that sympolizes the award, said, "It is a common misconception that business is not interested in good environment, that it is in fact the enemy of good environment. Nothing could be further from the fact." The council is an organization of business and civic leaders in the Bay Area.

Award winners, limited to any organization, company, individual, public agency or neighborhood group, will receive a small replica of the two-foot-high sculpture, a hand by Spero Anargyros.

Willis Will Coordinate Child Center

Dennie B. Willis, former superintendent of the Dixie School District for 15 years, has accepted the position of coordinator for the Child Center of 1030 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, Mrs. Robert Setrakian, board president, announced today.

Willis, who assumed his duties Sept. 2, will be responsible for the business administration of the center and coordination of staff activities in its projects.

The center, formed as a nonprofit corporation three years ago, attempts to aid children with learning disabilities, primarily through training their teachers as to individual needs.

San Anselmo, Kentfield, Dixie, Novato, San Rafael, Mill Valley, Sausalito school districts and St. Anselm's parochial have signed contracts totalling $90,945 with the center for this year. It is the second year for the first three. Federal and state grants fund the program.

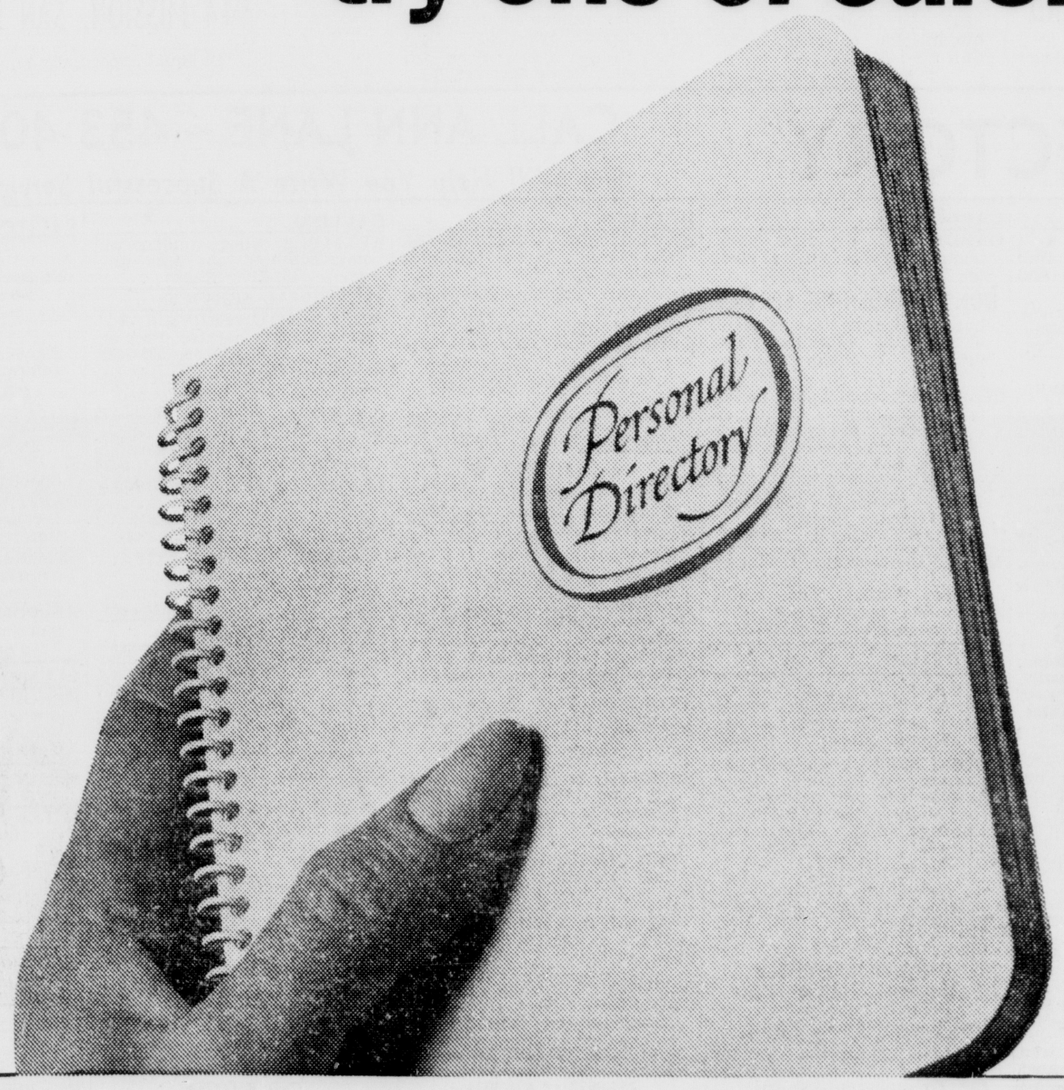
Author Louis Bromfield was born on a farm near Mansfield, Ohio, a city he often wrote about in his novels.

If you aren't satisfied with your personal numbers booklet, try one of ours.



Due to the increasing number of people who write names, addresses, and phone numbers on the inside of matchbook covers or scraps of paper, Pacific Telephone wishes to announce the convenient Personal Numbers Booklet.

One simple call to your local Telephone Business Office can put one (or more) of these handy items in your possession. You'll find that each booklet contains plenty of space for names, addresses and phone numbers.

Advice On Dike: Act To Remove It

One way to take care of drainage problems in East San Rafael would be to have the broken dike declared a public nuisance and remove it, City Atty. David A. Menary told the San Rafael City Council last night. (Another San Rafael council story, page 1.)

Menary said that the area would then become part of San Rafael Bay, which it was at one time anyway until diked.

The dike broke last month, posing a flood threat. In addition, city officials called for improvement of drainage in the area, saying that drainage pipes were clogged with silt.

Menary said last night that the owners of ponding areas east of Highway 17 "are taking the position that they didn't block the drainage until Quail Hill fill was dumped into East San Rafael."

One of two principal owners has begun work on repairing the dike and property owners are getting together to work on a drainage solution for the whole area, Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles reported.

However, Henry Ghilotti, who owns property in danger of flooding this winter, maintained the dike patching is moving so slowly there won't be time to put in the drainage pipe city engineers say is necessary.

Menary noted the owners of the ponding area would "have their hands full" if there is damage to private owners.

"I think we ought to go for some outside help," Ghilotti told the council. He suggested getting in touch with state and federal authorities.

He also urged the council to consider a larger area for a drainage assessment district, maintaining the area currently involved will not correct the whole problem.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini asked Rawles to investigate the possibility of outside assistance and also asked for minutes of previous council meetings when the drainage area was discussed.

Corporation Yard Is Faced With Big Cuts

Shocked by bids $72,000 to $82,000 higher than estimated, the San Rafael City Council decided last night to eliminate parts of the planned new corporation yard.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini appointed himself and Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Fred S. Robbins Jr to study the plans for possible cuts. A special meeting will be held, probably later this week, for a final decision.

Cuts suggested last night included a storage building, the mezzanine of the main building and a hoist to lift equipment to the mezzanine. Bettini said those items could reduce the cost by $50,000.

The two bids received for the new corporation yard off Lincoln Avenue, south of Second Street, were $279,997 from the Rapp Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, and $289,289 from Campbell Construction and Equipment Co. of San Francisco.

The architect's estimate was $207,103.

Jensen protested the size of the main building and its walls, pointing out all of the equipment is currently kept outside.

Architect Robert W. S. Severin noted the walls are only on the street side and that much of the large equipment will continue to be left outside.

Jensen also criticized the kind of building, claiming "local contractors who are starving to death couldn't bid." He maintained that getting only two bids meant something is wrong with plans.

"Could it have been cheaper if there weren't a completion time limit (Dec. 15)?" asked Robbins.

Severin said local contractors had told him they would have bid and bid more cheaply if the strict time limit hadn't been imposed. He added, however, that most of the subcontractors for the Santa Rosa firm are local.

The time limit was imposed because the city has sold the old corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard and is scheduled to vacate that site by Jan. 2.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

COURTHOUSE — Delayed review of Severin's plans for development of the Courthouse Square site and for a revised community center because both items had been discussed informally with the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

MEETING — Heard Acting City Mgr. James H. McCown report on a meeting he had with County Administrator Alan Bruce on the courthouse disposal. "There were no resolutions of any of the problems," he said.

MANAGER — Learned 60 applications had been received for the post of city manager, as of the closing date, yesterday. Bettini announced a decision is expected by the next regular council meeting, 8 p.m. Oct. 6 at city hall.

PARKING — Adopted an ordinance prohibiting parking on Fourth Street between E Street and Lincoln Avenue between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. and restricting the parking of trailers, trailer coaches, utility trailers or auxiliary dollies for more than 24 hours.

QUAIL HILL — Approved relocating 19 town houses at Quail Hill to an area leveled when a knoll had to be removed because of slide conditions.

DITCH — Authorized spending $1,000 to clean a drainage ditch on private property along Sea Way to improve drainage and prevent flooding of the city street.

ROAD — Agreed city engineers could design a connection to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in East San Rafael in case it's ever needed. The work will be done with the county, which is redesigning a windy stretch of the street.

RECREATION — Asked the planning director to study a proposal by Councilman Harry A. Barbier to require developers to set aside some land for recreation.

PERSONNEL — Hired Robin L. Prosch as a fireman at $739 per month; and Myra L. Davey a typist clerk at $453 per month.

Petaluma Council Approves General Plan Revisions

The Petaluma City Council last night approved changes in the general plan as suggested by the planning commission and made several modifications of its own.

The changes included removing plans to extend Mountain View Avenue from the west side of the river to the east side. Replacing that traffic pattern would be a Caulfield Lane overpass of Highway 101 with a four-lane Wilson Street connection to D Street and the downtown district.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei objected to dropping the plans to extend Mountain View saying that perhaps in 50 years it would be necessary. City Engineer David A. Young said it could not be seriously considered for the near future because of great expense of cutting through the industrial area, railroad lines and the new sewage disposal plant.

Also modified was the plan to extend Sonoma Mountain Road to Petaluma Boulevard North. That route on the general plan will now cross Highway 101 and connect with Skillman Lane scheduled to become the Bodega Bay expressway.

The council suggested that an interchange at the Highway 101 crossing should also be planned to relieve the Washington Street interchange of traffic.

The third change would recommend rezoning to expand the commerical shopping designation at East Washington Street and North McDowell Boulevard. A shopping center is now being built there.

Plans to change the light industrial classification to commercial on Copeland Street along the river between D Street and East Washington Street brought a written protest. John W. Cavanagh Sr., father of Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr., said he has two industries interested in purchasing land there and would not like to see the zoning changed.

The plan change also increases the highway commerical designation on the west side of the old Redwood Highway in the Denman interchange area and increases low density housing on the northwest of the city near Rainesville Road and Stony Point Road.

A motion approving the changes brought a negative vote from Mattei and an abstension by Cavanagh.

Hub Group Sets Talk On Flood Problems

A panel discussion on "Flood Control and San Anselmo" will be held when the San Anselmo Homes Association holds its fall meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at 237 Crescent Road.

Panelists will be Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, Paul C. Zucker, county planning director, and Philip B. Lygren, Ross town engineer.

PETALUMA'S BOOM BEATS PREDICTIONS

Petaluma's population has surpassed last year, prediction by 1,623, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer told the city council last night.

In the preliminary report of the census taken last month, the official city population as of Sept. 10 was 23,753 compared to the 22,130 that had been projected a year ago.

The census showed 7,658 living units including 216 mobile homes and 404 vacancies. Meyer said 7,379 households were surveyed and that homes had an average population of 3.2 while mobile homes had 2.2 persons.

A more detailed analysis of the census will be made next month, Meyer said.

Election Districting Drive Fails

An initiative petition calling for a charter amendment on election districting was ruled invalid and dropped last night by the Petaluma City Council.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert said the petition filed by Donald P. Petro calling for a special election to establish voting districts did not have enough signatures to qualify. The amendment would have ended the present practise of electing city councilmen at large.

The attorney said that a petition to change the city charter requires 15 per cent of the registered voters at the time of the last statewide general election. Robert said the petition would need 1,248 valid signatures, while Petro's petition contained 1,184 names or 64 signatures short.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen was instructed not to begin work on verification of the signatures since it would be impossible to meet the regulations even if all were valid.

Petro, who circulated the petitions during his unsuccessful attempt for city council last June, accepted Robert's opinion but said the matter would not die. "It's back to the drawing boards," Petro said.

The Petaluma City Council also:

WATER MAINS — Awarded a contract for construction of new water mains to the Soiland Co. with a low bid of $199,999. The engineer's estimate had been $217,601 for the project to install a 12-inch main on East Washington Street to Lakeville Highway, along the east side of Highway 101 to Casa Grande Road to South McDowell Boulevard. A 16-inch main will run along Ely Road to East Washington Street near Old Adobe Road.

STOP SINGS — Heard a request from F. Q. Gifford, president of the Petaluma Gardens Homes Association, that more stop signs and painted crosswalks be installed in the subdivision for the safety of school children. David A. Young, city engineer said he would consult with Gifford and school officials to solve the problem.

LIBRARY — Received a letter from chamber president Rollan Rea supporting library trustees in not joining the county library system with out representation on the county board.

SERVICE STATIONS — Introduced an ordinance amending the service station ordinance to reduce spacing requirements at freeway interchanges.

INSPECTIONS — Introduced an ordinance similar to the Sonoma County ordinance establishing regular inspections of food handling establishments and setting fees for inspections.

MOBILE HOMES — Adopted an ordinance establishing a mobile home park zone and setting standards for development.

REPRESENTATIVES — Named Mayor Helen Putnam as the city's voting representative to the annual conference of the League of California Cities. Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr. was named alternate.

WRISTWRESTLING — Approved a resolution naming Petaluma as the home of wristwrestling and making it the official wristwrestling capital of the world.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors to consider an appointment to the recreation, music and parks commission.

'Angel Dust' Case Charges Denied

William Olaf Henrickson, 25, of San Anselmo, who claimed that his chemically treated parsley called "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three narcotics charges.

He is accused of possessing LSD, cocaine and marijuana.

Henrickson's attorney, Theodore C. Lachelt, said yesterday that he may also enter pleas of innocent by reason of insanity before the trial, which is set for the week of Oct. 27.

Henrickson, a parole violator, also faces charges in other jurisdictions, according to his attorney.

Barricades Coming Down In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British army today began dismantling Roman Catholic barricades in the riot-torn Falls Road district of Belfast.

In some instances, the army said, the local population was helping troops take down the barricades, but a crowd of women and children sat in front of their barricade in Gilford Street singing civil rights songs and refusing to let the army take down the obstruction.

The army said it had moved three battalions of soldiers into the district to "provide massive protection" for the Catholic inhabitants.

Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of the 7,500 British troops in Northern Ireland, said the dismantling operation began after talks with provincial government officials and in accordance with procedures worked out during talks last week with Belfast's civil rights leaders.

The agreement provided for British officers to reach separate agreements with the residents of each barricaded neighborhood on the protection the residents feel they need following removal of the barricades.

Belfast's Catholic minority threw up makeshift barricades during last month's Catholic-Protestant warfare, and the Protestants replied with barricades of their own. British troops have put up a "peace line" barricade between the two communities, and the Protestants removed their barricades voluntarily. The Catholics kept more than 150 barricades.

A Catholic citizens' committee had indicated earlier today that the city's Catholics were ready to remove the barricades, but it later withdrew the statement and called a meeting tonight to vote on the matter.

Jim Sullivan, chairman of the Central Citizens' Defense Committee, said: "The barricades stay until we've made a democratic decision."

He was replying to Bishop William Philbin, the Roman Catholic bishop of Down and Connor, who toured the makeshift barricades and told the men behind them that the obstructions "must come down now. We will not be bullied into keeping them by a small minority."

Freeland met yesterday with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Home Secretary James Calaghan. He returned from London today with orders to take down the barricades despite Catholic opposition.

Callaghan said after the meeting: "The barricades must come down, and progress must be made in the matter very quickly." He ruled out negotiations between the army and citizens' committees and said Freeland would arrange the timing and manner of the removal with the Ulster government of Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark.

Bridge Officials Seeking Transit Cash In Capital

Five Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District officials have gone to Washington hunting for federal money to help get the district into the transit business.

District directors are on the verge of trying buses and ferreis, and voted Friday to send up to four directors at any one time to accompany Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring in his hunt for money, especially for a denonstration project of ferries and for federal aid in buying a bus fleet.

Luehring left during the weekend with directors Lowell Edington of Napa County and William Moskovitz of San Francisco. Flying east today to join them are directors Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere and Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

The five, expected to return tomorrow night, are to report on their trip before a meeting of the "committee of the whole" at 9 a.m. Thursday in district offices at the toll plaza.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drinking Moonshine Can Trigger Saturnine Gout, Lead Poisoning

VAN DELLEN

Prolonged drinking of moonshine contaminated with lead may cause a secondary form of gout (saturnine gout). The lead buildup has an adverse effect upon the kidneys inhibiting the secretion of uric acid. The retained urates settle in the joints and other tissues culminating in gouty arthritis. This secondary form differs from the primary type, which stems from the overproduction of uric acid because of an hereditary defect in metabolism.

Saturnine gout due to lead ingestion is more prevalent than many people realize. The is understandable because leadened pipes, connections, and containers are frequently used in distilling moonshine whiskey. Authorities estimated more than 55,700,000 gallons of illegal whiskey were produced in 12 southeastern states. Almost 90 per cent contained lead.

ACCORDING to Doctors Gene V. Ball and Leif B. Sorensen, there were 2,734 admissions to the Medical Service of the Birmingham Veterans Administration hospital in 1967. Chronic lead poisoning was diagnosed in 98 veterans. In addition, 37 of 43 admissions were for gout related to chronic lead poisoning. The latter group were alcoholics who drank moonshine and also had lead poisoning, which was not their complaint. They came to the hospital because of gouty arthritis.

As a rule, kidney trouble per se does not cause gout. However, investigators demonstrated conclusively that impaired renal function which originated from the leaded moonshine was the sole cause of gout in these individuals.

LEAD POISONING from other sources is common in the United States, especially among children. Many of the young victims develop neurological abnormalities. Others also have kidney trouble and the Birmingham physicians wonder whether the youthful survivors of lead poisoning have or will develop saturnine gout.

TEMPORARY COLOSTOMY

C. C. writes: Is there such a thing as a temporary colostomy?

REPLY

Yes, the procedure is done to relieve obstruction or inflammation of the bowel and is recommended when life is at stake. An incision made into the abdominal wall creates an artificial opening to the outside so that the intestinal contents may escape without passing through the rectum. Temporary colostomies are employed when the reason for doing the procedure can be corrected and the rectum is and remains patent. If not, the colostomy becomes permanent. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

ALLERGIC REACTIONS

S. A. writes: If a person is allergic to a food or some other substance, how soon after eating the food or coming into contact with the offender would the reaction begin?

REPLY

From a few minutes to several days depending upon the amount consumed, how frequently the food was eaten, and whether the person is mildly or markedly allergic to the offender.

EAR INFECTION

D. F. writes: Can surgery cure an infection in the middle ear? Medicines have done no good.

REPLY

Yes. The most common procedure is puncturing the eardrum to allow pus to escape. If infection persists, there is a possibility the mastoid is involved. A second operation may be needed to promote drainage.

Jail Ordered For Marijuana Plea; Robbery Denied

Reade Collins Backer, 18, of Ross pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana in Tiburon Feb. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the offense a misdemeanor and sentenced the youth to serve 15 days in jail.

A preliminary hearing in that case was set for next Tuesday.

Richard H. Breiner of the public defender's office yesterday asked Judge Alvin H. Goldstein to hear a report today on whether Backer's mother, also a Ross resident, will hire a private attorney for him.

The youth and Stephen John Pappas, 19, of San Francisco are accused of taking the money from a 16-year-old San Anselmo boy after threatening him with a knife. Pappas has not yet been arrested.

HHH Claims Nixon Halted Summit Talks

Frost told Humphrey that he understood that Johnson had planned a final peace mission before leaving office but he "checked with President-elect Nixon and Nixon said, 'Please don't'."

Humphrey replied, "I'm sure that is true. That's my view of it, anyway."

A White House spokesman in Washington said there would be no immediate comment on Humphrey's remarks.

Humphrey said however, "I think a new president has a right to want to set his own course. And even though I must say that it seemed to me that the preliminaries had been so well worked out—over years, by the way, not weeks—that it would appear to me that it would have been well had it started."

Lynch Will Not Plead Rafferty's Book Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch is not going to represent State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty in a censorship suit brought by the San Francisco Board of Education.

Lynch said yesterday his office had refused the assignment "principally because we have already started to prepare an opinion in the cast for Sen. George Moscone and it might be in conflict," Moscone is a San Francisco Democrat.

Lynch also said that Rafferty's office was one where the attorney general had an option on whether to represent it in legal actions.

San Francisco's board brought the action after Rafferty threatened to life credentials of teachers using the books, "Soul On Ice," by Eldridge Cleaver, or "Dutchman," by LeRoi Jones.

Both authors are Negroes and both books contain four letter words considered by many to be obscene. Rafferty threatened to revoke credentials on a clause in the State Education Code opposing profanity. He said the books were "obscene or profane."

The school board's petition contends Rafferty's action conflicts with the board's authority to adopt textbooks and instruction materials.

California's Supreme Court has assigned the case to the Third District Court of Appeal in Sacramento, which is scheduled to hear it Sept. 24.

Sonoma Supervisors Reject Damage Claim

I-J Special Report

Bigone said that he was kicked in the face by a pony on June 7 while attending a 4-H Club showing at the Chris Beck Arena, Sonoma County fairgrounds. He said he suffered a fractured jaw, loss of several teeth and facial cuts.

Seashore Fund Is Cleared Up

A $10 million state appropriation to help the federal government complete purchase of Point Reyes National Seashore, proposed yesterday by two assemblymen, would be used to buy Point Reyes land which then would be exchanged for federal surplus federal land along the Southern California coast.

The result would be that the federal government would get $10 million in additional Point Reyes land, and the state would end up with $10 million worth of Southern California coast, not the reverse as reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

TV REVIEW

Comedy On Thurber Is Poor Try

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"My World and Welcome To It," NBC-TV's situation comedy based loosely on the works of the late writer-cartoonist James Thurber, bowed in last night as a weekly entry.

No one in his right mind actually expected the half-hour show to come anywhere near the genius of the late humorist. And it is frankly a commercial venture of a most difficult sort—trying to capture the gentle fantasy of Thurber in a raucous mass medium known least of all for gentleness.

"Imagination is what makes life tolerable," said a character in the debut, a perfect statement in aiming at the essence of Thurber. Yet imagination is so much easier to project when faced with words rather than blatant film. The subtlety of the imagination has more free rein with words; you participate with the author; you create your own images to your satisfaction. Not so with film.

At any rate, imagine Thurber with a laugh track. No laugh track was used in Sunday night's charming debut of the Bill Cosby show on the same network. And curiously, throughout the premiere of "My World and Welcome To It," I kept thinking about how natural Cosby would be to work with the material of Thurber. There is a natural lineage there, as indicated in the Cosby debut.

Well, being frank, if you are going to turn Thurber's stuff into something approaching a solidly commercial video situation comedy, I guess Monday's opener was about as reasonably okay as you can get in the standard variety.

Youth Denies Charges In Narcotics Case

Monte Leon Miller, 20, of San Rafael pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possessing seconal and a hypodermic needle Aug. 14 in San Rafael.

A jury trial was set for the week of Oct. 27.

Mays, McCormick In Old Form In Pennant Push

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — National League contenders may have to sit up and take notice now that rejuvenated veterans Willie Mays and Mike McCormick are returning to old form in the San Francisco Giants' pennant push.

The 38-year-old Mays cracked a run-scoring double and his 599th career homer and McCormick pitched his "best game of the year" yesterday as the Giants downed Atlanta 4-1 and moved within half a game of the front-running Braves in the wild West Division.

CAN TAKE LEAD

With ace right-hander Juan Marichal, 18-10, hopefully continuing his Candlestick Park mastery, the Giants hope to wrest the lead from the Braves when the two clubs conclude their season series tonight.

Marichal has allowed only one earned run in his last 36 innings at home and is an amazing 12-1 at Candlestick Park this season. He'll be opposed by Ron Reed, 16-9, as Atlanta takes a 9-8 series edge into the game.

While the frisky Mays was moving into third place on the career extra base hit list with 1,192, McCormick returned to his Cy Young Award form of 1967. The southpaw scattered five singles and didn't walk a batter.

BEST GAME

"It was McCormick's best game of the year," said Giants' Manager Clyde King. "Not too many balls were hit hard. It gave our bullpen a good rest. Frank Linzy was stiff—I don't think he could have pitched."

McCormick's eighth complete game boosted his record to 10-9. Marichal could give the bullpen added rest tonight. He has 24 complete games in 32 starts this year along with seven shutouts and a 2.19 ERA.

Mays' error on Hank Aaron's fly with two out in the first and Rico Carty's single gave the Braves a 1-0 lead. But Tito Fuentes' walk, Ron Hunt's sacrifice, Mays' double and Willie McCovey's single made it 2-1 in the bottom of the inning.

PASSES GEHRIG

Loser Pat Jarvis, 11-11, was touched for an unearned run in the fourth before yielding Mays' 12th home run of the season leading off the sixth. The extra-base hit broke a tie with Lou Gehrig on the all-time list.

"It was just a case of rising to the occasion for Mays," said King. "He knows how important he is to us, so he's going out and doing the job.

"Willie wants to try to play every day the rest of the way," the manager added. But I can't tell if he will until I see how he feels before each game."

McCormick explained his success as "everything getting over the plate." The pitcher added, "It was as good as I've thrown in a while. I had good control and was getting ahead of the batters."

Excellent Timing On Nolan's Part

Like so: For the past six weeks his players kept asking: "Now, coach, now?"

49ers Come Of Age

Finally, on the evening of Saturday, Sept. 13, 1969, in a sophisticated playpen near Disneyland, halfway through their sixth consecutive preseason loss, the 49ers turned to their leader with the same old question.

This time Nolan surprised everyone. He took a deep breath, smiled and nodded: "Yes, boys, NOW!"

With that, the Niners stormed out of the locker room and proceeded to belabor the bejabbers out of the Los Angeles Rams in the second half of their final preseason tuneup. Offsetting the losing 31-28 final score was the fact that the 49ers had come of age. They arrived. And since there are no more playsies games and they start playing for keepsies next Sunday, I can't think of a better time for Nolan to give his nod.

So many pieces fell into place that it was difficult to recognize the Niners as the same team that previously had smelled out stadia from Denver to Seattle to Oakland to Anaheim to San Francisco.

Greatest improvement seemed to be in the offensive line. When John Brodie can complete 27 passes for 309 yards and four touchdowns against the vaunted pass rush of L.A.'s "Fearsome Foursome," then you know he's getting protection worthy of a wealthy Stanford graduate.

Brodie Could Have Big Year

With such chaperonage and with receivers like Gene Washington, Clifton McNeil, Bob Windsor et al, Brodie could have a banner season. I think Washington could become the NFL rookie of the year. His speed and good moves and hands are those of a veteran.

Encouraging, too, was the Niner's infantry attack against L.A., something they lacked until then. Doug Cunningham looked impressive on end scoots to supplement Ken Willard's rushes up the middle. If they can maintain this overland momentum, then defenses won't be so anxious to stack against the pass and San Francisco will do a lot of scoring.

The Niners' loss in Anaheim was attributable to a goshawful chain of circumstances in which two fumbles, an intercepted pass and a blocked punt led L.A. to 28 points. Further, Tommy Davis missed an easy field goal and a penalty nullified a fifth Brodie TD pass. Aside from that the Niners played errorless ball, learning that it is not better to give than to receive. Charity begins at home, particularly in pro football.

Here's My Peerless Prediction

San Francisco's first three games against Atlanta, Green Bay and Washington should give the Niners the momentum they'll need when they go against the Rams at Kezar on Oct. 12.

For a shot in the dark, I think San Francisco will finish with a 10-4 record, splitting with L.A. and Baltimore, their division powerhouses, losing at Dallas on Thanksgiving night and at Minnesota on Dec. 14.

I don't think that will be good enough to ring the bell, but at least the Niners appear to have arrived and there is, indeed, always "next year."

Willsey Wary Of Texas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California coach Ray Willsey made it clear at the weekly Northern California Football Writers luncheon yesterday that he thought he had his hands full with the University of Texas this coming Saturday.

Jones Ramsey, sports informaion officer for Texas, didn't dispute it. Asked if Texas had any weaknesses, Ramsey replied after a pause: "Punting--maybe."

Willsey, an assistant coach at Texas for four years, said he argued with Pete Newell, who was athletic director in 1965 when Texas was scheduled.

He quoted Newell as saying: "Texas is on top now, but their cycle will be over and they will be down by 1969."

OPTION

Willsey, concluded, "The record speaks for itself, and I'll take my option to blame Pete."

Various pre-season polls rate Texas between second and fourth in the nation.

Willsey said he was "reasonably pleased" with his team's latest practice. He said lineman Irby Augustine is still a doubtful starter, but that there was a good chance that the Port Arthur, Texas, candidate for All-American honors might get in the game.

Stanford coach John Ralston said his offensive receivers were the only positions in doubt for his opener Saturday against San Jose State.

"You can flip a coin between Demea Washington and Randy Vataha, but Jack Lassiter is ahead of Jim Cross, Ralston said.

He said the rest of the team was in good health and ready to go.

REGISTER

Coach Joe McMullen of San Jose State missed the luncheon to help his athletes register. His publicity aide, John Marks, said that as of yesterday morning only 30 members of the 50-man squad were registered.

University of Pacific coach Doug Stoval, whose team fell 14-10 last weekend to the Unipraised quarterback John Read but said inexperience hurt the team. UOP meets Western Micigan Saturday.

Pat O'Malley, whose Santa Clara Broncos topped St. Mary's 43-7 in the renewal of their "Little Big Game" was also full of praise for his quarterback, Denny Pastorini. The Broncos play the Cal Aggies next.

LEGAL BATTLE

Barry In Court, Or On Court?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Instead of pursuing his career on a basketball court next season, Rick Barry may find himself spending more time in a court of law.

The Washington Capitols of the American Basketball Association, who contend they acquired the services of Barry in the recent purchase of the Oakland Oaks, received a temporary court order yesterday preventing the high-scoring star from fulfilling terms of a two-week-old five-year contract with the San Francisco Warriors of the rival NBA.

NO WORKOUTS

The order, filed by Washington owner Earl M. Foreman and granted by U.S. Dist. Judge Gerald S. Levin, will keep Barry from even participating in preseason workouts with the Warriors until a show cause hearing is held Sept. 23.

In addition, Foreman's suit asks for $10 million punitive damages from the Warriors for "intentional and malicious conduct" in signing Barry to the contract when he was not free to do so.

The suit said Barry, who starred with the Warriors before moving to the ABA, has three years left on his contract and added that he would not even be on his option year until 1971-72.

Foreman purchased the Oaks franchise last month for a reportde $2.6 million and was quoted then that he went high because he felt he was also securing the services of Barry.

Franklin Mieuli, owner of the Warriors, however, said he signed Barry because "our understanding is that we were legally in our rights to do so."

"Barry came to us and told us he was free to sign with anyone when the Oaks were sold," Mieuli said. "On that premise, which was reviewed thoroughly by his attorneys and with them present, we then signed Rick to a five-year contract."

AFFIDAVIT

An affidavit was attached to Foreman's complaint in which he listed times and places he talked with Barry in an effort to get him to honor his contract, which Foreman said "was assignable upon sale of the Oakland franchise."

In a meeting with Barry in Los Angeles, Foreman pointed out Rick told him he planned "not to honor" the contract.

"He also told me," Foreman said, "that he would play in the District of Columbia only if he was legally obligated to do so."

W. German Track Team Walks Out

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The West German track team voted today to walk out of the European games and go home in protest against the expulsion from the squad of Jurgen May a distance runner.

May, 27, ran for East Germany in the last European games at Budapest in June 1967.

International rules say an athlete changing from one country to another must live there three years before competing for the national team.

West German officials argued in vain that East and West Germany sent a combined team to the 1964 Olympics and should therefore be regarded as one country as far as May's nationality was concerned.

They sent a six-man delegation to discuss May's position with the Marquis of Exter, president of the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF).

He upheld the federation rule and the West Germans voted, 29 to 27, to go home.

San Marin Gridders To Play Day Game

San Marin High School will open its 1969 football season against McClymonds of Oakland at Novato High School's field at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The football schedule for the week in yesterday's Independent-Journal sports section incorrectly said the game was to be played at 8 p.m. There are no lights at Novato High School's field.

Twins Back To Life When A's Get In Town

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The Oakland A's came to town, and just as predicted, the Minnesota Twins came back to life.

The Twins had lost five of seven games going into a two-game series with the A's, and it appeared Oakland still had a shot at catching pennant-minded Minnesota in the American League's West Division.

But the Twins, behind Harmon Killebrew's 43rd homer and Dave Boswell's six-hit pitching, mowed down the A's 6-3 and increased their division lead to nine games.

NUMBER IS EIGHT

Any combination of Minnesota victories and Oakland losses totalling eight would mathematically end it.

"This was a big one for us to win," said Manager Billy Martin. "We were lethargic, playing dead. When the players knew they had to win the game, they came to life. We bust out in rashes of bases hits."

The A's nominated Jim Nash, 8-7, to face Jim Perry, 18-6, as Oakland tries to do better than last night, when it blew an early lead.

The Twins spotted Oakland a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Rick Monday, in his second at-bat since recovering from a broken hand, drilled a two-run homer.

Tony Oliva's run-scoring double and Killebrew's 402-foot homer off Rollie Fingers, 6-6, into the left seats put Minnesota ahead 3-2 in the third.

LOAD BASES

Leo Cardenas lofted a fly to center, but Monday surprisingly threw to third rather than trying to get Killebrew at home.

"I didn't think I had time to get Killebrew," said Monday. "A good throw would have cut him down and I should have thrown to home."

TARS TO PLAY FIRST GAME IN KENTFIELD

College of Marin's season-opening game against San Jose City College definitely will be played on the Marin Catholic High School field in Kentfield, coach Dick Read announced yesterday.

The game will start at 1 p.m. Saturday, Read said, adding that the bleachers will be up by then.

In another bright note, Read said that former Tamalpais High School players Luther Brown and Charles McBride have dropped out of Maryland State and will play for the Tars. Brown is a halfback and McBride a center-guard.

Doyle Wins PCL Honors

PHOENIX (UPI) — Denny Doyle is the toast of the Pacific Coast League today. Make that a double toast.

In a balloting of the loop' sportswriters and sportscasters, the Eugene second baseman won dual honors as the Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year.

Doyle, 24, made the jump from the Class AA Eastern League and batted .310 with 29 doubles and 14 triples to go with his league-leading hit total of 182 and total bases, 257.

The Philadelphia Phillie farmhand was named to the All-Star squad along with his teammate, Larry Bowa, who won shortstop honors.

Raiders Get Back To Work

The Raiders had yesterday to rest up after their 21-17 victory over the Houston Oilers in the season's opener.

While the Raiders were winning, the Dolphins were losing by 27-21 to the Cincinnati Bengals, with a later Miami drive failing because of a lack of time.

On Saturday the teams will play at 8 p.m. in the Oakland Coliseum.

SUNDAY AT SEARS POINT

Camaros Seek Clincher

Roger Penske's Chevrolet Camaro team will be trying to clinch the Trans-American Sedan Championship when the 11th of 12 races in the series is run Sunday at Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma.

Mustangs, Javelins and Firebirds will be the cars to give the Camaros a battle for honors. Penske's team has clinched no worse than a tie in this nation-wide series, but a victory at Sears Point will give it sole possession. Leading the team are Mark Donohue and Ron Bucknum, Donohue with four victories and Bucknum two.

Ford's Mustang team, which already includes drivers such as former Indianapolis 500-mile winner Parnelli Jones, Peter Revson and George Follmer, has added Dan Gurney to its roster of drivers.

The Sears Point races around the 11-turn 2.5 mile track will be a two-day affair. Practice and qualifiying will be run on Saturday, plus Sports Car Club of America regional races from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sunday will have practice starting at 9 a.m., followed by two sports car races at noon and then the big Trans-Am feature 80-lap race starting at 2 o'clock. The main event will be 200 miles.

Bud Harrington of Mill Valley is tied for second place in the G-H Production and will be competing in the Sports Car Club of America race No. 1. Bob Lusk of Novato will be challenging in the F Production race, and Emmett Wilder of San Rafael will be trying to break out of a tie for the lead in C Sedan division.

Advance tickets are now available throughout Northern California, at all Bay Area Macy's, Sears and Emporium stores, plus British Motors dealers.

New Seal Gives Team 'Muscle'

COMBINED AP & UPI

OSHAWA, Ont.—The Oakland Seals may have reached into the draft and pulled out a plum in defenseman Tony Featherstone.

He played in Canada's premier amateur hockey league last year and has looked outstanding in scrimmages here. General Manager Frank Selke says he "could give us something we've lacked — muscle."

Veteran forward Mike Laughton sprained an ankle.

GOLF

FOOTBALL

DETROIT — The NFL Detroit Lions' first round draft choice Altie Taylor will miss at least three weeks because of a hairline shoulder fracture.

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Eagles trimmed their National Football League roster to 40 players today, waiving a rookie and three veterans.

Placed on waivers were veterans Jim Carroll, a linebacker acquired from Washington in a trade this year, Harold Wells, a linebacker, who signed with the Eagles in 1965, Jim Skaggs, a guard, a 10th round draft choice six years ago, and rookie cornerback Gary Adams, the Eagles 12th round draft choice from Arkansas.

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Browns put the injured Jim Hanicki on waivers today and cut three other players to get down to the 40-player National Football League limit. Put on waivers were defensive back Carl Ward, a two-year veteran who was on the kickoff return unit last season; Gordon Wright, a guard who was signed as a free agent earlier this year, and Joel Stevenson, a tight end from Georgia Tech.

GENERAL

49ers In Good Physical Shape

REDWOOD CITY, (AP)—San Francisco 49ers Coach Dick Nolan says his team is in good physicial shape for its National Football League opener at Atlanta on Sunday.

"It should be all right by game time," Nolan said.

Stan Hindman, who saw his first action since a shoulder separation a month ago, should be available for the Atlanta contest, Nolan said.

Swim Called Off

Combat Veteran To Coach Cadets

NHA TRANG, Vietnam (AP) — Maj. Karl K. Schwenzfeier, 35, of Philadelphia, a psychological warfare pilot with more than 200 combat missions, will coach the Air Force Academy gymnastic team when his Vietnam tour ends in August.

Schwenzfeier was 13 when he competed in YMCA meets in the Philadelphia area. When he was 21 and a junior at Penn State he won the Eastern collegiate National collegiate and AAU competitions.

The Air Force veteran was selected for the 1956 Olympic team but leg injuries prevented him from competing in the games.

Carlton Didn't Look Sick To N.Y. Mets' Batters

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Carlton felt lousy. He was running a slight temperature, his back hurt and he arrived at the St. Louis ball park only about an hour before last night's game with the New York Mets.

The big left-hander had his sore back rubbed down, took a couple of pain killers—and went out and struck out 19 batters, the most strikeouts recorded by a pitcher in modern major league history.

Only there was on little problem.

"The Amazing Mets Super Swat got me," said Carlton, referring to Ron Swoboda, whose two homers produced all of New York's runs in a 4-3 victory that spoiled Carlton's masterpiece.

TWO STRIKES

Swoboda, fanned twice by Carlton, boosted the Mets from behind with each of his shots—and both came when Carlton had two strikes on him.

The triumph increased to 4½ games the Mets' National League East lead over Chicago, which lost 8-2 at Montreal, and reduced to 11 New York's magic number for clinching the divisional title.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays hit the 599th homer of his career in leading San Francisco past West Division leader Atlanta 4-1, drawing that torrid race even tighter.

The Giants trail the Braves by only one-half game and .003 percentage points. Cincinnati broke Los Angeles' four-game winning streak 4-1 to move ahead of the Dodgers into third place, just one game and .005 points back of the Braves. The Dodgers are 1½ games and .009 points back of the leader.

SCORES

In other games, San Diego handed Houston its fifth straight defeat, 5-3, keeping the fifth-place Astros 5 games back of Atlanta, while Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 2-1 and 4-3.

In the American League, Washington edged Baltimore 3-2, Cleveland stopped Boston 4-1, California blanked Chicago 4-0, Minnesota defeated Oakland 6-3 and Seattle edged out Kansas City 3-2.

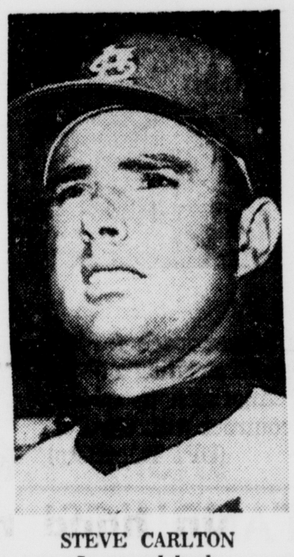
Carlton, who struck out 16 in a losing effort to Philadelphia two years ago, said he wasn't aware of how many strikeouts he had until it was flashed on the scoreboard after he tied his old team record of 16 in the eighth inning.

"In the last inning, I went out there going for it (the record). I went out there to strike out three men.

"I was so nervous I would hit than foul out or ground out just so I could get the record."

The 24-year-old lefty received a standing ovation when he completed his string by setting down the Mets in order in the final inning.

Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians set the old record of 18 strikeouts on Oct. 2, 1938 and Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers matched it twice, while Don Wilson had 18 for Houston last year.



STEVE CARLTON
In record book

Carlton fanned the side in the first, second fourth and ninth innings and retired 12 of the first 15 Mets on whiffs.

Swoboda staked the Mets to a brief 2-1 lead in the fourth when he homered on an 0-2 count with Donn Clendenon aboard.

Then Swoboda, who has hit six of his nine homers while the Mets have taken 27 of their last 34 games, produced the winner on a 2-2 count with Tommie Agree on in the eighth.

Ron Fairly drove in four runs mer and John Bateman hit a two-run homer to back Mike Wegener's three-hitter as Montreal handed the Cubs their third straight loss and 11th in 12 games. It was the fourth straight victory for the expansion Expos, longest of the season.

Tony Perez' two-run single and Alex Johnson's RBI double keyed a three-run third inning that carried Cincinnati past the Dodgers. Woodward also had an RBI single in the ninth.

11TH HOMER

Willie Crawford's 11th homer of the season, in the sixth, produced Los Angeles' only run off Tony Cloninger, who had late relief help from Wayne Granger.

San Diego delt Houston's pennant hopes a big blow with a starting line-up that averaged 22 years and included six rookies.

Cards Face A 'Dodger'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals likely will face the same dilemma in the National Football League opener Sunday that confounded Baltimore last weekend—how to cope with Roger Staubach, the sensational, scrambling Dallas Cowboys rookie quarterback.

Baltimore stopped Dallas 23-7 in the preseason finale last weekend but Staubach, who isn't called "The Dodger" for nothing, kept the rugged Baltimore defense on the run.

TIRED BUBBA

"I never ran so much in all my life," said a weary Bubba Smith, the Colts menacing defensive end after chasing Staubach around the Cotton Bowl Sunday. "I've never seen anyone, including Fran Tarkenton, who can scramble like Staubach. The only times we caught him was when he was standing still."

Which wasn't often.

At one point, the 28-year-old Navy product, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1963, ate up 23 seconds to gain 14 yards in a run through half the Baltimore team.

What makes Roger run?

"I saw openings and I wanted the yards," said Staubach, who gained more yardage rushing, 118, than passing, 108, because he had trouble locating his receivers and reading the defenses.

POCKET PASSER

But he says he'll become a conventional, drop-back quarterback yet.

"I'm going to be a pocket passer," he said.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, released two rookies as NFL clubs reached their 40-man limit yesterday. Released on waivers were George Nordgren, a running back from Houston, and linebacker Chuck Kyle of Purdue.

The Colts dropped Coach Bobby Boyd, wide receiver Don Alley and running back Larry Conjar. Boyd was named defensive backfield coach after nine seasons as a defensive back with the Colts. But he was kept on the roster until the last cut, in case he is needed as a player.

The Los Angeles Rams released veteran Jim "Red" Phillips, Frank Marchlewski and three other players on waivers. The others cut were veteran cornerback Jim Nettles, second-year defensive end Rick Cash and rookie place kicker David Ray.

WAIVED

The Detroit Lions waived defensive end John Baker and two rookies, and sold defensive back Bobby Thompson to New Orleans. Baker, a 12-year NFL veteran, played for Detroit last year after the Lions acquired him from Pittsburgh in a trade.

The Saints cut two starters. Center Joe Wendryhowski, acquired in the 1967 expansion draft from Los Angeles, and cornerback John Douglas, a fifth-round draft pick in 1967, got the ax.

Green Bay, to no one's surprise, cut quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, who was kept on the active list after retiring to become offensive coach.

Apple-Chumming Friend Returns With No Buck

His daughter read him last Friday's column. He said that he was bringing some of the apples home to put on the top of my head while he practiced archery, "William Tell Style." Now what's he mean by that?

My wife excitedly telephoned me at the hospital to say she and the kids were shooting at a buck earlier in the day and were now in the process of skinning it out. A big forked horn, so they say! They were to bring in the horns to show me. I hope they have it tagged.

DEER SEASON ends in Marin next Sunday, so you had better get out this week.

Josie Segale, the gal who got the big buck in Plumas County during a special hunt last week called to give me further dope on the hunt. It seems her husband, Til, was along too, but missed two or three. Now he wants Josie to go back when the season opens Sunday, but he wants her to leave her rifle home. He's afraid she might shoot HIS buck. Now Josie says she wouldn't do that because it's illegal, but she would like to carry a gun for protection against bears and coyotes. I told her to buy a bear tag, and she's going to take a camera. I guess you're pretty safe, Til.

ON THE FISHING front, Frank Sue tried it this week at Elephant Rock in Tiburon, and then with Norm Quadros tried it at Lime Point by the Golden Gate Bridge. Nothing doing at Lime, but he saw three bass caught by anglers casting jigs at Elephant Rock.

You know what Frank caught? A five-pound salmon! Boy, was he happy. When a rock caster catches a salmon, that's something.

THERE ARE some bass at Richmond Bridge, but you're got to work for them. Slow jigging does the trick.

I sent Sam Knoles down to California City off of Tiburon for salmon. Nothing. But he saw about 15 caught. He needs me!

Rich Borba, who generally fishes out of Tomales or Point Reyes, came through with three halibut weighing 27, 23 and 22 pounds. If you get one of these, filet the fish just like a flounder, and you will have four filets without one bone. Go after them just as you would salmon, except the weight should bump the bottom and troll or drift very slowly.

HALIBUT HIT with a chopper action. If you land one too quickly, it might do all its jumping and tail slapping in the boat. You will think the bottom of your boat is being knocked out. Give them a bang on the nose every time!

The silver salmon plants made in Nicasio, Papermill and Drake's Estero creeks in past years were Oregon early season fish. They will be returning now. If you wait too long, they'll get old and red and won't hit. Millerton Point, Tomasini Point, Railroad Point and even White House Pool could pay off.

I HEARD that Mr. Saverio Auteri, a Marinite, 83 years old, caught a sturgeon that weighed 140 pounds. It was his first. Now why would a guy start fishing at that age? See what you've been missing, young fellow?

And about me! I will be here possibly another week until Sept. 22. After I get out I'm going to the Sierras for a month. My "A" tag for deer? It's for sale to the highest bidder.

Terra Linda, Drake Rated Marin's Best

By GARY TISCHLER

You guessed it. We're going to pick the 1969 Marin County Athletic League football finish, whether you like it or not.

How about Terra Linda High School on the inside track for a fourth straight title tie, this time with Drake

Which will leave San Rafael and Redwood as mighty good prospects, and Novato, San Marin and Tamalpais fighting it out somewhere in the lower division.

OBVIOUS CHOICE

Terra Linda is pretty much of an obvious choice. The Trojans have lots of lettermen and veterans coming back in a year that is generally thin for almost everybody else except San Rafael. They're used to winning at least a piece of a title, and tradition is pretty hard to fight, even in bad years, and this isn't one of them.

Trojan coach Don Lucas has promised a perkier and more versatile offense, with quarterback Tom Jackson expected to come into his own.

The running game is deep, wealthy and varied with such blasters as Mike Bridges and Rick LaHaye at fullback, Larry Kerr, Matt Bowman and a host of others to lead the way. The line is a little bit young, but it's a traditionally tough one.

Defensively, the Trojans are hard to fault. They have Dewey Forry at a linebacker and two all-leaguers (Bridges and Bob Daniele) in the defensive backfield for starters.

If anything will hurt Terra Linda, it's the toughest preseason schedule around.

The Trojans go against Riordan Friday night in San Francisco, then follow with Hogan of Vallejo on Sept. 26. That will be two of the top teams in Northern California, and a couple of losses, if that's the way it will turn out, could be deflating, physically and mentally, since the Trojans haven't lost more than one game in each of the past two seasons.

Drake could be the real dark-house in the league, with a distinct chance to take it all. Two factors point to a possible breakthrough. The Pirates of San Anselmo have one of the best back fields in the league, with returnees Bob Sutherland, the league's top rusher last season, and Mark Silverman, another starter. Kevin Peak is reportedly doing well at the critical quarterback spot.

The line, always a big thing at Drake, is young, but it appears to be blossoming into a good one. That's the whole key for the Pirates. If the young line comes through, watch out!

If tradition means anything, the Pirates will be tough and they could be back to haunt Terra Linda. They shared the title with the Trojans in 1966 and 1967 and missed another tie by a point, losing to Novato, 14-13 in the final game of the season.

San Rafael has all the earmarks of a winner, with a flock of lettermen coming back, headed by tackle Chris Bonner, quarterback Lowell Widmer, end Bruce Dambra, back Bruce Nave and flanker Bob Peterson.

DON LUCAS
Trojan coach

The only problem the Bulldogs may have is turning into a winner, after a deflating 1-8 season last year. Coach Bob Muster also lost valuable center Dan Coleman, a player Muster said he "can't afford to lose." Coleman suffered a broken leg during a scrimmage against Pacific of the Alameda Athletic League Saturday.

Redwood would appear to be out of the running with a really green backfield and such key losses as quarterback Tim Peters, full back Pete Richter, do-everything Pete Carroll and tackle Gary Kasprzak, to name a few.

But the Giants could surprise a lot of people if some young backs come through. The line is solid and experienced, headed by all-league center Phil Simon.

The quarterbacking seems to be better than it was supposed to be, after Pete Cooney turned in a good job against tough Alameda. Sophomore (oh) Jay Lehman could turn out to be a joyful surprise.

Novato is awfully thin, all the way around and will rely heavily on younger players. The quarterbacking should be good behind Brett Bilsboro and the Hornets have a first-class ballplayer in all-league linebacker Dave Perron, who doubles at split end.

But one standout player will not be enough for the Hornets, who have no bench, some good running backs and brand new lines.

San Marin of Novato will make its first venture onto the varsity football field, and it won't be a disaster, but neither should it be a roundhouse success.

Tamalpais is under a new regime with new head coach Mike Davlin on hand. The Indians, like most people only more so, are young and inexperienced and very light.

Davlin is building for the future on some promising youngsters, most notably Clifford Hall and Bill Washington, a pair of speedsters in the backfield. But the Indians are a long way away and this isn't their year.

Marin Policemen Remain Unbeaten In Tournament

The Marin County peace-officers will go into the final round of the Northern California Law Enforcement Softball Tournament as the only unbeaten team left when the tourney picks up again Sunday at Albert Field, San Rafael.

The Marinites remained unscathed with a pair of victories Saturday and Sunday while the field was trimmed down to three teams.

Marin downed San Jose, the only other unbeaten club Saturday, 4-1, coming from a 1-0 deficit to coast home on three homers, one each by Dave Welty, Dave Jones and Art Myers. In other games Saturday, Modesto eliminated Berkeley, 4-3, and Santa Clara downed Alameda, 4-0.

Sunday, Marin knocked out Alameda, 7-5, in an error-filled contest that saw Jones blast a two-run double and Art Myers get three hits.

Santa Clara ousted San Jose, 2-1, and the FBI dumped Modesto, 7-3. This Sunday, the FBI and Santa Clara tussle at 11 a.m. for the right to meet Marin in the double-elimination finals.

Kentucky Derby's Streak Since 1875

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The world famous Kentucky Derby has been run over the same race track continuously since 1875, making it unique in American thoroughbred racing.

At the time the first Kentucky Derby was run, only three other race tracks now in existence were operating. They are the New Orleans Fairgrounds, Pimlico and Saratoga.

Olympic Fund Man Found Innocent

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Joe William Tate of Dallas, who said he didn't get a dime of the $72,000 missing from the fund raised in the Southwest for the 1968 U.S. Olympics, was acquitted yesterday by a federal court jury.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated less than one hour before returning its innocent verdict on 19 counts of conspiracy. Two of the original 21 counts against Tate were dismissed before his trial opened last week on grounds they did not involve him.

Joyce Ann Dodson, indicted with Tate, pleaded guilty previously to two of 21 counts. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Charles Tessmer of Dallas, attorney for the 44-year-old Tate, said his client was involved in an "ill advised romantic relationship" with Miss Dodson when the couple took over the fund drive in 1966. Tate testified he broke off with the petite brunette when she tried to have him committed to a mental institution.

Dolinsek Is Still Over .300 Mark

John Dokinsek of Novato remains high and Ken Johnson of Larkspur remains low in the batting department during their stint in minor league baseball this summer.

Dolindek, playing for the Houston Astros' Covington, Va., Appalachian League club, is hitting .307 after a .267 week. He's got seven homers and 37 runs batted in.

Johnson is at an even and dismal .150 for the New York Yankees' Ft. Lauderdale A club after a .167 week. He's driven in 20 runs with two homers.

Knee Injury Caused Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — The death of Cincinnati Begals' linebacker Frank J. Buncom resulted from a knee injury suffered last week in practice, the Hamilton County coroner ruled yesterday.

Dr. Frank Cleveland said a clot formed in Buncoms' knee moved to his lungs and caused heart failure. He called the case a pulminary unboli, due to the injury of a knee.

Buncom, 29, an eight-year pro, two years with the Bengals of the American Football League, died in his downtown hotel room Sunday morning.

General Telephone Held Excellent Quality Stock

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. You used to frequently recommend General Telephone & Electronics but recently you never mention it and it's not done too well. What's your current opinion? — S.J.

A. I continue to like General Telephone for its strategic position in communications and electronics, the spread of its telephone networks especially in California and Florida and its achievements in sophisticated research to advance its total operations. I consider GT&T an undervalued investment opportunity for anyone wanting a good-long-term stock.

The dual nature of this holding company has in the past provided strong growth but more recently flattened the earnings trend. Heavy, unexpected losses occurred on several fixed-price military contracts and industrywide weakness developed in the home entertainment market. GT&T's Sylvania subsidiary links it to the latter because Sylvania is a leading producer of radio and TV sets and the tubes required for their operation. Such negative factors could not be entirely offset by expanding operations in telephone subsidiaries, so GT&T's share price was penalized.

For the first half of 1969, through June, earnings again moved up on combined revenues and sales 12 per cent higher than in the first half of last year. These promising gains are expected to continue.

Q. Two months ago I put $6,500 into Decatur Income Fund to build up for a year and then take monthly withdrawals. My June and July statements credited nothing to my account. Would another conservative fund build up faster? — J.C.

A. Probably not, because quick capital gains and maximum income are incompatible. Decatur's assets are 40.2 per cent invested in bonds and preferred stocks which do not have the gopower of many common stocks offering little if any income. You bought a quality income fund yielding about 4.7 per cent. Net asset value increased 25 per cent during 1968 and 102 per cent for five years through 1968. You can't expect a large increment every month; and capital gains are directly related to market conditions. Dividends in 1968 totaled 55 cents a share and the capital gains distribution was $1.15.

Big Trade

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico buys $1,090,000,000 in goods from the United States per year, compared with the $619,400,000 worth of Mexican products bought by the United States, according to the American Chamber of Commerce.

Poultry Production

MANILA (UPI)—Philippine livestock and poultry production went up from 89,743,097 in 1967 to 95,712,393 in 1968, according to Anacleto B. Coronel, director of the Philippine animal industry.

Mexican Stock

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The Mexico City Stock Exchange, founded in 1891, had a turnover of more than 20 million shares, worth more than $2.2 billion, in 1968, an all-time high.

Troop Cuts Cheer Wall Street Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon's announcement of further troop cutbacks in Vietnam bolstered stocks today in fairly active trading.

The UPI Marketwide Indicator was up 0.18 per cent on 1,549 issues crossing the tape. There were 710 advances and 580 declines.

Volume of 10,500,000 shares near the final bell was about in line with yesterday's.

Active issues included American Telephone and Revco D. S., largely the result of big block transactions. AT&T traded three blocks amounting to 232,500 shares at 50 1-2, and Revco a block of 177,000 shares at 19 1-4. AT&T closed at 50 3-4, off 1-2.

Also heavily traded were Kinney National Service, Benguet, UAL Inc., and Atlantic Richfield.

There were several point-plus movers in the oils group, mostly on the downside. Texaco closed down 1 1-4 to 32 1-2 and Jersey Standard was up 1-2 to 72 1-8.

Point-sized mover in the electronics were in both directions with IBM closing up 2 3-4 to 346 3-4.

Steels, motors and chemicals, meantime, generally traded in fractions. So did rails, aircrafts, and most airlines.

Sears Checking Locations For Large Store To Serve Marin

It is no secret that Sears Roebuck and Co. has been checking over possible locations in Marin County for a suitable spot for a large store.

Up to now it has not been reported that anything definite has been decided upon, the main reason being that an operation of this kind requires about 12 or 13 acres, according to Sears' policy. With such an investment at stake, sites are chosen carefully, with a great deal of study given to both present and future shopping patterns and traffic.

Meanwhile Sears has made one definite move to expand its representation in Marin to something more than the present catalog stores in San Rafael and Novato and the San Rafael service department. This is a so-called "Satellite Store," for which a lease has been signed in the Red Hill Shopping Center, San Anselmo, through Tom Ireland of Grubb and Ellis Co.

Sears will take over the 4,500 square feet formerly occupied by the hardware and garden supplies store at the west end of the center. Remodeling is now under way and a loose estimate would be that occupancy may take place by late October.

A number of these satellite store with limited inventories are maintained by Sears in many area. Often they serve as pilot stores to pretest retail shopping patterns and potentials.

Another addition to Red Hill Shopping Center will be the Swiss Watchmaker, a removal from the Corte Madera Shopping Center — another lease by Ireland. Occupancy is now set for Oct. 1.

SAN-OAK BOOK DISTRIBUTORS, headed by Earl Johnson, has moved from the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito to San Rafael. New quarters are located at 62 Belvedere Street.

FORMER SAN RAFAEL RESIDENT Herbert A. Danielson has been elected vice president, operations, of Pacific Gas Transmission Co. Now living with his wife Lucile in Spokane, he has been operations manager of the pipeline company since 1965 and will continue to direct the operating headquarters staff for Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia. He was gas superintendent of the North Bay Division of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and headquartered in San Rafael from Oct., 1956 to March, 1964.

RICHARD C. LUCAS of Corte Madera has joined Continental Funding Corp. as executive vice president and also president of Trans Continental Securities Co., its wholly owned subsidiary. For the past four years he has been vice president, administration, for ISI Corp. Before that he was senior vice president with Lytton Savings and Loan Association of Northern California.

Lucas

Sullivan

JEREMIAH V. SULLIVAN of San Rafael, manager of Wells Fargo Bank's San Anselmo office, has been promoted to assistant vice president. He joined the bank in 1947 in the head office auditing department.

RICHARD F. ANDINO of San Anselmo has been promoted to Hawaii freight division manager for Matson Navigation COo. in Honolulu. He joined the company in 1958 and before his recent promotion was Far East freight operations manager.

TRIPS: Mrs. Saga M. Lempio of Saga of Finland, Sausalito, will be among a group of women's fashion buyers attending Scandinavian Fashion Week in Copenhagen this month. Leaving tomorrow, she will also visit markets in Amsterdam, London, Paris and Stockholm.

BAGLEY DISAGREES

Closed Banking Policy Defended

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Concealing from the public the background of bank officials is necessary to maintain the public's trust in California banking institutions, the state superintendent of banking said yesterday.

"I'm not saying we allow crooks to run the banks just because they provide a service," he quickly added.

The remarks by James M. Hall came in testimony before the Assembly Statewide Information Policy Committee, which is drafting legislation to force more state agencies to give the people public access to records affecting the public.

Under existing law, records of the banking department "are not public documents and are not open to inspection by the public."

Hall, however, said he was willing to see some limited information on bank officials made public, but left unclear how much information he had in mind. Committee chairman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, suggested that Hall draft the kind of legislation he would support and submit it to the committee.

Bagley argued that since the 1968 Public Records Act applied "across the board" to city and county governments, it also should apply to state agencies like the banking department.

But Hall retorted that persons forming banks "are not running for public office," and therefore had a right to privacy. "Do you drag out the 1938 police blotter and expose it to public view?"

Congress In Wild Apollo 11 Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress roared a standing ovation today to the three spacemen who gave America its foothold on the moon, while President Richard M. Nixon moved toward the next space goal — a man on Mars.

Neil A. Armstrong, leader of the Apollo 11 space team, told the Senate and House, assembled in a joint meeting, that:

"It was here, in these halls, that our journey really began."

The lawmakers, who gave the spacemen two minutes of sustained applause as they walked into the House chamber, roared their approval again.

"The first step on the moon was a step toward our sister planets," Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., second second man to touch foot on the moon, told Congress.

The third astronaut of Apollo 11, Michael Collins also spoke, to laud applause.

Aldrin's forecast of space adventures far beyond the moon came one day after President Nixon endorsed a special task force report calling for a landing on Mars—perhaps within the next two decades.

There has been coolness in Congress toward the costly Mars adventure, but there was

Brusatori Officially Selected Police Chief

Joseph J. Brusatori, a 31-year veteran of the San Rafael Police Department, was named chief last night by the San Rafael City Council. (Other San Rafael Council stories, page 26.)

Brusatori, 58, will take over as chief on Oct. 1, the day after the retirement of Charles J. Chiesa becomes effective.

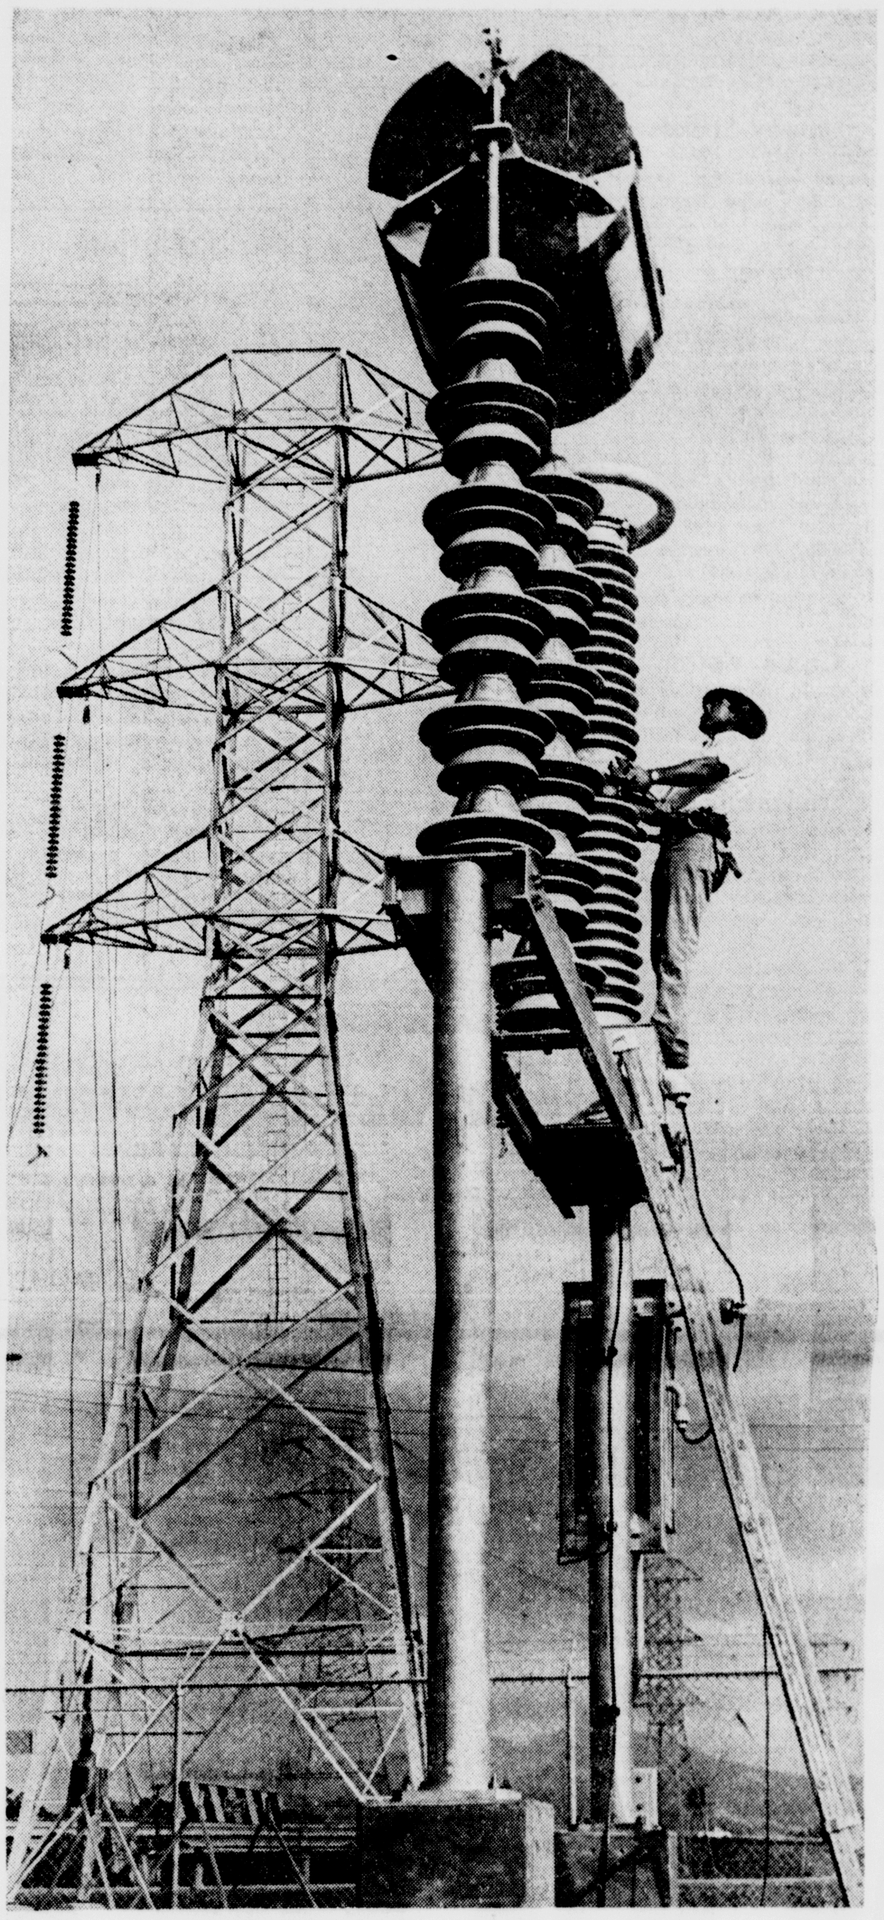
Chiesa, also 58 and also with the department for 31 years, announced last week he would retire and the council accepted his resignation with regret last night.

He has been working under a 75 per cent disability rating since shortly after suffering a heart attack in February 1968.

Brusatori was named juvenile officer in 1953 and his work in that job resulted in his selection by the Marin County Real Estate Board as Marin's "Man of the Year" in 1958.

He was promoted to captain and named assistant chief in the first promotion in the department after Chiesa's election in 1959. He was acting chief during Chiesa's illness.

His appointment is for the unexpired portion of Chiesa's elected term which ends in April 1971.



BLACKOUT GUARDIAN

This monster machine designed to protect Pacific Gas and Electric Company's system in the Ignacio area is being installed near the intersection of Highways 101 and 37, part of a $4.1 million project to be operating by Nov. 1. Julian Comenera, a member of PG&E's apprentice program is working the equipment, a coupling capacitator, as part of his training. Job foreman John Michael said the equipment picks up faults in the line and clears it through relays, keeping the fault out of the substation. Gate Span Buses Hit A Roadblock

San Francisco Board Wants Only Ferries

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

By unanimous vote, the supervisors adopted two resolutions declaring their "unequivocal opposition" to the bus system being considered by Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors, and reiterating their insistence that a ferry system be set up for Marin commuters.

The resolutions could halt in its track the bridge district's progress toward a $7.7 million crash program to set up a commuter bus service, since half the 18 district directors represent San Francisco.

One San Francisco source close to bridge district politics, who declined to be identified, predicted San Francisco's nine directors will buckle under to the supervisors' edict. "They're scared stiff of not being reappointed to the bridge board," he said.

Eight of the nine are appointed by the supervisors, and the ninth by the mayor.

Both resolutions were introduced by Supervisor William C. Blake, also a member of the bridge board and a strong advocate of rail transit to Marin. Blake is one of five supervisors facing re-election fights this year.

Blake argued that the bridge board was subsidizing the commuters with San Francisco money, which he said "provided 80 per cent of the funds to build the bridge." He apparently meant money San Francisco property owners pledged to back up the $35 million bond issue that built the bridge.

Only last week, however, Blake told meeting of bridge directors that the bridge was a financial flop until Marin developed a population base — clearly implying that the bridge district's huge revenues have been paid principally by Marinites, not San Franciscans.

A letter from the chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, John F. McInnis, asking that action on the resolutions be postponed until Marin supervisors could present their views, was ignored. McInnis' letter was dated yesterday, and noted the matter on the agenda had just come to his attention.

The resolutions also proposed expansion of the San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee from nine to 11 members by adding two bridge directors. The committee recently called for setting up a ferry system. Six of its members were appointed by the San Francisco supervisors.

The resolutions, after numerous amendments, also called for further study of the feasibility of a rail rapid transit tube to Marin. Blake said the study should be done by engineers for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The second vice president of the bridge board, Daniel F. Del Carlo, a veteran of almost 27 years on the board and one of its most influential members, told the Independent-Journal today that the supervisors' action

Nixon Sets New Vietnam Troop Cutback At 35,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today that at least 35,000 more U.S. troops will be withdrawn from Vietnam by Dec. 15.

That would bring to 60,000 the total of Americans in uniform to leave the war-torn country since the phased withdrawal program began in July.

(Following Nixon's statement, President Nguyen Van Thieu said in Saigon the withdrawal plan "is the measure of the progress in the strengthening of the army of the Republic of Vietnam."

(He further said "the government of Vietnam has agreed with the second reduction" after a careful study . . . "

(In Paris, the Viet Cong formally denounced the withdrawal plan, calling it a "maneuver aimed at appeasing American and world public opinion." And Hanoi said it still wanted all American troops out of Vietnam.)

A White House source said about half of the 35,000 would be combat troops—a lower ratio than in the original withdrawal of 25,000 men. He also said the total might turn out to be 36,000 or 37,000 once the action has been completed.

There was no word from Nixon on possible future withdrawals but the source said a number of contingency plans have been drawn up.

Nixon once expressed hope that U.S. withdrawals might exceed 100,000 by the end of 1969 and the source said he had no reason to believe Nixon had abandoned that hope. The latest announcement made the 100,000 level seem most unlikely.

The President coupled his new troop withdrawal announcement with a review of administration efforts to promote a peaceful settlement.

Calling for meaningful negotiations now, Nixon said: "I realize that it is difficult to communicate across the gulf of five years of war. But the time has come to end this war."

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said yesterday in Saigon he understood Nixon would announce a second-stage withdrawal of 40,500 men.

(In Saigon, the U.S. Armed Forces Network was ordered to censor Ky's troop statement.

(An officiai of the U.S. Command termed the censorship action a "rarity," but a staff member of the network said the command is "always telling us what we can and can't report.")

As for Ky's statement that he

Sausalito Superintendent Weathers Storm In Board

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Phillip W. Schneider, surviving a grueling four hours on the carpet with the Sausalito School District Board, last night retained his job as superintendent of the troubled district.

Board president Nathaniel Johnson, announcing the decision to a cheering audience after the lengthy closed meeting of the board, also outlined a new board policy calling for increased communication among the board, Schneider and the community and for the "depoliticizing" of the schools.

Although the board never specified any single charge made against Schneider, head of the district since 1967, he has been under fire from trustees James E. Muldoon and C. Gerald Clear for possibly withholding information on the past militant activities of Sidney F. Walton Jr., new principal of Martin Luther King School.

Many parents in the district also contended that Schneider has pushed the district towards

Nuclear Weapon Test Skakes Nevada Desert

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) A hydrogen device with a wallop of nearly a million tons of TNT, called "very important to national security," was detonated deep under a desert mesa today.

Newsmen watching the shot on closed-circuit television from a protected site 15 miles away saw the ground jump an estimated 15 feet, tossing rocks and dust aloft and triggering ripples in the earth that knocked away from its aiming point temporarily one of two television cameras placed 12,000 feet away.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the shot — which according to unofficial speculation was a test of an antimissile warhead — released no radiation into the atmosphere.

A red plywood building housing power supplies, located on the surface just 30 feet from ground zero, was flipped some 30 feet into the air and then settled back down, apparently upright.

In Las Vegas, about 100 miles from the blast site, the 29-story Landmark Tower Hotel rocked with a circular motion starting about 30 seconds after the shot.

On the streets below, traffic never hesitated.

The device was fired at 7:30 a.m. at the bottom of a 3,800-foot, 64-inch-diameter hole

Tiburon Citizens Voting On Annex

Seventeen of 79 registered voters had cast their ballots by 11 a.m. today in an election to decide whether a corner of Tiburon will annex to the Corte Madera Sanitary District. Seven absentee ballots had been cast.

The proposed annexation, which has been protested by 18 voters, is for residents of Taylor Road and Antoinette Drive above Paradise Drive and west of Paradise Cay. The area is now served by septic tanks which a public health official has called inadequate.

The polling place in the Bertram H. Hirsch garage at 4949 Paradise Drive will be open until 7 p.m.

High Court Nominee Denies Union Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. denied today, at a Senate hearing on his nomination for the Supreme Court, that he ever profited financially from any decision of the Fourth U..S Circuit Court of Appeals on which he serves.

His testimony was in answer to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who questioned him about a conflict of interest charge by labor unions fighting to block Senate confirmation of Haynsworth's appointment.

The 56-year-old South Carolinian maintained he acted properly in not disqualifying himself from participating in a case involving Deering-Mifliken Inc., a textile combine with which a vending machine company partly owned by Haynsworth did business.

McClellan asked Haynsworth at the opening hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee on his nomination if Carolina Vend-A-Matic, the vending machine company, had any inter-

Hayakawa Sees Peaceful Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Registration has begun quietly at San Francisco State College, and President S. I. Hayakawa maintains that ringleaders of last year's student strike have lost their following.

At a news conference yesterday on the first day of registration, Hayakawa predicted a peaceful opening next Monday when 1,000 students are expected to begin attending fall classes.

However, he said that "perhaps the most serious problem facing this college this year is accreditation."

Hayakawa, a Mill Valley resident, noted that last year the Western Association of Colleges and Universities renewed his college's accreditation for only two years instead of the usual five.

He also said the association refused to accredit the master's program in social work.

Unless the college's appeal of the decision is upheld, the diplomas of about 65 graduates of the program will be "worthless," he added.

S. I. HAYAKAWA
Accreditation worry

The student strike was a primary factor in both accreditation reviews, he said, and that if the college is to retain accreditation the responsibility remains "squarely with the faculty and students."

"When instruction is seriously interrupted or classroom time is diverted from the subject scheduled, or grading policies are violated so that high grades may become rewards or bribes for strike support," he said, "an educational inspection team must question whether the college's credits and degrees are worth anything."

Hayakawa said that as the tactics last year of the ringleaders became more violent and their demands more intransigent, they became "discredited in the eyes of a majority of the students."

"Since they have little following left, their effectiveness is very seriously diminished," he said.

Hayawaka said that a prediction of serious outbreaks of campus violence this fall by Gov. Ronald Reagan is not pointed at his campus. He said the governor telephoned him to say "his basic concern is about other campuses."

Reprimand To Skipper Of Evans

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — A one-man court-martial sentenced Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore to a reprimand today after finding the skipper of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans guilty of negligence in the collision of his ship and the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne.

The U.S. Navy judge, Capt. James E. Keys, 49, of Kansas City, Mo., announced his decision 40 minutes after testimony in the two-day trial ended. McLemore, 40, of San Pedro, stood stiffly at attention as the decision was read.

McLemore could have received a maximum of two years at hard labor and dismissal from the Navy.

OTHERS HIT

Two of the destroyer's junior officers, both on the bridge at the time of the June 3 collision in the South China Sea, received reprimands earlier for their part in the tragedy which took the lives of 74 Americans.

One of the two, Lt. (j.g.) Ronald C. Ramsey, also was set back on the promotion list, which made it unlikely that he will ever get a command.

Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., also was court-martialed before Keys, while the junior officer of the deck at the time of the collision, Lt. (j.g.) James A. Hopson, 29, of Kansas City, Kan., was not brought to trial but received a reprimand from the commander of the Seventh Fleet.

SUBJECT TO REVIEW

Although the sentences of McLemore and Ramsey are subject to review by the Navy McLemore's trial presumably ended disciplinary action against those involved in the collision. The skipper of the Melbourne, Capt. John P. Stevenson, was acquitted by an Australian court-martial last month.

McLemore was asleep in his cabin when the Evans, shifting from ahead of the Melbourne to astern of it, was cut in two by the carrier.

Grenade Death

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Arab threw a hand grenade into a busy market in Gaza City today, killing a 50-year-old Israeli woman and wounding another Israeli woman, a 15-year-old Israeli boy and 13 Arabs, sources in the occupied Gaza Strip reported.

Israeli troops surrounded the market and picked up a score of Arabs for questioning.

Several of the wounded were reported in serious condition.

Subway Strike

PARIS (AP) — Work stoppages on four of the 14 Paris subway lines today compounded problems caused by a six-day railway strike. Commuters tried to get to their city jobs by car, causing traffic snarls on the main thoroughfares.

On the state railway system, about 20 per cent of the regular commuter and long-distance trains were still in operation, but freight traffic was completely stalled.

A union delegation was scheduled to meet with subway officials today. The employees were asking for two consecutive rest days in a week and other improvements in work scheduling

In the Senate, the measure-which attempts to make loans to needy students readily available through government-guaranteed interest subsidies-either can be passed in its present form or sent to a conference committee. The House yesterday defeated an attempt to write in antiriot provisions.

The man of about 35 tried to reach the wall near the Branburg Gate, where grass now covers the rubble of Hitler's chancellery and bunker.

Apparently using the grassy knoll as cover, the man was very close to the wall when a guard in a tower spotted him. He fired a signal flare alerting a ground patrol which captured the man without firing a shot.

CBS REPORTS HERSHEY WILL BE RETIRED

NEW YORK (AP) — A Columbia Broadcasting System reporter says President Richard M. Nixon is preparing to retire Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, within the next month.

A White House spokesman in Washington said there was no such plan.

Newsman Dan Rather said yesterday on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite that Hershey would be replaced as part of a draft reform plan "designed to defuse domestic political opposition to the war."

Air Pollution, Another Ice Age Are Linked

WASHINGTON j)UPI) — A university professor foresees the air pollution problem on earth becoming so bad that it eventually will block out the sun and bring on another ice age.

E. F. Watt of the University of California at Davis, testified before a House Government Operations Subcommittee yesterday.

He said a study of five major volcanic eruptions and the ensuing air pollution in the past three centuries clearly showed that they had a "major effect" on weather.

He said this disturbed him more than anything else because modern man-made air pollution may work in a similar fashion, cutting off as much as 20 per cent of the sun's radiation.

Reagan Aides Admit Passing Look Article

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's press secretaries say they gave out out advance copies of the Look Magazine article purportedly linking Mayor Joseph Alioto with the Mafia, but only to newsmen who asked for them after hearing of the story.

Paul Beck, Reagan's No. 1 press aide, and Ed Gray, his assistant, gave depositions to Alioto's attorney yesterday in response to a court order in the mayor's $12.5 million libel suit against Look.

Alioto stressed the involvement of the governor's office in distributing advance copies of the article in an attempt to show political motivation for the story. Alioto has said he is considering seeking the Democratic nomination for governor to run against Republican Reagan next year.

After giving the deposition in San Francisco, Beck returned to Sacramento, where he told reporters there was nothing unusual in the governor's office providing copies of the articles to reporters and Reagan's aides.

It was done "the same as hundreds of other articles that have come in during the past two and one-half years," Beck said.

Gray, who actually distributed the copies, said "I did not take the initiative . . . We never did anything surreptitiously or secretly."

Two other depositions, from Lance Brisson and Richard Carlson, authors of the Look article, were postponed by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter.

Look attorney Charles Kennedy has asked four weeks' delay so that there would be time to study the writers' records.

Oliver postponed Brisson's deposition from Sept. 18 to Sept. 26 and Carlson's from Sept. 19 to Sept. 27. The taking of a deposition from senior Look editor George Leonard was tentatively set for Oct. 8.

Alioto's attorney, Maxwell Blecher, argued that time was important because the mayor "now operates under a cloud and there is a need for a quick and speedy decision."

Most Prisoners Return To Jobs

FOLSOM AP) — A majority of Folsom Prison's 2,414 inmates returned to their jobs yesterday to end a work strike which began last Wednesday.

One prison official described the situation as "mostly back to normal," but he said a few prisoners refused to come out of their cells.

"A very few declined the opportunity," said George Haynie, assistant to the warden, "and whatever their reason we don't know." He said some may have chosen to stay in their cells "for personal reasons."

Warning Issued On Excavation Violations

The Mill Valley City Council last night threatened punitive measures against contractors and engineers who purposely ignore city development ordinances.

Such measures would include filing criminal misdemeanor complaints against offenders and reporting them to their licensing boards.

The council's threat came during discussions on correctig excavation work at 200 Marlin Avenue where the city claims 1,500 cubic yards of earth were removed when contractor John Ribeiro had a permit to remove only 100 cubic yards of dirt.

The city also charged the excavation may cause slides and floods on surrounding property during the rainy season.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala said sometimes the city can force contractors to repair damage but "once they excavate we can't put it back."

In August, the council told Ribeiro to repair the site to prevent damage to other property, including the city street, but, Bala said, nothing has been done.

The council told Ribeiro he had one more week to make repairs or Bala would do the job and charge it against Ribeiro's performance bond.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

CONTRACT — Awarded a contract for the Park School drainage project to Everson Construction Co. of San Bruno on a low bid of $11,667.

ANNEXATION — Directed city Atty. Leland H. Jordan to draft an ordinance of a 15-foot strip along Fern Canyon Road.

CAMPING — Adopted an ordinance prohibiting camping and lodging on public or private property without permission.

ABANDONMENT — Postponed action to Oct. 6 on a request by Howard Lane that the city abandon a portion of Summit Avenue right-of-way.

MEETING — Heard a meeting of city staff with yacht harbor developer Paul B. Fischer of Los Angeles has been tentatively scheduled for 3:30 p.m., Sept. 25.

POLES — Heard that the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will charge $2,500 to remove two power poles or $35,000 to remove all power poles along Fern Canyon Road if the city wishes to install underground utilities.

WARRANTS — Authorized four city staff members to sign warrants.

APPOINTMENTS — Postponed appointments to the youth commission and architectural advisory committee.

VASCO DRIVE — Approved drawings and plans for improvements to Vasco Drive drainage.

Move Forces Robinson To Quit Council

Mill Valley City Councilman Rodric L. Robinson resigned last night because he has moved to Tiburon.

In a letter read at the city council meeting, Robinson said the resignation would be effective immediately.

The council, required by law to select a replacement within 30 days or hold an election, set a closed meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss candidates.

Robinson said he regretted that "during my term of office the yacht harbor could not have been completed" and that he would not be able "to continue to work with the youth commission."

A resident of Mill Valley for 20 years, Robinson served on the city's planning commission from 1962 to 1966 when he was elected to the council.

Novatans Argue Route Of DeLong Extension

After hearing objections to proposed routes for the extension of De Long Avenue east of the freeway bypass when it is constructed, the Novato Planning Commission at an adjourned meeting last night asked the staff to make further study of possible routes.

These are to be presented at a public hearing at 8 p.m., Oct. 20 at the Novato Community House.

The routes presented last night include a short route over the hill east of Hancock Street with a hookup to Rosalia Drive. About 10 residents of that street objected to this connection with Olive Avenue, said assistant planning director Warren Baker.

Other routes shown for the 84-foot-wide eastbound connection to the freeway went behind Gnoss Estates, down the hill and connected with Olive Avenue east of Gnoss Estates, Baker said.

"Residents of the area are concerned with the increase in traffic which the offramp would generate," Baker said.

Both proposed routes extend about 3,000 feet over the top of a hill where there is no development at the present time, Baker said. The state Division of Highways would like the route set before it begins construction of the bypass because it would grade the street in order to get fill for the overpass at Olive Avenue, Baker said.

Industrial Chiefs Study Income Gaps

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A conference of 700 of the world's leading industrialists moved today from the rhetoric of its theme—closing the world's income gap—to details of how to do it.

Delegates from 70 countries to the International Industrial Conference began the second day of their five-day exchange of ideas at the Fairmont Hotel with a series of technical panels. These examined the monetary exchange system among nations, how to develop manpower and management talent, and management systems in various countries.

As the conference opened yesterday, about 1,000 young people, waving red flags and many wearing beards and long hair, demonstrated in front of the hotel against what they called "this imperialistic conference." Police threw a tight cordon across Nob Hill, and after an hour of chanting slogans the crowd melted away.

The International Monetary Exchange System "is in trouble," said Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the Bank of England, in a speech for his panel today.

The trouble is rooted in inflation, high interest rates and currency crises in individual countries, he said, but "it is important not to exaggerate" the problems.

"The decade since the major currencies became convertible in 1958 has been the most prosperous the world has ever known" he said. "The annual rate of growth of over 8 per cent in world trade and world production have probably never been equalled in any previous period."

England Re-Elected By Hub Commission

Robert England was re-elected chairman of the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission last night. Jay C. Stovall was elected vice chairman and Laura M. Cann secretary.

Two new commissioners, Carol Leach and Lawrence Husband, were seated to replace Walter J. Anderson and Richard C. Ehrhart, whose terms had expired.

The commission heard the Robson-Harrington Park Association outline plans for fund-raising events this winter to furnish the Robson-Harrington mansion: a fashion show, a midnight buffet, a jazz festival and an amateur art exhibit.

The commission recommended the city council allot $500 to the Third Rail teen center, subject to an opinion by the city attorney on legality of the expenditure. The commission agreed to investigate San Anselmo's teen groups and consider possible financial aid to each group that presents a program to the commission.

Director Frank L. Quinn told the commission the parks and recreation department has been accepted into the College of Marin's work-study program, meaning students studying recreation will be available to work in San Anselmo playground programs.

Hong Kong is now the wig capitol of the world with more than 200 factories producing them for export markets.

Hub May Hire Consultants To Get U.S. Planning Cash

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council tonight hire planning consultants Williams and Mocine to prepare an application for federal funds for a new general plan.

The firm would be hired at a fee of $1,000 to prepare a reconnaisance report, work outline and application for the program under Public Law 701, City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell said.

The commission also asked Leitzell to review the Town of Ross's experience with its ordinance on abatement on nonconforming land uses and report back. San Anselmo has no such ordinance but the commission is discussing one.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission Also:

SETBACKS — Recommended the council pass an amendment to allow architectural features such as chimneys to extend two feet into side yard setbacks, which recently have been increased from five feet to eight feet.

FOTOMAT — Denied a use permit sought by Alfred Nannizzi for a drive-up Fotomat business at 5 Red Hill Avenue on grunds traffic was too heavy for the use of the narrow lot.

APARTMENTS — Discussed problems of non-conforming multiple uess in one-family districts, then continued the public hearing to Oct. 6.

ZONE — Held to the Oct. 6 meeting an application by Anna Ghezzi and John Komo for apartment zoning of a duplex-zoned lot at 158 Tunstead Avenue.

VARIANCES — Approved variances sought by Melvin J. Chambers for a five-foot setback for an addition at 19 Hooper lane, Thomas D. Wilson for setbacks for an addition at 8 Crescent Lane, and B. M. Schmidt for setbacks for a garage at 61 Madrone Avenue.

CONGRESS

Minutes before the astronauts entered the House chamber, a resolution authorizing a new medal called the Congressional Space Medal of Honor was passed by the Senate and sent to the White House.

The resolution, which passed the House yesterday, would be awarded an astronaut "who in the performance of his duties has distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious efforts and contributions to the welfare of the nation and mankind."

Collins told the assemblage that when man eventually steps on Mars, "I think I'll hear him say, 'I come from the United States of America.'" There was long applause.

Armstrong said there were long shadows and only 11 degrees of sunrise at Tranquility Base on the moon.

There were two kinds of time, measured by the crew's routine, and the other marked by the ageless rocks of the moon, Armstrong said.

He recounted setting down the plaque that said "We came in peace for all mankind."

Collins told the legislators the Apollo team had taken to the moon the wealth of the nation, the vision of its political leaders, the skill and learning of its engineers and scientists, and the enthusiastic support of its people.

"We brought back rocks—I think it's a fair trade," he added, as the chamber rocked with laughter.

Just as Egypt's Rosetta stone unlocked the mysteries locked in ancient tongues, Collins said, the moon rocks may unlock many of the mysteries of earth, moon, solar system and universe.

Each of the spacemen seemed to assume that further explorations into outermost space are to be expected as a matter of course, despite rising complaints at their cost in Congress and elsewhere.

Another Lunch On Courthouse

The meeting, to be held at Anjo's Restaurant, San Rafael, is similar to one held last Thursday with the San Rafael City Council.

Under state law, the meeting is open to the public.

Burch Held Nominee For FCC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon will nominate Dean Burch, a former Republican national chairman, to succeed Chairman Rosel H. Hyde of the Federal Communications Commission, a White House source said today.

Burch, a Tucson, Ariz., attorney, helped direct the 1964 campaign of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the Republican presidential nomination. Goldwater, once nominated, picked Burch as chairman of the Republican National Committee, a post he held only briefly.

NIXON

looked for a total U.S. withdrawal of 150,000 to 200,000 by the end of 1970, the White House source who talked to newsmen —declining to be quoted by name—said Ky did not get those figures from U.S. officials.

Further withdrawals will be considered periodically but, the White House source said, the United States is not going to commit itself to any specific date for a new review of U.S. troop levels.

The informant also discussed Nixon's order last week for a 36-hour halt in B52 bomber missions over South Vietnam — a move he conceded the White House had not fully explained at the time.

The White House initially said only the halt was designed to assess the level of enemy military activity following an uncertain truce that marked the death of Ho Chi Minh.

But the White House official said today there was an additional motive—to indicate to Hanoi that the U.S. negotiating position is flexible and that everything, including a complete halt of B52 missions, is negotiable with one exception: The right of the South Vietnamese to fix their own future free of outside interference.

Asked whether the United States had informed Hanoi of its reasons for the brief halt, the source would not comment.

He described the Paris peace negotiations as stalemated throughout the summer but added it was conceivable Hanoi stood pat because of Ho's last illness. He said it was possible negotiations now might become more active.

Since the beginning of the year, he said, infiltration of troops from North to South Vietnam had declined substantially. But he said there is no firm evidence yet whether this was a military decision or a political move that could be the prelude to intensified talks in Paris.

In related action, the Navy is considering deactivating a Marine division, one-third of which is in Vietnam, as a way of further cutting defense spending this year, Pentagon sources report.

Involved is the West Coast-based Fifth Marine Division whose 6,000 to 7,000 man 26th Regiment is operating around Da Nang, South Vietnam.

The outfit's other two regiments are at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Military officers said in advance of today's scheduled White House announcement on troop withdrawals they did not know whether the 26th Regiment might be called home for deactivation as part of the cutbacks.

But they said the deactivation of the Fifth if ordered, would almost certainly require substantial Marine cuts in Vietnam since that division serves as the corps' rotation base for the Pacific area.

Rohnert Park Area Collision Hurts Two

HEARING

est in the litigation.

"No, sir," Haynsworth replied.

At the conclusion of the morning hearing, the committee made public a list of stocks, bonds and debentures owned by Haynsworth and also companies in which he has served as a director or officer.

The list of stocks Haynsworth reported holding as of this month included investments in three major textile companies —400 shares of Burlington Industries Inc., 1,575 shares of Dan River Mills, and 550 shares of J. P. Stevens & Co. Altogether about 45 different stock holdings were shown.

Haynsworth testified in response to McClellan's questions that Vend-A-Matic's gross sales in Deering-Milliken plant at the time of the court's 1963 decision amount to about $100,000 out of its total sales of $3.1 million.

McClellan asked how much of the $100,000 gross would be translated into net profit. Haynesworth said he could only guess but that over-all he thought the vending company made a profit of close to 10 per cent on its sales.

This would indicate that his share of Vend-A-Matic's profits from its business with Deering-Milliken would amount to about $1,430 a year. McClellan, however, asked that Haynsworth have company auditors figure out the amount and make the figure available to the committee.

Haynesworth also testified in answer to questions by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., that he did not own any stock in Deering-Milliken, a big textile combine in the Carolinas.

Haynsworth told the committee that "A judge is every bit as obligated to sit in a case in which he is not disqualified by statute or by the canons of ethics as he is to disqualify himself where required to do so by those standards."

The decision of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, on which Haynsworth has served since 1957, overturned a finding by the National Labor Relations Board of an unfair labor practice against Deering-Milliken Inc. and one of its subsidiaries, the Darlington Manufacturing Co.

Darlington closed down its plant after the Textile Workers of America won a representation election, and the court held in a 3-2 decision that the company had a right to do so, whatever its motive. The decision later was reversed by the Supreme Court.

Haynsworth said that after Carolina Vend-A-Matic had been taken over by another firm he disposed of his stock interests for a net sales price of $437,710. He had paid $2,400 for his stock after the company was formed in 1950, and later made a capital contribution to the corporation of $600, he said.

Haynsworth also is under fire from various civil rights organizations which have accused him of pro-segregationist rulings on the Fourth Circuit Court. He has been chief judge of the court since 1964.

Haynsworth was presented to the committee by South Carolina's two senators, Democrat Ernest F. Hollings and Republican Strom Thurmond.

A crater was expected to develop within 24 hours due to surface soil falling into a 700-foot-diameter cavern created at the bottom of the hole. Creation of the cavern, experts said, displaced an estimated 10 million tons of rock—much of which was instantly vaporized or melted.

Fairfax police yesterday confiscated what appeared to be an indoor marijuana garden plus some marijuana and seeds and arrested two persons.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of marijuana were William Robert Herman, 21, of 25 Wreden Avenue ,Fairfax, and Patricia Jane MacLeod, 18, of 73 Magnolia Avenue, San Anselmo.

Police said they went to the Wreden Avenue house at 5:35 p.m. yesterday with a search warrant obtained by the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau. Bureau inspectors said they had received an anonymous tip that 15 or 16 marijuana plants were visible through a window of the apartment.

Agents checked and found the tip appeared to be true and got the search warrant.

Union Killing Charge Dropped

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)— Murder conspiracy charges against Carl Black, 48, an Oakland accountant, have been dropped for lack of evidence.

Black originally was charged with murder in connection with the shotgun slaying in 1966 of Ralph Alsup, head of a Las Vegas plumbing union, but last January the charge was reduced to conspiracy, a gross misdemeanor.

Shortly before Black's trial was to begin yesterday, Chief Criminal Deputy Dist. Atty. Alan Johns told Nevada Dist. Judge Clarence Sundean the state had insufficient evidence to prosecute.

Thomas Hanley, 51, former head of a Las Vegas casino dealers union now serving a one-year prison sentence, was also charged with murder in connection with the Alsup slaying. The charges are pending.

No Complaint Filed In Death Of Teen

No complaint has been filed in Sonoma Municipal Court against Jimmy Sims, 18, of Petaluma, who had been held as a suspect in the death of Robert F. Buhrer, 47, on Aug. 23.

A coroner's autopsy showed that Buhrer died from peritonitis caused by a ruptured bladder. Police originally believed he might have been fatally injured in a fight with Sims, but no charges has been brought.

Burglar Sentenced To Youth Authority

Peter Wayne Mullaney, 20, of no fixed address, was sentenced yesterday to the California Youth Authority for the Jan. 30 burglary of Thrifty Drug Store in San Rafael.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson said that his term was to run concurrently with one he is serving from Solano County.

Burglars Take 100 Cartons Of Cigarettes

Burglars who broke into Pepper's Grocery Store on Wharf Road in Bolinas Thursday night or early Friday morning took $90 in change, checks and about 100 cartons of cigarettes, sheriff's deputies said today.

The total loss was estimated at $425. Deputies said the burglars, who drank beer while in the store, were unsuccessful in opening a safe.

School Discussion

William J. Donnellan, assistant director of admissions at the University of San Francisco, will discuss curriculum and academic requirements at San Rafael High School at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

BANKER

I'm getting sensitive, since I once spirited a salmon."

Hall argued that he saw "no benefit for every bank officer to bare his soul." Making public background reports on bank officers, he added, "might drive some very fine people into other fields, where instead we want a creative atmosphere in banking to attract productive people."

Hall warned that the same reasoning, if applied to everyone in businesses regulated by the state, would mean that up to 70 per cent "of the community would be exchanging financial information about one another."

Repeating his oppositton to full disclosure of records on the background of bankers, he said "a man who has overcome his youthful exuberance should be allowed a rest."

Hall insisted that his department's main job was "to protect community trust in the institution," a comment that prompted a committee member to suggest the department was more interested in protecting the bank than the depositer.

Also testifying before the committee at the Clift Hotel was the state's chief deputy corporations commissioner, James L. Kelly, who argued for the right to suppress information at least temporarily.

He used the example of an application for a merger. If the application were public, he said, speculation could prevent the merger by driving up the price of one of the firm's stock.

Several committee members noted that current law did not provide that information in Kelly's department must be made public after being acted upon, and Kelly said he was willing to have a time limit added to the law to remove his right to keep records secret indefinitely.

Saul Perlis, chief counsel of the division of savings and loan, also argued that many records in his department should remain secret. Many of the records have detailed information on persons making big loans, he noted, and the privacy of these persons should be protected.

Bagley and the committee, however, agreed that state officials will have to learn to live under the Public Records Act, which he authored. "There must be a balancing with the public right to know," Bagley said.

News Publisher H. S. Ridder Dies

LONG BEACH (AP) — Herman H. Ridder, president and director of a nationwide newspaper empire and a believer in crusading journalism, is dead at 61.

"Guts—they're priceless. You can't have a newspaper without them," he once counseled a group of college journalists.

Ridder followed what he preached. For almost 40 years he pushed for enterprising reporting and strong, community minded editorials in the 17 Ridder newspapers.

Military funeral services will be held Thursday for Ridder, who died yesterday at his Long Beach home. He was a reserve Marine Corps colonel. Burial will be in Rye, N.Y.

In 1952, Ridder became head of Ridder Publications, Inc., founded by his grandfather, as well as publisher of the chain's largest newspaper, the Long Beach Independent and Press Telegram.

Cousins Admit Union Hall's Burglary

Two cousins, Robert B. Deem, 26, and Richard B. Deem, 21, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that they had burglarized the Painters Union hall in San Rafael June 29.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Nov. 3 after warning the younger Deem that he might face a stiffer sentence since he has a worse record than his cousin.

Warrant Is Issued In Burglary Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson for Harold Gene McDonald, 20, of Sausalito, when he failed to appear for a jury trial on a burglary charge.

The youth is accused of burglarizing the Mill Valley Tennis Club March 30.

an exclusively black curriculum, that discipline at the schools had disintegrated and that the quality of education in the district has dramatically declined.

Schneider also has been criticized for his backing of William Bradley (Chaka), another militant black educator who was on the district's staff last year.

Chaka had his application for a temporary teaching credential denied last month by the Marin County Board of Education, because he is under investigation by the State Department of Public Instruction, whose credentials committee is to hear his case next Tuesday.

Johnson read the statement and the board immediately adjourned without taking any questions from the audience. Johnson said the board would consider questions at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Monday.

The statement said: "For many hours the board has discussed with its administrator a wide range of questions and concerns raised by individual board members and the community. There have been disagreements in the meeting on a number of points. The board and the administrator have recognized the need for reforms and reaffirmation of certain objectives with regard to:

"1. Communication between the board and the superintendent.

"2. Communication between the superintendent and the school's communities.

"3. The board's communication with the public.

"4. The educational objectives of the district.

"5. The decided need of the depoliticizing of the schools, staff and the communities in terms of our educational functions.

"6. The need for more open communications."

The statement continued that to move towards those objectives, "the emotional fever of the district (should) be put aside in consideration of the educational programs we are trying to implement."

The board also said it will immediately initiate a program of weekly coffee sessions with the superintendent, parents, teachers and school administrators to discuss school problems.

The statement concluded by saying, "By consensus, the board has agreed there will be no change in the status of our chief administrator, Mr. Schneider."

Johnson, expanding briefly on the statement after the meeting, said, "It's time we get back to education." He said the board wanted to "get the political aspects out of the schools" and start "redirecting our energies towards basic educational goals."

Muldoon had said several weeks ago he was considering resigning from the board as a result of the furor over the district's direction. Last night, asked whether the board's stand had any effect on whether he would quit the board, Muldoon said, "Not at this time."

Many in last night's audience of more than 50 people were teachers in the Sausalito district who chanted "If Phil goes, we go" as each board member arrived.

The teachers, who cheered "Right on" and applauded when Johnson read the board statement, held signs bearing such slogans as: "Enlightened Leadership Schneider," "Phil Schneider is Color Blind," "We Need Phil" and "We Go With Phil."

BUSES

"caught me off guard." He declined to comment in detail until he had read the resolution, but said "I never make it a policy to vote for something because a supervisor voted for something."

Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco said, "I'm not bound by them (the supervisors), but I'm not saying I would oppose their position either." He added that he probably would oppose the bus system unless a ferry system were started at the same time.

"But I am not totally opposed to buses the way the San Francisco Board of Supervisors is," Dearman said.

Director Ben K. Lerer, the only other San Francisco representative available this morning, said he had no comment on the supervisors' action.

The bridge board's reaction to the supervisors action should come when it meets at 9 a.m. on Thursday in district offices at the toll plaza to consider setting up the bus system.

Petaluman Faces Weapons Charge

A Petaluma man was arrested today on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon and for being drunk in public.

Gail C. Spalding, 46, of 314 Edith Street, was released on $625 bail to appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Sept. 29.

Police said that Spalding, a bartender, was found drunk at Wilson and East D streets and had a loaded pistol in his pocket.

Jail Meted In Furlough Skip

Morlin Smith, 21, of Marin City pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge of failing to return to the county jail from a work furlough last June 28.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the time that Smith has served since he was re-arrested was sufficient punishment and released him.

Revokable License On Building Pier

Belvedere Planning commissioners last night recommended the city grant a revokable license to Scott Newhall of 242 Beach Road to construct a pier on city property in Belvedere Cove, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli reported.

Commissioners also heard, but took no action on, a report from San Francisco landscape architect Carlisle Becker explaining the proposed parks master plan, Cavalli said.

Tam High Bus Charge Idea Draws West Marin Fire

By FRANK FARRARA

A Bolinas-Stinson School District trustee last night rapped a proposal that Tamalpais High School District levy a charge for bus service.

Edward Z. Lewis, said the district should assume transportation costs in its budget and it was "unfair to make the students farther away pay for the costs of transportation."

David D. Ring, chairman of the Tamalpais High School District Transportation Committee which recommended the new pay system, said there are inequities in the present system.

The district has been providing charter bus service to several areas, including Bolinas-Stinson, at no charge to students, but at a cost of $23,500 a year to the district.

Students from areas not served by charter buses, either have no facilities available or are paying commuter rates, Ring said.

Student, living outside two miles, would pay 30 cents a one-way trip, 60 cents round trip or $2.50 a week for a book of tickets, and the service would be provided by Greyhound Bus Co. under charter.

Ring said it would cost the district $110,000 to serve all the students living more than two miles from school and the committee felt "priorities didn't justify spending those kind of funds" on transportation.

Lewis said the taxpayers in the Bolinas-Stinson School District pay more per student than taxpayers in other areas of the district. "We are paying enough to have our students transported," he contended.

Some students in the Bolinas-Stinson School District area are living as far as 27 miles from high school, he pointed out. "The first order of importance of any school is to get the students to the school."

He said the annual cost would be unfair to families in the Bolinas-Stinson area, and the cost would result in more students driving cars, hitch-hiking and missing school days.

Students in Marin City's public housing would be exempt, and trustees said provision could be made for other low-income families.

Ring pointed out that the district doesn't own any buses, the county doesn't have any transportation system, leaving only Greyhound.

Under the present plan, some students are paying for transportation at commuter rates while others are receiving it free, which Ring felt is an inequity.

The proposed plan calls for retaining the present runs, and expanding services by starting new runs, he said.

The proposed 30-cent charge is less than some students are paying in some areas now with "the typical commute" rate about 45 cents, and some paying 90 cents, Ring said.

Frank A. Cassou, business director, said the proposed new system would provide service to areas not now served such as the Paradise Drive area, Corte Madera, east of Highway 101, and the Sausalito area combined with a loop through Mill Valley.

Trustees advised the audience including about a dozen primarily interested in bussing, that there would be another hearing on the proposal before any action was taken.

Speed Limit Signs Asked

I-J Special Report

SANTA Rosa — Residents of Thomas Lane just outside Petaluma city limits yesterday petitioned the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to post speed limit signs on the street.

Mrs. Jerome J. Durenberger, 210 Thomas Lane presented a petition signed by all residents urging that signs indicating the speed limit be installed.

She said that visitors to homes on the street and patrons of a nearby beauty salon do not realize how short and narrow the street is and usually speed. Mrs. Durenberger said the present situation is dangerous for children and pets.

Supervisor George T. DeLong of Petaluma said that he and Donald B. Head, a road commissioner, would look into the problem.

Antilitter Cleanup Set For Taylor Park

A litter cleanup will be held at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in West Marin Oct. 10 through 12 under the sponsorship of the California Outdoor Recreation League.

The league is asking for volunteers to clean the park's Saw Mill Creek as part of a 12-state rubbish pickup to occur that weekend. Individuals or groups that wish to help should contact Capt. Richard W. Wheeler, a league director, at Travis AFB.

Alcatraz Plans Decision Put Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The board of supervisors has postponed for two weeks any decision on the future of Alcatraz Island, while indicating it prefers no large scale development there.

Meeting yesterday as the Surplus Property Commission, the supervisors decided to continue negotiations with a joint venture proposing tours of the once famous federal prison.

Harbor Tug and Barge Co. of San Francisco and Macco Corp. of Southern California made the joint offer for tour rights, offering $2 million for a 10-year lease.

A third of the nation's fruit comes from California.

Year-Round Classes Answer To Crowding?

Tamalpais High School District Trustee Robert W. Corlett suggested last night the district consider year-round classes to meet its housing needs.

Corlett also suggested looking into borrowing from banks for capital expenditures and leasing of air rights and subsurface rights on district lands.

For example, he said, the district could lease air space above one of its sites to a private developer for a building, or subsurface land for underground parking, and use the income to pay for school buildings.

Interest on a bank loan, he felt, could be cheaper than the interest rate on bonds.

Trustees said that changing to a year-round system would take long study, and Corlett felt the district could get community opinions by holding hearings on the idea.

Trustees also received a letter from Leo Souza, a member of the Reed School District board stressing the need for additional buildings in the district, "particularly a Tiburon Peninsula high school."

He recommended that the district reactivate its citizen committee and start a program of informing voters of the district's building needs.

Trustees agreed that the building problem was significant enough to warrant a board workshop, but no date was set.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

Novato TV Antenna Plea To Be Aired

A request to erect a 74-foot antenna on the Lynwood Park tank site will be discussed by the North Marin County Water District board at 8 p.m. today at the water district offices at 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

G'Tec, which holds the franchise for cable television in Novato, has asked to lease a portion of the water tank site to build a community television antenna. The property is on the hill south of Sunset Parkway and east of South Novato Boulevard.

The request came before the water board on Sept. 2, but was continued until tonight so that people in the area might protest the antenna if they wanted to.

The board will consider requests for easements from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and Western California Telephone Co. for poles to be placed on the land owned by the district near Stafford Dam.

Other items to come before the board include the renewal of the grazing lease of the land around Stafford Lake, a report on the season's fishing on the lake and a pre-audit statement on the district's finances.

Board Approves Auto Show Use

Fairfax School District trustees has approved use of the Central School grounds for a car show during the Fairfax Festival, Oct. 11-12.

The special meeting Saturday preceded the annual tour of the district's facilities, School Superintendent Reginald Hammond said.

The trustees commended director of buildings and grounds Stan Butcher for the condition of the facilities, but noted several minor maintenance problems which the district cannot afford to solve.

Suspect Booked On Embezzlement

A former bookkeeper of the Kent Manufacturing Co. of 129 Carlos Drive, San Rafael, has been arrested by Carmel police on suspicion of embezzling $1,955 from the company in the seven months she worked for them before quitting in June, San Rafael police said today.

Astarte Davis, 36, formerly of 4079 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, was freed yesterday from Monterey County Jail on $6,250 bail after booking. An appearance date in Marin Municipal Court was not set.

Robber Handed Prison Term

Warren Wilson, 20-year-old Oakland man, who was convicted by a Marin Superior Court jury in July of armed robbery of a Sausalito shop, yesterday was sentenced to state prison for a term of not less than five years by Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Wilson was convicted on July 11 after his second trial. In the first one the jury could not reach a unanimous decision.

He was arrested 10 days after the July 30, 1968, robbery of the Horn Shop which was followed by a wild shooting fray on Princess Street. The jury found him innocent of assault with a deadly weapon.

Man Wanted In Texas Arrested

Frank Davis, of San Francisco sought by police in California on a warrent signed by the governor for extraditon to Texas, was arrested in San Rafael at 7 p.m. Sunday by San Rafael police inspector Gilbert Freitas.

Freitas was making a purchase in the Mayfair Market at 340 Third Street when he recognized Davis from photographs, arrested and booked him into Marin County Jail. Davis is wanted in Texas for violation of probation on a grand theft conviction.

An encephalitis epidemic in Eucador recently infected more than 40,000 people, causing 400 fatalities. A mercy mission of United States Air Force planes checked the sleeping sickness outbreak by spraying insecticide on 259,675 acres of coastal lands.

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 6, the 259th day of 1969 with 106 days to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1630, the Massachusetts village of Shawmut changed its name to Boston.

In 1893, the Cherokee strip in Oklahoma was opened to homesteaders. More than 100,000 persons rushed to claim land.

In 1963, the Asian nation of Malaysia was created.

A thought for the day: American novelist Mark Twain said, "There are several good protections against temptations but the unrest is cowardice."

Truly Busy Day For Mr. Estrada

ALICE, Tex. (UPI)—In one day, Hector Estrada was sentenced to prison, granted a divorce, and married—all by the same judge.

Estrada drew a prison term of four years after a previous burglary probation was revoked. Judge C. W. Laughlin then granted a divorce petition that Estrada had filed several months earlier, and married him to his second wife. After the ceremony, Estrada was taken to the county jail to await transfer to the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

COLLEGE TOURNEY

When today's hand was played some years ago in the annual Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament, the final contract was four spades at almost every table. West invariably led the king of clubs against any kind of spade contract.

Every experienced East followed suit with the seven or eight of clubs to encourage a club continuation, but not every West stopped to think of the true meaning of this signal. The average West player blithely cashed the ace of clubs at the second trick and then looked around for new worlds to conquer.

There were no new worlds. If West promptly took his ace of hearts, he could get a third defensive trick. If West failed to take the ace, he wouldn't get it; South was ready to draw trumps and run the diamonds to get rid of his hearts.

SHOWS QUEEN

In the ordinary hand, signaling with a high card does not promise a definite card but merely urges partner to continue the suit. In this case, since East had bid clubs, he could not wish to ruff the third round of clubs. East's signal at the first trick could be based only on possession of the queen of clubs.

If West stopped to think, he would lead a low club at the second trick instead of cashing the ace of clubs. East would win with the queen of clubs and would return a heart, defeating the contract.

EAST'S ACTION

If East had the king of hearts but did not have the queen of clubs, he would play his lowest club at the first trick, and West could switch to hearts at the second trick.

ANSWER: Pass. Stay out of the bidding when an opponent bids one of your strong suits. Your hand is not quite strong enough for an overcall of one no-trump.

Planners Approve Rules For Richardson Bay High-Rises

By WAT TAKESHITA

A specific plan for development of Richardson Bay, which would allow high-rise buildings up to 12 stories along Highway 101, won unanimous approval of the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday.

The decision came on a motion by Jack G. Nixon, and amendments by Margaret Azevedo.

The plan will permit not more than one high-rise per property owner.

Mrs. Azevedo's amendment set the maximum height at 12 stories. However, this maximum is only a guide for developers and does not mean that every 12-story plan will be approved, said Mrs. Azevedo.

Nixon also warned that permission for a high-rise per owner is not automatic, and each must be decided on its own merits.

Nixon said he hopes the developers will do more than merely consider economic gain but come in with "plans that are distinct and unique and make this a show place, something like Ghiradelli Square."

Under the plan, the area between Kappas Yacht Harbor and the heliport will be left in open water, with a marina green along the highway.

Maximum fill allowed must not exceed 40 per cent of each owner's existing open water area. Water use (such as houseboats and marinas) development will be allowed up to 67 per cent of the existing water area.

The planning staff drew a line parallel to the shoreline, about 600 to 800 feet from Highway 101. High-rise buildings will be allowed only to landward; beyond the line, maximum height will be 44 feet above mean sea level.

Planning Director Paul C. Zucker explained that high-rise buildings closer to the bay would mar the horizon when viewed from Strawberry Peninsula.

The 44-foot height restriction is also imposed on a semicircular piece of land along Bridgeway, opposite a hill where apartments are located, to preserve tennants' views.

Hugh S. J. Allen, representing George Zaro, objected to a restriction that said, "Piers shall only be allowed where shoreline appearance is enchanced." The commissioners deleted this language.

Allen also objected to requirements for open space. If open area is required on private land, that open area should be taken off the tax rolls, declared Allen.

"How different is that from land where open space is preserved for the privilege of clustering?" replied Chairman Michael Praszker.

None of the other property owners raised serious objections to the Richardson Bay specific plan.

Southern Marin Homes Looted

Two burglaries with loot totaling $790 have been reported in Southern Marin, deputies at the Marin City substation said yesterday.

They said $525 worth of stereo equipment, a jewelry box and credit cards were stolen from the Norman Wallen residence at 7 Morningsun Avenue in Tamalpais Valley after burglars entered an unlocked window while the family was away for the weekend.

Burglars also hit the Luella Head residence at 420 Panoramic Highway during the weekend and made off with $265 in travelers checks, a radio and stereo portable and stereo tapes.

Deputies said thieves apparently gained entrance by reaching through a door panel that had been taken out as a pet door and unlocking the door.

Alarm Goes Off, Burglars Flee

Thieves ransacking the offices of the La Fargue Laundry at 1110 Third Street, San Rafael 11:38 p.m. Friday, set off a burglar alarm which brought police but scared off the burglars as they arrived, police reported yesterday.It was not determined if anything was taken by the two men police saw jumping over a rear fence.

Also scared off by a burglar alarm were thieves who cut a lock on the door of the D and S Garage warehouse at Francisco Boulevard and Grand Avenue at 11:25 p.m. Sunday night. Nothing apparently was taken, police reported.

Mobile Home Park Near Hamilton Vetoed

A 50-acre mobile home park with 373 pads, proposed just north of Hamilton Air Force Base runway, went down to defeat 5 to 2 before the Marin County Planning Commission late yesterday.

On a motion by Eugene R. Trombley and a second by Hugh Dougherty, the majority denied a mobile home zoning for Max Dillman of Balboa, who wanted to build the project on a portion of the 400 acres owned by Jack and Lerona West of Novato. The property is located about a mile east of Highway 101 just north of the northern tip of the Hamilton runway.

The commissioners agreed with Planning Director Paul C. Zucker that the area is too close to the flight zone and would be subject to noise and hazards. The Novato general plan proposes an industrial area at the location, with low density.

"Novato is already overwhelmed by mobile home sites," declared Trombley, in moving for rejection.

He was backed by Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation, composed of 10 homeowner groups, and Jack Kniveton, president of Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association, who filed a protest petition signed by more than 300 residents.

North Marin already has 1,000 mobile home pads approved, with more planned, including 1,800 units by John Kenney at Black Point, said Baptiste. He said 5 per cent of the North Marin population is already in mobile homes.

Baptiste presented financial studies showing that mobile homes bring in $400 to $500 less per pad in tax revenue than conventional homes, and also asked for state legislation to raise the share of taxes to be paid by mobile homes.

Kniveton charged that the approval of the Las Robles Mobile Home Park at the entrance to Bel Marin Keys had induced West to offer 50 acres to Dillman for the new mobile home park proposal. "Pretty soon North Marin will turn into one big mobile home park."

Dillman argued that his mobile home park would have five lakes with connecting streams where trout could be stocked year round. He said his project would be only for adults. He claimed that highway traffic creates far more noise than planes landing at Hamilton.

Commissioner Walter F. Freitas backed the mobile home project and was joined by Niels Schultz Jr., but they were outvoted 5 to 2.

Nicasio Trustees To Talk Of Bus Pact

The bus transportation agreement with the Tamalpais Union High School District will be discussed by the Nicasio School District board at 8 p.m. today at the school.

Other items on the short agenda include the hiring of a teacher's aide for kindergarten and receiving the principal's report.

Bussing Petition Faces Court Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The effort to place an anti-compulsory school bussing measure on the 1970 general election ballot will be challenged in a state Supreme Court suit filed by a Negro attorney.

Attorney Nathaniel Colley disclosed yesterday he plans to file the suit in an attempt to bar the initiative from the ballot. Colley said his action is supported by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The initiative, sponsored by Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, would ban busing of pupils for integration purposes without written consent of a parent or guardian.

County Slates Hearing On Mill Valley Link

A hearing to discuss the route for the Miller Avenue Extension will be held before the Marin County Planning Commission on Oct. 13, commissioners decided yesterday.

Stanley M. Bala, Mill Valley city engineer, pushed for a decision on the route. He said that Miller Avenue now carries 13,000 to 14,000 cars daily, and Dolan's Corner is unable to handle all the traffic. "If we don't move ahead, nibbling development will occur and the dump at Dolan's Corner will spread," he warned.

The county planning staff presented sketches of three different routes for the Miller Avenue extension — from the Tamalpais High School area across the marshlands to Shoreline Highway near the Howard Johnson hotel and restaurant complex.

The first route would head straight across the marshes, the second curves slightly toward Dolan's Corner, and the third would curve far toward Dolan's Corner so that the lands of Bothin Real Estate would not be chopped through the center.

Bala said Mill Valley favors the middle route, which curves slightly but not enough to create a traffic hazard at T turnoff to connect the extension with Dolan's Corner.

Richard Gatley III, representing Bothin, said he will work with the county staff on the route, but prefers the third route with the biggest curve so that the bulk of his property would be left intact.

Bearded Man Wins Coffee House Permit

A young businessman with beard and long hair will be allowed to establish a coffee house at 267 Shoreline Highway near Tamalpais Junction despite the lack of adequate parking spaces.

On the advice of County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, the Marin County Planning Commission decided yesterday that Richard Pace should be allowed to use an existing building for a coffee house because it is an accepted use on the property.

Werner von Gundell, chief of current planning, said the building, which has only four parking spaces, is a legally nonconforming use, and no additional parking can be required under the law.

Pace told commissioners he had tried to get more parking from Neil Martin, part owner of an adjacent shopping center. "Due to my beard and long hair, Mr. Martin just will not relate to me," complained Pace.

Pace said he has been operating the Rush Gallery at the site for 19 months and now wants to put in a coffee house called Rush House. He will serve only coffee and bakery goods and will have no organized entertainment.

Mrs. Kenneth Wishhart, who operates the Tamalpais Laundromat next to the proposed coffee house, complained before and after the vote that Pace's patrons are parking in the laundromat parking area.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

LAND DIVISION — Granted Stanley W. Taylor a two-lot land division at Strawberry Point, at the corner of East Strawberry Drive and Herring Drive. Each lot would be 13,750 square feet, much more than the 10,000 square feet required. Neighbor Eugene Kvasnikov of 414 East Strawberry Drive protested without success.

REZONING — Denied a rezoning from one-family home to roadside business on a 17,000 square foot lot at Alto, owned by Arthur Dillard. The lot is located at the corner of the Highway 101 frontage road and Central Drive. The vote was 6 to 1, with Walter F. Freitas favoring the rezoning.

GOLF CLUB ACCESS — Extended for an indefinite time the present access to the San Geronimo National Golf Course clubhouse, which was granted on a temporary basis in 1965.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Rezoned by split vote the five and one-half acre Howard Johnson hotel and restaurant site on the west of Richardson Bay Bridge from resort commercial to planned commercial. Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said the rezoning is to make the zoning conform with an accomplished fact. Margaret Azevedo voted "no", explaining: "This is the last act of protest to what I consider an act of political erosion." Hugh Dougherty and Michael Praszker joined her, but were outvoted 4 to 3.

STRIP MINING — Continued until Sept. 29 a discussion of controls over strip mining in Marin. Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, said uncontrolled mining can ruin the landscape.

MERRYDALE ROAD — Set Oct. 13 as the time to discuss future width lines and building lines on Merrydale Road in Los Ranchitos.

COFFEE SHOP — Voted Richard Pace permission to operate a coffee shop to be known as Rush House at his Rush Gallery, 267 Shoreline Highway, ruling it an accepted use on the property zoned light industrial.

Riders Get Wallet

Elizabeth Little of 861 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, told Corte Madera police she gave a ride to three youths yesterday from Mill Valley to the Corte Madera interchange on Highway 101, then found her wallet missing from the back seat of her car. The wallet held $10, a driver's license and 17 credit cards, she told police.

RUTHLESS, NOT MAD

Stalin's Daughter Explains Purges

NEW YORK (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva says her father Joseph Stalin "knew exactly what he was doing" when he carried out the bloody purges which shook the Soviet Union before World War II.

"My father was not mad, at least not in the 1930s," Mrs. Alliluyeva said in an interview Monday. "He was just ruthless.

"He knew that the party was filled with opposition to him, that people would move against him if they could. He simply destroyed all of the opposition with complete ruthlessness."

She said the purges Stalin ordered after World War II "had a different quality."

"Certainly in his last years he was a sick man," she said. "Was he mad? I don't know."

How does she view Soviet leaders other than Stalin?

She said former Premier Nikita Khrushchev "was a good man. Very ignorant. He tried so hard but in the end they pushed him out."

Commenting on Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, she said, "When you see that face you know he just can't succeed." She described Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist party, as "just a rude party bureaucrat. A nothing."

Mrs. Alliluyeva, 43, also held a news conference here yesterday introducing her second book "Only One Year."

She told reporters she now is at home in America and would like to be a student again "but not a teacher." She would like to become an American citizen but "it would do no good to apply now," she said.

"I once was a member of the Communist party and that would be against me," she explained. "Perhaps some day when everyone understands that I am not a Communist it will be possible."

"Only One Year" starts on Dec. 19, 1966 when Mrs. Alliluyeva left Moscow to take the ashes of her husband Brajesh Singh to India, having no plan to defect at that time. It describes her decision a few months later to stay in the non-Communist world and the aid she received from the U.S. Embassy in India. It ends one year later in Princeton, N.J., where she now lives.

Community TV Channel Action Asked

The Rohnert Park City Council last night asked Storer Cable Television to step up efforts to provide the community television channel that was promised a year ago.

Councilman Arthur N. Roberts said that when the council approved the cable television system last year, Storer had promised to deliver a community channel for the televising of local events of community interest.

Roberts said that the council still thinks highly of the proposed local channel and would like to see council meetings televised as well as school musicals and events like the Founder's Day celebration.

John Harper, representing Storer Cable Television, said the company is awaiting a ruling from the Federal Communications Commission on the legality of local channels. The council asked the company to move ahead with plans in the event the commission decision is favorable.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

PLAN FEES — Approved an agreement with the Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District for plan checking services.

UNDERGROUNDING — Delayed the introduction of an ordinance requiring total undergrounding of utility lines in new developments. The proposed ordinance is being studied by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Bales Deplores Lack Of Attack Treatment

The case of a Novato mother of three who was raped yesterday and then refused immediate treatment by hospitals and doctors is "appalling," according to Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

"We haven't had trouble in this area before," said Bales, adding he intends to look into the situation. "If we are going to have difficulties, we'll have to work out some system for medical examination and treatment."

The 28-year-old wife of an Air Force sergeant serving in Vietnam told police she was bound and raped in her bedroom and then robbed early yesterday by two men.

After they left she called to her children to notify police.

Officers said they took her to Novato General Hospital where two doctors refused to examine her and then to Marin General where a private physician was finally persuaded to care for her after police convinced him his fee would be paid.

Milton Scott, administrator of Novato General Hospital, said it has a standing policy to refer rape victims to Marin General when there is "no physical state of emergency." Reportedly, the woman had only a cut on her nose.

Marin General's assistant administrator, Lawrence Malkin, said many doctors are reluctant to become involved in rape cases because of the possibility of time lost making court appearances.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said he did not think hospitals were required to perform tests to determine if a rape had been committed, though they are required to give medical treatment.

Don W. Sower, executive director of the Marin Medical Society, said he is looking into the case to determine whether the society has a responsibility in such cases.

Marijuana Raid Suspect Freed

Marijuana charges against Joel Anderson, 25, of Mendocino were dismissed yesterday in Marin Superior Court by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for lack of evidence.

He said he will decide on Sept. 29 whether to dismiss cases against two co-defendants, Jeffery Scott Meeler, 20, of Sausalito and Rodney John Shimmon, 36, of San Francisco.

The three were arrested Dec. 4 in a raid on a Sausalito apartment which police said contained 330 pounds of marijuana and equipment for making methamphetamine.

Iowan Faces Auto Theft, Pot Counts

A 25-year-old Iowa man, reportedly driving a stolen car, was arrested early today by San Rafael police on suspicion of bringing marijuana into California, car theft and possession of marijuana.

Also booked on the same charges with John Lynn Portis of Sioux City was a feminine companion whom he said he picked up in Sausalito, Ethel Marie Wilson, 18, of Sacramento.

Police said they stopped the car about 12:45 today at the intersection of Woodland Avenue and Auburn Street because of a defective taillight.

Found in the car, which police said was stolen in Sioux City on Aug. 10, was a pouch of marijuana.

Portis told officers that the marijuana belonged to two friends whom he had given a ride when he found them hitchhiking.

He said the friends had a "large quantity of marijuana" with them which they were importing to California.

Portis and Miss Wilson were held today without bail for an appearance in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m.

Dump Operators Say They'll Fix Dikes

The threat of court action against San Quentin Disposal Site for polluting the bay has been dropped in the wake of an agreement by the dump operators to correct the problem.

Marin County Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said the agreement was reached this morning in a conference at the dump attended by himself, representatives of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board and Bruce Berhnard, solid waste consultant for the dump.

A break in the dike at the dump, which has allowed toxic wastes from rubbish to pollute the bay, has been repaired, Thomas reported. The remaining problem, water inside the dike polluted with highly odoriferous hydrogen sulfide, will be neutralized chemically this week and pumped out in about 10 days, he said.

Failure by the dump operators to carry out the agreement, Thomas noted, could revive consideration of legal action against the dump.

Two Injured As Cars Hit

Two Marin City men were injured slightly yesterday when their car was hit head-on by another on Cole Drive near Drake Avenue in Marin City, the California Highway Patrol said today.

David Townsel Jr., 22, of 99 Cole Drive was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised left elbow and George Armstead Gaines, 29, of 167 Drake Avenue apparently did not require hospital treatment.

The patrol said a car driven by Gussie Mae Blakey of 235 Drake Avenue collided with Gaines's car at 5:45 p.m. Mrs. Blakey was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Traffic Problem Is Cited At Elizabethan Faire

A suggestion that the annual Elizabethan Pleasure Faire, which is being held off North San Pedro Road, may have to be moved elsewhere because of the traffic problem it causes came today from the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"We should ask the department of public works and the county fire chief for their opinions as to whether we should permit the fair to be located there in future years," declared Chairman John F. McInnis.

He said he found traffic completely stopped for 45 minutes at a time, once on Saturday and twice on Sunday. "It would have been impossible to get an emergency vehicle to the densely populated Santa Venetia area."

The county fire department has a truck standing by at the fair site, but McInnis said he asked county Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom to station another truck in Santa Venetia on weekends for the rest of this month while the fair is going on.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said he was impressed with the efficient handling of the traffic problem during the times he visited the fair.

"I'm not criticizing their efficiency," replied McInnis. "It's just that we have only one two-lane road to the area."

McInnis said that the system used last year, where shuttle buses took patrons from the Civic Center parking lot to the fair site, might be one solution.

The supervisors asked the department of public works and the county fire chief to recommend some solution.

Hearing Is Held In Theft Of Cycle

A preliminary hearing was held yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court for Wesley Dennison, 18, of 53 Arlington Drive, Petaluma, who is charged with the theft of a motorcycle.

Dennison was released on his own recognizance and ordered to appear Sept. 29 at 1:30 p.m. to enter a plea. He is charged with stealing the motorcycle of Steven Bjork of San Pablo on Sept. 4 from Lee's Shell station where it was being repaired.

Picketing Ends On Waterfront

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Teamsters Union members, who had picketed for three days in defiance of a court order, were back at work today at the ports in San Francisco and Oakland.

The return to work came yesterday just a half hour before Judge Gerald Levin in Federal District Court was to rule on whether to make permanent a a temporary order against the picketing. The judge postpone a decision until Friday.

Picketing had started last Friday in a dispute over whether teamsters or longshoremen are to pack and unpack containers bound for overseas shipment.

A Coed Tells What's Right In Campus Dress This Year

Marin Women

The understatement of the year from college girls on campus dress is brief. A-line and flared mini shirts, tighter fitting blouses and the simplest of skimpy dresses.

"You can spend $200 or more on a new wardrobe, but you will be accepted for you, so save your money for books and rent", advises Melanie Annin, College of Marin sophomore who was elected secretary to the Associated Students for the fall semester.

"THE RULE here at Marin is dress comfortably," says Melanie. "There is no fashion show among students on the College of Marin campus", she explains.

Ninety-nine per cent of the clothes you do see will fall into the category best described as inexpensive, functional and comfortable. Comfort for Melanie means short skirts that fall somewhere between micro and mini, because "I have long legs and do a lot of walking — they're just more comfortable".

She would advise incoming freshmen to avoid being a chameleon.

"If your dress style is thrift shop renaissance, that's perfectly okay, if you stick to it. But, if you constantly change between the ultra mod dress and the wrinkled, slept-in-for-a-week hippie look, kids may wonder which is the real you", Melanie said.

THERE ARE no advantages she can think of to owning an expensive wardrobe. "Make-over, shorten and accessorize the clothes you have", she said. Students of this generation are quick to penetrate the clothes facade, and you'll be accepted on the basis of sincerity rather than the way you look, according to Melanie.

The uncertainty of dress rules by some students prompted the dean of students, Irwin P. Diamond, to ask the student officers to draft what they considered an appropriate guideline for dress for both men and women on the College of Marin campus. The first concern of the student officers, reflected in the report, was that students be permitted to dress in their own individual style and manner. The drafted and adopted rules state only that students dress within the legal boundaries of decency, and the new rules give the student a right to appeal if dress should become an issue.

ANY DIRECTION you look, on campuses from Berkeley to Columbia, you'll note the trend is to dress down in an understated, comfortable, be-very-very-free manner.

"The less constrictions the better", says Melanie, and students everywhere seem to agree.

However, there are still standards. An example would be the business student who words part-time in an office. Under those circumstances you adapt style of dress to the office situation. Students who must work to help support themselves often conform to a particular style of dress out of necessity. Another matter to consider is the type of class.

"If you go to ceramics lab twice a week you consider comfort and wear pants and sneakers to school on those days", Melanie explains.

MELANIE, 21, is totally self supporting, "with only a check or two from home for a birthday or special event now and then". She is working in the dean of student's office this semester, while carrying 14 units of credit. She worked during the summer months in the Woodlands restaurant in Kentfield, where she wore a waitress uniform. After working hours she assisted the student officers in preparing for the new semester. She shares an apartment close to the campus with another student.

Active in many phases of campus life, she served as the student representative to the college cabinet last year and editor of the Mariner, annual student literary magazine.

She regularly attends board of trustee meetings and speaks up for student interests on such matters as flood control through the campus and the need for financial aid for disadvantaged students.

THE ESSENTIALS then, for a basic wardrobe could be summed up, according to Melanie, as boots that are waterproof, an all-weather coat for the heavy rainy season, a few mini skirts, which you can sew yourself (she sews many of her own), blouses and sleeveless sweaters and perhaps a cardigan.

Melanie's shirts are bought in the men's shops, where "They're styled better and the colors are terrific, and often, they cost less", sandals, a pair of comfortable shoes of neutral color, scarves, belts and chains and the final and absolute must — a peace symbol.

"Concentrate totally on your studies and activities, and don't worry about what you're wearing", is Melanie's conclusive advice to the new girl on the college campus.

SAVE YOUR money for books and rent, advises College of Marin coed Melanie Annin, who says that girls' dress on campus is simple and comfortable. "The rule at Marin is dress comfortably, there is no fashion show . . ." says the secretary to the Associated Students.

Electronic Babysitter

The special electronic trigger is linked to an automatic cradle-rocking machine, a lamp and a radio-tape recorder. The trigger is touched off acoustically.

If baby awakens while mother is elsewhere, a single cry is enough to touch off the alarm: the radio-tape recorder begins playing a lullaby, the lamp goes on and the cradle starts rocking.

Three minutes later, the system shuts off automatically. If baby hasn't fallen back to sleep, but continues crying, the entire network is tripped off again.

A Crusade For Ordination

By LOIS VOSBURGH

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "This is my thing," says Betty Schiess, referring to her program to earn ordination as a clergyman in the Episcopal Church.

"No one can tell me this isn't my cause," she says. "Even my husband (Dr. William Schiess) says he is getting used to the idea of being a rector's wife, the dear."

MRS. SCHIESS is a student at Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, where she has completed her first year. "Although there have been other women enrolled, I believe that they were candidates for degrees in Christian Education and that I am the first to seek priesthood in the church," she says.

Soft spoken, with an exceptionally gentle manner, Mrs. Schiess, who has two sons in college and an 11 year-old daughter, does not fit the traditional picture of a crusader. But her decision to seek priesthood was based on a desire to attack discrimination against women in her church. The new crusade is a result of her involvement in the fight to obtain rights for Negroes.

"My husband and I spent a year in Algiers with the Medico program," she explains. "When we came back to this country, we returned with the determination to do something about the plight of the Negro. We have taken part in many of the marches and demonstrations in the South, including Selma, Ala., and Jackson, Miss."

CHURCH Crusader . . . Mrs. William Schiess, who is pushing for equality of women in the Episcopal Church, is attending divinity school in the hope of becoming a priest.

"I STILL believe in better opportunities for the Negro people," she says, "but I am even more committed to the cause for equality for women in the church."

Dr. and Mrs. Schiess were early workers for the integrated program within the Episcopal church, leaving a suburban parish and joining the parish of Grace Episcopal Church here when the Rev. Walter Welsh started his inner-city program.

"In working within the church, I found that women are more discriminated against than the Negores," Mrs. Schiess declares. "I think this is equally true in many other Protestant churches, but in our church, there is a difference. In other churches, it was apt to be "de facto" discrimination. In our church, it is a matter of church law.

"I think the place of women in the Episcopal Church is far worse than that of any minority group today. We can't vote. Canon law prevents us from entering the priesthood and blocks us from participation in the liturgy as lay readers. Women can become deaconesses but cannot serve communion."

OBVIOUSLY, CANON law could not be challenged unless some woman was properly qualified, she points out. This meant literal soul-searching. "I had to decide first whether or not I really wanted to become a spiritual leader of the church, then find out if I could meet the academic requirements."

Although she is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, with a master's degree from Syracuse University, the course in divinity school presents a challenge to the 46-year-old woman. She commutes to Rochester daily during the college year and this past summer fulfilled her clinical requirements by serving in the local Y-MED program for pregnant teen-age girls.

Her first year's average was "satisfying." "I was even more pleased to be elected secretary of the class, because it meant the other seminarians, almost all young enough to be my sons, accepted me," she adds.

Mrs. Schiess has yet to be made a Postulant for Holy Orders, but her future looks promising. The Rt. Rev. George W. Barrett, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester, recently spoke in London saying, "If we reject the proposal to ordain women, we had better be very, very careful of telling the world anything about racial discrimination."

AN ACTIVE member of NOW (National Organization of Women) she does not take part in either leftist or activist women's rights groups. "I feel that they are beyond me," she says. "They are talking about things like abolishing marriage, which I am not ready to accept."

Freeze nectarines like peaches with sugar to preserve shape and texture, as well as flavor. Packed plain or in water, fruits tend to become limp when thawed. Sugar increases their firmness and reduces moisture loss.

HELEN HELP US!

What To Tell The Jokers Who'll Say He Married His Sister

DEAR HELEN:

Have been going with Cindy for three years, and we want to get married when I am out of the service.

But last week my mother and her father got married. They met through us, but we didn't think it was serious. Not that we don't all like each other. We get along fine. But what do you say to these jokers who kid me about marrying my own sister! — NO RELATION

DEAR NO:

DEAR HELEN:

I missed my graduation because of a terrible mistake. I was pregnant, but the boy ran away when he heard. Later I lost the baby. I'll never forgive myself or forget.

I swore I would never fall in love again, and I didn't date for three years. Then I met this wonderful 34-year-old man at work. There are two problems. He is 14 years older than me, and has a wife and three children. He says he is very unhappy and hopes to get a divorce. We see each other whenever we can, and we're talking marriage.

Do you think I'd be taking on too much! — ONCE BURNED

DEAR ONCE BURNED:

Remember the end of that adage: "Twice cautious!" I think you may be expecting too much. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please would you tell us again how to get foreign pen pals? — E.F.

DEAR E:

Send 35 cents, your name; address, sex, age, and country-preference to World Pen Pals, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., 55455. Good luck — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What use is it to have good and thoughtful opinions on politics, prejudice, etc. if only your friends listen to them, but grown-ups laugh at you? My parents think the reason I liked Bobby Kennedy was because he was cute. When I finally broke through the kidding and told my dad all about the things Mr. Kennedy stood for, he backed off a little, but not much.

The adult attitude is 'what do you know — you're only 14?" Well, I know a lot more than the generalizations they put out. Even if I can't vote, study the candidates and don't just take what somebody rumors about them.

My history teacher says that evey man has prejudice in him. I guess he's right, but I think I lost a lot of mine in the fourth grade. A new girl in school had a funny southern accent and looked different, so I immediately didn't like her. The next day some kids were throwing rocks and she got hit, almost losing her eye. When she came back to school, the kids all tried extra hard to make it up to her and I found out she was one of the nicest girls I'd ever met — because I made an effort to know her. Every time I jump to conclusions now, I think about this girl.

About the black and white business: In the middle of a riot, if everyone turned white, they'd keep right on rioting, wouldn't they? — NOT LISTENED TO

DEAR NOT:

Your parents and other adults are making a big mistake when they don't listen to thoughtful teens such as you. They could learn a lot! — H.

Children's Shoes

Experts advise that when purchasing shoes for children, have both feet measured and the larger one fitted. Proper measurement is done with the foot up on the fitting stool and the leg at a right angle. Make sure the salesman holds the child's food down while measuring, says Jane Speece, textiles and clothing expert at the University of Nebraska extension service.

Strawberries

Sugared strawberries form their own juice syrup and so can be frozen with dry sugar to preserve their shape, color, and flavor. Spread washed and hulled, sliced berries in a shallow dish. Sprinkle with ¾ cup of sugar per quart of berries; stir gently. When juicy, pack in ontainers and freeze.

Clean Marble

To clean marble, mix soft soap and whiting to a thin paste and apply with a soft brush. Let stand until dry and wash off with lukewarm suds.

Paint Splatters

Corte Madera Rejects Northridge Proposal

Corte Madera Town Council last night turned thumbs down on Mill Valley's major street plan for the Northridge area development.

The plan would wind a major street along the ridgeline between Corte Madera and Mill Valley to emerge on Corte Madera Avenue.

The council agreed with its planning commission that traffic anticipated from the Ridge Street would overload Corte Madera Avenue, the street winding down to downtown Corte Madera.

The council ordered a letter sent to the Mill Valley Planning Commission expressing concern over the traffic and declaring the plan inacceptable to Corte Madera. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said the street could be re-routed so it joins Camino Alto, on the Mill Valley side of the hill.

The council also approved introduction of an ordinance to ban conduct "adverse to public welfare" on public property. Suggested by the park and recreation commission and based on a new county ordinance, it would ban destruction of property, uprooting plants, "sleeping or protracted lounging" which blocks public ways and several other specified acts. The ordinance also bars golfing, using motorized vehicles and flying motorized model planes in Town Park.

Preparatory motions toward another bout with the Bay Conservation and Developemnt Commission were made when the council told Usher to resubmit the town's plan for the westshore development, which calls for a golf course, marina and similar uses on the Muzzi property east of Highway 101. BCDC has never ruled whether the plan is acceptable.

The action came after the council read a letter from the BCDC chairman explaining the commission's vote against a development plan for the Burke property immediately north of westshore.

Councilman Byron D. White called the BCDC rejection an "assumption of local zoning" because it banned warehousing on the Burke land.

BCDC claims control over nearly all the Burke property as part of the bay, although it is marshland rather than open water at all but very high tides.

Usher said the westshore case may force the BCDC to consider some basic policy decisions it has never tackled as to its jurisdiction and future actions.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

EMPLOYEE — Set a hearing at 7:35 p.m. next Monday on a appeal by Gerald D. Fries, police patrolman discharged Thursday by Usher.

HYDRANT — Approved installing another fire hydrant on Christmas Tree Hill.

CORPORATION YARD — Approved a landscaping plan for the town corporation yard.

NAME — Approved renaming the lower section of Presidio Avenue Manzanita Court. The two parts of Presidio are not connected and the joint name led to confusion, Usher said.

BICYCLES — Postponed discussion of the county bicycle paths plan until Oct. 20.

SLIDE — Awarded a contract for correction of a street slide at 5116 Paradise Drive to Maggiora and Ghilotti, Inc., low bidder at $8,520. Sole other bid was $13,369 from Ghilotti Brothers, Inc.

DRAINAGE — Awarded a contract for installation of storm drains under Tamalpais Drive to Ghilotti Brothers, Inc., low bidder at $17,828. Sole other bid was $21,097 from Maggiora and Ghilotti, Inc.

PROBATION — Told Usher to draft an ordinance amendment changing the probation period for new town employees to a year instead of six months.

CITY-COUNTY — Endorsed a statement by the City-County Services Committee outlining how to costs of programs benefitting only inincorporated areas could be shifted from incorporated areas, and agreed to ask the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen to push for rapid establishment of a county service police protection area.

TRUCKS — Went on record opposing a congressional bill to raise weight and length limits for trucks in interstate commerce.

CRUSADE — Endorsed the United Bay Area Crusade fund drive.

Firm Plans Permit Revocation Appeal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — McPhail's Inc. of San Rafael will appeal to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors on the revocation of its use permit on a sand and gravel operation in Alexander Valley, northeast of Healdsburg.

The use permit had been revoked by the Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments after a two-hour hearing Thursday night. The appeal has been filed at the supervisors office, but no hearing date has been set as yet.

Attorney Carlton Spridgen, representing property owners in the vicinity of the operation, said the rock crusher used at the site was a violation of the permit that called for a portable crusher. Spridgen contended that the crusher put into use was far from portable.

The attorney said the operation was endangering the health and safety of persons in the neighborhood and had become a nuisance over the years. Spridgen said that noise, dust and smoke as well as increase truck traffic was objectionable to his clients.

Francis Passalacqua, Healdsburg attorney representing McPhail's said the quarry served a good purpose in reducing the dangers of floods in the valley. He said the crusher was, indeed, portable and could be moved in a matter of hours.

He also said that the company had saved the county $3,000 this year by bidding below other firms for construction projects. Paul Zuefelt, plant manager, said that the company has a large payroll and contended that dust caused by the plant was not excessive.

Marijuana Raid Charges Changed Over Informer

Charges of possessing marijuana for sale brought earlier against two young Muir Beach men were dismissed yesterday in Marin Superior Court when the district attorney's office refused to disclose the name of the informant in the case.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas agreed to allow Jeffrey James Morse, 22, and William Mansfield Graham, 19, to plead guilty to possession of LSD when he learned the informant would have to be named if the case were to go to trial.

The offense was declared a misdemeanor and the youths were placed on one year probation by Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Morse and Graham were arrested in a raid Feg. 19 on their Sunset Way home. Agents said they believed the men were volume marijuana dealers who specialized in selling the weed in large quantities.

Bike Path Session

The Sausalito Planning Commission will study a proposed amendment to the Marin County Parks and Recreation plan on future development of a county network of bicycle paths at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow in the conference room at city hall.

DRAMA REVIEW

Good Try At Topical Immediacy

NEW YORK (AP) — A Madison Avenue advertising man provides off-Broadway with some funny-fierce drama in "The Ofay Watcher" that premiered last night at Stage 73 Playhouse.

Frank Cucci tells a fable of Negro-white encounter several notches better than many of the attempts to deal with the theater's favorite issue of topical immediacy. A good first play.

In the beginning, Cucci decoys attention with a farcical meeting between a slang-slinging drifter and an intent young park stroller who turns out to be a chemist with a formula for altering skin pigmentation.

"How can there be a color problem if everyone is the same color?" he argues. At the moment, having tested the potion on mice and fish, he is seeking the first human volunteer. Or is he? The first clue that this is not to be just a sustained vaudeville of hippie-world comment has been dropped, but the audience won't realize that until much later.

It isn't, in fact, until well after the third character has joined the interracial pair amid the slapdash decor of life in Manhattan's East Village, that Cucci swivels the charade from mirth to menace, from flippancy to ferocity.

Much of the turnabout effectiveness can be credited to the threesome's skill in shifting with the multiple moods through which the dialogue flits. The players are Cleavon Little, the man of changing color; Terry Kiser, the man with the secret prescription, and Billie Allen, his Negro amour who catalyzes the ultimate explosion.

The taut pacing of the long one-acter was engineered by Jerry Adler, with Dahl Delu providing the authentic atmosphere in Stage 73's awkward proscenium area.

The bands are part of this year's expanded Fairfax Festival which will be held from 9:45 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The bands and other entertainers will appear on three stages, one at Bolinas Road and Elsie Lane, one near the Redwood Grove and the third in the ball park.

Admission to the festival is free and all performers will appear without compensation.

The tentative schedule of entertainment for Saturday includes: At 10 a.m., Raintree Forest, a rock band; 11 a.m. No Name and Water, rock bands, and Thompson Brothers, western; noon, walking races and Dirty Rug, rock; 1 p.m. Scottish Dancers folk dancing, Ice and Rom, rock bands; 2 p.m. Shades of Joy, jazz, Devil's Kitchen, rock, Sixth Army Band; 3 p.m. Common Ground, rock, Buzzin' Boots, square dancing, followed by Bea Blum's Rainbow Singers and Dancers, variety show;

At 4 p.m., Thompson Brothers; Scottish Dancers and Bea Blum's variety; Sounds Unlimited; 5 p.m. Water, Mendebaum and Bycycles, rock bands.

Other bands have also indicated they may perform, with an announcement expected later this week.

The art show to be held in the pavilion has been judged, with the jury accepting only 27 of 119 entries, festival officials reported.

Prizes of $50 each went to Richard Waters, acrylic and water color; Orene Neal, graphics, and John Fitzmaurice, mosaic. No prizes were given in the oil and mixed media categories.

Awards of merit went to Tony Williams and Robert S. Titus for acrylics and to Jack Schneider and Ludvig Limberger for graphics.

A non-juried show will b eheld in the Redwood Grove and a children's art exhibit and art-in-action booths on the path between the grove and the pavilion.

Still needed to round out the festival plans are volunteers for the information booth to work in hour shifts Saturday and Sunday, according to publicity chairman Priscilla Gray. Persons interested may contact her at 126 Ridge Road, Fairfax.

Seminarian To Lead Vote Lowering Age Drive

By ALAN JONES

The vote for 18-year-olds has become a political football in Sacramento, a San Anselmo seminary student charges, so a campaign is now being organized to put the question before California voters in the 1970 general election.

Circulation of initiative petitions will start once enough volunteer workers have been enlisted, said Norman E. Leach of San Francisco Theological Seminary. To put the vote question on the ballot, 522,000 valid signatures of voters must be gathered in 150 days from the time the campaign starts.

Leach claimed the issue in the California Legislature has become tied to party politics — Democrats for lowering voting age and Republicans against.

"When things as important as this . . . become partisan issues and the merits are not discussed, it's time for the public to step in and take it out of the hands of the politicians," he said.

Leach is closely connected with the generation most concerned. He is president of the Student World Federalists, and runs the Third Rail Coffee House at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

The Assembly Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee shelved a measure to put the proposal on the 1970 ballot, but is continuing to study it during the interim. Leach testified before the committee in San Francisco last week, along with San Rafael High School students Lee Harris and Chris Smith.

The federalists, he told the committee, believe all have a right to take part in a government which "makes demands of them and their lives and futures."

Pamphlets, which Leach hands out freely, list several reasons for lowering the voting age. Among them:

Several million people between 18 and 21 are married and have established homes, but have no vote.

Servicemen and women can perform military duties, but cannot vote.

Young adults pay sales, use, gasoline and income taxes, but have no representation in government.

NORMAN E. LEACH
Seeks 18-year-old vote

When the country was founded, many Americans were illiterate and few had attended high school. Today, most Americans are high school graduates at 18, and most know more about their world than adults did in past eras.

Leach told of the formation last February of the Youth Franchise Coalition, a group of organizations working nationwide to lower the voting age. Member groups include Americans for Democratic Action, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Student Association and some thirty other groups.

Referendums on lowering the voting age will be on the ballot this fall in Ohio and New Jersey, and in 1970 in Alaska, Hawaii, Minnesota, Connecticut, Montana, Nebraska, Maine, Oregon, Massachusetts and Wyoming.

Four states have already lowered voting age below 21 — Georgia and Kentucky to 18, Alaska to 19 and Hawaii to 20. The coming votes in Alaska and Hawaii would lower the age to 18.

Legislation is now in process in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Nevada for referendums in 1970.

The petitions in California, Leach said, will be started in last October or early November. Circulators must be registered voters, which oddly enough throws the fate of the youth vote into the hands of those already 21 and enfranchised.

Leach is confident the campaign will succeed if organization is good enough. An earlier petition drive this summer fizzled because some counties were not organized, he said.

A poll has shown a majority in California favors lowering the voting age, and Leach said several people who oppose the idea have told him they will sign the petitions anyway, to give the public a chance to vote on the question.

Anyone wanting to work in the campaign or to contribute to the campaign fund, Leach said, should get in touch with him in care of Student World Federalists, San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

DOWNTOWN'S OUTLOOK

Nearing Exodus Brings No Panic

By JOANNE GRANT

The peculiar charisma downtown San Rafael has for its businessmen is alive and well today, despite the impending departure of more than 600 persons from the daily scene.

The 600, the 358 employees and a conservative estimate of 200 to 300 persons generated daily by the courthouse and other downtown county offices, will be leaving next month, if the latest Hall of Justice moving date doesn't change.

Only a few businessmen, chiefly restaurateurs, believe it will affect them directly, but most feel the move will be bad for others.

On the other hand, almost every businessman interviewed in a random sampling on Fourth Street indicted hope that something would be done soon to develop the site, though none believed its vacancy would lower property values.

On that point, Marin Clunty Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell disagrees. "It's obviously going to be a black eye to downtown San Rafael," he said.

Mitchell predicted "a significant impact on taxes in San Rafael and all of Marin County" if the property is left vacant. And, he said, "it will really do a lot of damage to property values in San Rafael."

But businessmen, many of whom have been here for decades, don't foresee even a drop in their own revenues.

"We don't get an awful lot of walk-in trade," explained Tom McGruder Jr., indicating most of that men's clothing store business is from regular customers.

"We have lots of customers who prefer to shop in downtown San Rafael," said the assistant manager of a major department store who doesn't believe people who come downtown to pay a traffic fine spend much money.

He and several other merchants said they would be better able to calculate economic effects some time after the move.

Walter Zurcher of the San Rafael Toy Shop, who fears the empty "haunted house" will be "psychologically depressing" nevertheless maintains downtown San Rafael "still has by far the biggest selection of assorted services and retail stores. I think it's going to stay that way."

And that assessment was echoed by several other businessmen.

Leon J. Netboy, like many specialty shop owners, said he believes people come directly to his shoe store rather than coming downtown for something else and dropping in.

Several businessmen indicated it would be impossible to gauge the number of persons who come to their stores from the courthouse but noted there is a definite noon time influx from somewhere.

Carl Schwartz, another men's clothing store operator, believes the mass departure will be most noticeable. "There's no question about it. Once you take people off the street, they're not going to come in."

Anyone who doesn't think that way is naive, Schwartz said flatly. "The whole Fourth Street will miss it."

However, Schwartz said he doesn't think the property will be empty long. "It would reflect on them (county and city officials) more than the Fourth Street merchants," he maintained.

George T. Lawrence, manager of Lachman Brothers and another who believes there will be a definite economic effect, said merchants who are not concerned are not "because they've never been hurt."

He pointed out that eventually Northgate and Greenbrae shopping centers will have the kind of diversification that San Rafael now enjoys.

Restaurants generally seem most likely to feel the impact.

The manager of the Courthouse Creamery said he foresees a 5 to 10 per cent drop in business but added, "I'm not going to worry about it."

He said everyone had been worried when Montgomery Ward moved from downtown San Rafael several years ago but it hadn't made any difference.

Other restaurants who reported heavy courthouse related traffic at noon indicated the move is bound to affect that but saw no change in dinner business.

Several merchants have definite ideas about how the Courthouse Square should be developed, but agree that anything that went in would bolster the downtown area.

The most frequent suggestion was for a shop complex and parking. Thomas McGruder Sr. proposed three stories of parking with a mall-type shopping area on top, shared on a cooperative basis by many merchants.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1969 17

HUB FESTIVAL SET TO OPEN TOMORROW

The third annual fall festival sponsored by the San Anselmo parks and recreation department and more than 20 local organizations will open at 6 p.m. tomorrow at Memorial Park in San Anselmo.

Twenty-one organizations have signed up for game, food and drink booths, and rides will be provided by the Foley-Burke carnival.

The festival proceeds will go for the city's tot lot program. More than $2,000 was raised last year, festival director Frank L. Quinn said.

The festival will be held from 6 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow through Friday, and from 11 a.m., to 10:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Novato Asked For Autumn Cleanup Days

The Novato City Beautification Committee last night voted to recommend to the city council that the city hold a fall cleanup campaign on Oct. 11, 18 and 25, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

It will also recommend that the city charge 50 cents per load of debris taken to the pickup area or Rowland Boulevard in Scottsdale, according to Brown. The city will use only the one area this fall instead of several as it did during the spring cleanup campaign.

The city can't afford the cost of the pickup, so the committee is recommending a charge, he said. During the spring campaign, the city paid $3,600 for the six days of free pickup.

The committee is recommending that the pickup be made only on Saturday the 50-cent charge will almost defray the $685 per day which the disposal company will charge for two trucks, Brown said.

The fall campaign will be for regular cleanup and such items as furniture and large appliances will not be accepted.

Novato volunteer firemen have offered to man the pickup area during the three Saturdays, Brown said. The beauification committee will contact the service clubs, garden clubs and 4-H clubs to help in the three-day campaign, he said.

Suspects Booked On Auto Theft

Victoria Ann Wilson, 19, of Forrest Knolls, and Richard Sheldon Knowles, 18, of 49 Delores Street, San Rafael, were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft, the California Highway Patrol said today.

They were held in lieu of $1,200 bail each for arraignments in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

The patrol said they were stopped in a Volkswagen bus reported stolen from San Francisco Sunday after the vehicle was observed tailgating on Highway 101, then hitting a traffic island at the Lucas Valley Road offramp.

Knowles told the patrol he knew Miss Wilson, who was driving, but was just a hitchhiker, the patrol said.

Vote Contests Set In Eight Districts

There will be elections in eight special districts in Marin Nov. 4 as the result of a last-day flurry of filing by candidates yesterday.

By the 5 p.m. deadline, 70 candidates had filed for 53 posts in 25 districts, reported Peter C. Meyer, county election officer.

In 17 districts, there weren't enough candidates to require an election.

Where the number of candidates falls short of the number of vacant seats, the Marin County Board of Supervisors will fill the vacancies by appointment before Nov. 4, Meyer explained.

One seat on the Marin City Community Services District Board has already changed hands because the incumbents, Douglas J. Quiett, Alvin C. Bynum and Orpha E. Barnes failed to file for reelection.

The lone candidate for the Marin City CSD is C. J. Williams. Meyer said that supervisors must appoint Williams since he filed, and this will leave only two seats open.

Supervisors will have to fill vacancies in five districts, while candidates equal vacancies in 12 districts.

The Muir Beach Community Services District also plans to have a ballot measure to expand powers of the district to include recreation, roads and ditch maintenance.

Districts in which elections will be held are:

Truck Owner Stops Pair With Shovel

Two hitchhikers who apparently tired of thumbing rides yesterday wound up as prisoners of an irate, shovel wielding owner, who accused them of stealing his pickup truck.

Thomas J. Palmer, a 29-year-old equipment operator working at Lincoln Avenue near the Highway 101 offramp in San Rafael saw two men carrying bedrolls and a guitar, get out of a northbound car shortly before 5:30 p.m.

He watched as Ezequiel Antonio Palacios, 23, of Paramount (Los Angeles County), and Robert Landis Frank, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., started to thumb a ride.

A few minutes later, Palmer said he spotted the two men, Frank at the wheel, driving up Lincoln Avenue in his truck that had been parked closeby.

Palmer, who lives at 2223 Center Road, Novato, grabbed a shovel and took off in pursuit. Overtaking the truck, he subdued both Palacios and Frank, using the shovel on both, and held them until the police arrived moments later.

They were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of auto theft and held in lieu of $1,200 bail. Only an hour before their arrest, the hitchhikers had been seen carrying a gallon jug of wine and scuffling on Freitas Parkway near Los Gamos, Police had poured out the wine and sent them on their way.

Tam Valley Theft

Two television sets and a tape recorder, total value $1,305, were taken Sunday from the home of Fred C. Bisko of 235 Princeton Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, sheriff's deputies said today. The thief removed a glass pane in a door to enter the house.

WATCH YOUR GRANT AVENUE PARKING LIMIT

The two-hour parking limit in downtown Novato, especially on Grant Avenue, will be enforced in the future, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

For many years the Novato Police Department has not enforced the parking because of the police load and the lack of personnel, the chief said. In the current budget, the council authorized the hiring of a police cadet who will enforce the two-hour parking limit, DiGrazia said.

The public has become used to non enforcement of the limit, hence this warning, the chief said.

Ross Burglary Sentence Set

Curtis Lynn Ross, 18, of San Rafael admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he was an accessory after the fact to a burglary of a Ross home April 7.

Judte Joseph G. Wilson sentenced him to serve three months in Marin County Jail concurrently with a sentence he is serving for an earlier burglary conviction.

Still facing a burglary charge from the Ross case is another San Rafael youth, Michael Vincent St. Martin, also 18.

Special Session

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district offices to award the contract for laying of the Wharf Road pipeline, district secretary Jane Phillips said today.

SALIN SLAPPED

A Dressing Down Over Skinnydipping

Lothar Salin, chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, took a sharp dressing down from the Marin County Board of Supervisors this morning for suggesting a separate beach for undressed bathers.

"People in District One (San Rafael area) are not only offended but furious," declared board chairman John F. McInnis. "The chairman of a committee of that importance should think first before recommending that we conduct an illegal activity because public nudity is still illegal. . . ."

"I ask that the chairman of the commission be a little more thoughtful before expressing himself on matters not within the area of interest of county recreation."

Target of the attack was Salin's statement made at last Wednesday's meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, when he suggested the county look around "gingerly" for some beach, perhaps on a private ranch, where nude bathing would be allowed. Salin reasoned that the skinnydipping fad is growing so rapidly that it might be more logical to provide a separate beach rather than trying to stem the tide by mass arrests.

"It was an irresponsible statement," added Supervisor Louis H. Baar. "If Mr. Salin knew the problems in my district like San Geronimo Valley, he wouldn't have said that."

Supervisor Michael Wornum said he thinks Salin — who was not present today — had a right to express his opinion. On skinnydipping in general, Wornum observed: "I don't know why we get excited about it because with the type of bikinis we have now, it leaves so little to the imagination that exposing a few more inches wouldn't make much difference."

McInnis said he is especially critical because the comment came from an official of a county agency. "It can't help but be taken as an invitation for nude bathers to come to Marin." McInnis said the sheriff and the district attorney have enough problems already trying to police areas like Muir and Stinson Beaches. "Quite unintentionally, Mr. Salin has added to the serious problem."

"If they want to do it (bathe in the nude), they should join some private club," added Baar.

Overall School Picture Reason For Resignation

Sausalito Planning Commissioner Murray Smith said today he is not resigning his post because of the hiring of black educator Sidney F. Walton Jr. as principal of Martin Luther King School but because of the general situation of the schools in the Sausalito district.

"It has nothing whatsoever to do with Mr. Walton," Smith said. "It does depend to a great extent on what is happening in that school district, but it does not depend on any one individual."

Smith, in a letter to Sausalito Mayor Earl F. Dunphy said he had moved his family to Mill Valley. The primary reason, he said, "is the situation in our public school district."

He termed the district's present programs a "sociological experiment on the part of a few individuals at the expense of the learning process for all children involved."

Lumber Taken

Two hundred feet of lumber valued from $80 to $100 was stolen Sunday from a new home under construction belonging to the Ham Construction Co., at the end of Graceland Drive, San Rafael, police reported.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

The Courthouse Square As A Revenue Producer

The importance of the sales tax in the support of San Rafael's municipal services is appreciated by relatively few residents.

For the fiscal year ended last June 30, the City of San Rafael had a budget of just over $4 million. And for that fiscal year, the city's share of the sales tax was $1,454,144. Thus, the tax paid well over a third of all the costs of city government and municipal services.

Still less appreciated is the share of the downtown section in producing that revenue. In the last fiscal year, the Northgate Shopping Center produced about 15 per cent of the sales tax. The rest came principally from downtown and Francisco Boulevard.

THESE FIGURES help explain the importance of what happens to Courthouse Square in terms of San Rafael's future. Desirable development of this block in the heart of the city can give a shot in the arm to the business section that produces a major share of sales tax revenue. Conversely, if the square lies idle or is put to a use which does not benefit the downtown, the city may face declining sales tax revenue — and consequently, major increases in a tax rate that at 86 cents per $100 assessed valuation is among the lowest in the county.

It is not surprising that, in view of this, there is a strong tendency to regard the future of Courthouse Square solely from the standpoint of its commercial development.

Merely building stores on the square will do little for the downtown —and for the residents and taxpayers —however. It is necessary that whatever is put there generate visitors to the extent that such downtown spending formerly was generated by county offices.

EVER SINCE the county decided to sell the block, there has been talk of development in the terms of a major department store and/or high-rise offices and apartment buildings. The city has insisted—rightly, we believe—that the square must not be covered with commercial buildings but must retain open, park-like areas. The aim is for a development that will do more than just make a few cash registers ring.

So far, no developer has come forward with an offer that fits the conditions. Right now, high interest rates and consequent "tight money" make the likelihood of such an offer appear rather remote.

Architect Robert W. F. Severin has proposed that the city locate its recreation center on the square—a use for part of the block that would help generate downtown traffic. Robert A. Roumiguiere, chairman of the courthouse square committee appointed by Marin County supervisors, has gone farther and suggested that part of the courthouse annex be retained, at least temporarily, for recreation center use.

MEANTIME, HOWEVER, the chance of an advantageous development hinges on parking. The City of San Rafael, regardless of who eventually buys the square and what eventually is built there, needs to get busy on planning for underground parking which will be necessary if the courthouse block is to be devoloped to "save the downtown."

The engineering studies and plans should be made, so that if and when development is agreed upon, the parking can be installed.

Keep Hills Alive With Music

"The Marin hills are alive with the sound of music."

That is the slogan adopted by the Marin Symphony Guild for its 1969-70 membership campaign, now under way.

The guild keeps "the hills alive with music" through sponsorship of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, Marin Youth Orchestra, Workshop for Strings, and Music for Minors. It also has a memorial scholarship program for music students.

For 18 years the Marin Symphony Guild has played an important part in Marin cultural life. It deserves support in its current campaign.

Don't Trust The State Report When You Buy That New Lot

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Reagan administration's cult of rugged individualism, which translates into some rugged economies in state services, now requires buyers in new subdivisions to be their own geologists.

State law requires a subdivider carving land into five or more lots to get a safety certificate from the state Division of Mines and Geology attesting to the probability that the lots will not collapse into a common heap.

Subdividers like to use these state reports to promote their sales efforts, implying that state geologists have checked the subdivision and judged it safe.

THE TROUBLE is that the state has only one geologist working on certification of the safety of new subdivisions. And he has a staggering workload of processing five subdivisions a day, so he almost never gets out of his office to visit the sites. As a result, he doesn't always know even their precise location.

As explained recently by Ian Campbell, director of the division: "All we can do is look at a topographic map and wave the red flag if something is obviously wrong. These reports have a lot of vague language because the division simply doesn't have the time to check out the applications."

Campbell also told the state Mining and Geology Board that subdivision maps do not match very well with geologic maps because the subdivision maps refer to streets which don't even exist yet.

Board chairman Philip R. Bradley of Berkeley suggested requiring subdividers to supply air photos, but Campbell responded that the Reagan administration has ordered even further cuts in division funds.

So, before you set out to check your lot, at least you'll need a hammer.

YOU MAY HAVE noticed on visits to San Diego that the bay there is twice as clean as San Francisco Bay — or only half as polluted.

But if the Vietnam War were to end, the seriousness of the problem would double, the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration warns. The reason for the threat is that 19,000 men would be on ships expected to be assigned to San Deigo after the war, creating an awful lot of untreated sewage waste to be dumped overboard raw.

The same sort of problem would hit San Francisco Bay, where the Navy also is a chief cause of pollution.

SPEAKING of the Navy and vacations, we are reminded of the disgraceful way in which the Navy maintains a major national monument — the battleship Missouri at Bremerton, Wash. The historical "surrender deck" is kept with such little pride that a visitor wonders which side surrendered.

Council Should Represent People

For those who have forgotten — A city council is representative of the people and the council through its representation supposedly is acting in the best interest of the local residents. The Fairfax City Council evidently does not realize this power and trust that has been vested in them. I am referring to the prolonged "Short Stop Caper." How strange — that the council does not enforce its decisions and the city attorney seems confused as to certain legalities! I wonder just where the "power" lies in Fairfax? Come on now — what necessary shopping does one have to do after 11 p.m.?

I have had occasion to sit with George Weddleton's children while he and his wife were donating their services to charitable organizations. In a residential area the nights should be serene for complete rest of body and mind. Each time I was about to "doze," the screeching of brakes, car doors slamming and loud voices shouting would, of course, awaken me. Oh, how the night sounds carry!

Dear Fairfax City Council — you represent us — why not be "representative" of us? Shopping after 11 p.m.?

Column Inaccurate On Harris's Role

I don't dispute the right of your reporter, Larry Hatfield, to hold opinions contrary to mine or to express them in print. But I do object to use of inaccurate information.

Neither of my sons, whom he mistakenly quotes as having told me to "cool it," has done any such thing. I asked the boys if they were the source of the information, and I found that neither had talked with Mr. Hatfield. I think it is very unfortunate to air a non-existent family quarrel for public consumption. And as a matter of elementary fact, I haven't "cooled" it; he wrote on Friday that I had, but on Thursday night I expressed myself vigorously and with candor. I am prepared to be called "a former liberal" or any other name rather than be silent when a teacher, white or black, tells children to divide themselves along racial lines. My children have not formed their friendships on that basis, and I trust they will never obey adult instructions to do so . . .

Spaying Clinic For Cats Proposed

I am in complete agreement with Mrs. (Helena) Franklin (I-J., Sept. 11) regarding the cat problem except for one thing. It is true that many people just do not have the $30 to $35 to have their female cat spayed.

I have discussed this problem with many people. An idea came up that it might be possible for the Humane Society to hold a "spaying clinic." It certainly seems to me the Humane Society takes in enough money for stray dogs, $10 and up a head and $10 to adopt one, to help with this problem. They certainly spend enough money putting kittens asleep.

Even a more feasible idea came up. If one vet spent all day just spaying cats (assembly-line type of thing) he certainly could charge less per cat.

It is a very terrible thing for people to keep female cats and send litter after litter to the Humane Society where most of them get put to sleep. There must be something done about it. I might be wrong about this or it may just be gossip but I was told they put 1,000 cats to sleep one month.

Maybe a birth control pill for cats?

Constitution Week: Time To Remember

This week, Sept. 17 through 23, is Constitution Week, by proclamation of the President of the United States. This is a time for all citizens, particularly our young citizens, to study the Constitution and to evaluate the ideals of our Founding Fathers as set forth in this immortal document.

It is human nature to take an inheritance for granted; to accept it as a matter of course, to deem it unnecessary to defend that which others have fought for, that it might be ours. And so, with many voices raised in criticism of American institutions, American traditions and American ideals, few think it worth while to call attention to the incalculable value of these institutions, traditions and ideals. How is a new generation to learn that there is anything worthwhile in them? What is of more priceless value than the national ideals and traditions which have given this nation its proud place in history? Yet how little thought the average man or woman gives to this most vital of all questions affecting the most precious things in life! . . .

Institutions, governments, do not preserve thamselves. They can be preserved only by the vigilance of those to whose guardianship they have been committed. . .

Mrs. RODNEY THORSEN
Constitution Week Chairman
El Marinero Chapter, D.A.R.
Woodacre.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO
Sept. 16, 1959

San Anselmo City Council voted to let residents decide at the polls whether the city should have a city manager, city administrator or mayor-council government.

20 YEARS AGO
Sept. 16, 1949

Col. Fremont S. Tandy, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, said Tomales Bay could be developed into a harbor of refuge for big coastwise ships as well as small craft.

Joe's Village Patio in Corte Madera advertised a New York cut steak dinner at $2.25, pot roast at $1.30 and prime rib at $2.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

An angry lady demanding a divorce gave as her reason that her husband had insisted on washing her face. "What's wrong with that?" queried the judge. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." "You didn't let me finish," maintained the wife. "Then he ironed it."

Overheard by Leo Rosten in Miami Beach: "Darling, you look wonderful. How have you done it?" "S-s-sh, I'll tell you a big secret. I'm having an affair." "How marvelous! Who's catering it?"

Two authors, who secretly loathed one another, embraced rapturously at a literary cocktail party. "You have no idea how I've prospered since last we met," boasted one. "The readership of my new novel is already double that of my last one." "Wonderful!" rasped the other. "I didn't know you got married."

Gromyko's Arrival Spurs Hope For Arms Limitation Talks

WASHINGTON — The September Song — "These few precious days" — is a fitting theme for the long wait that may now be nearing an end. Each day that passed, some 400 days, waiting for the strategic arms limitation talks to start has meant a steady advance in new weapons development and consequently a harder task for those who must try to apply the brakes to the nuclear arms race.

After a wait of six months to line up a negotiating position, the Nixon administration informed Moscow and the world that talks could begin any time after Aug. 1. From Moscow came a great silence.

BUT NOW with the arrival of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly, there is a new expectation. Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin is returning with Gromyko. They will meet in New York with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Perhaps they will tell him that at last they are prepared to enter into the talks.

In the waiting period, director Gerard C. Smith of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has worked long and hard to shape up a negotiating posture that can open the way to eventual agreement. In the face of the to-ing and fro-ing between the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House, he has achieved at least one tentative breakthrough. It is in the area that promises to be toughest and most resistant.

As the Johnson administration in July, 1968, shaped up a negotiating position, resolving conflicts between the barons of Pentagon and State, a highly significant decision was taken. The Pentagon got a go-ahead to test the multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle, MIRV. With MIRV — Three to 10 additional warheads on a single missile — the ratio of destructiveness is vastly increased.

The rationalization in the Johnson White House was as follows: Since "SALT" was soon to begin and since there was uncertainty as to how far the Russians might have gone with multiple warheads, the start of the talks could bring at the outset a showdown. You tell us how far you've gone with MIRV and we'll tell you how far we've gone. Then we can discuss a moratorium.

IN THE YEAR that has passed, the Pentagon conducted more than 14 tests of MIRV on the Pacific and Atlantic ranges. It works. As a result, of course, the military planners have dug in their heels against any mutual agreement to hold up MIRV.

But Smith has won a concession from the President. As chief delegate he will offer to discuss MIRV. He is not authorized to propose a moratorium, which the Pentagon so strongly resists.

In a discussion, however, Smith will learn presumably what are the Russian conditions for a downhold. They may agree to consider a moratorium, in which event Smith further instructions and what would surely be a fierce struggle with the military.

ALL THIS — The jargon of the incredibly complex nuclear race — has at times the sound of medieval theology. It has an abstruse quality divorced from the terrible realities of the nuclear cloud that hangs over every human being on this earth.

As for the precious days that have been lost, the blame is more than enough to go around. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia cut across an imminent start on the talks. The Nixon administration fussed and fussed over a negotiating position. The change for a pause in the race may have passed with the wasting of the days.

Politics Cool As Climate In Welfare-State Norway

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Other countries should have it so good as Norway.

The northernmost of the NATO allies has just completed a national election which returned the ruling coalition to power by a majority of one after a campaign in which the hottest moral issue revolved around a newspaper picture of Prime Minister Par Borten in his underwear.

Remarked the fatherly 56 year old prime minister:

"It is a nice country where there are no greater problems."

And, while Norwegian politicians take their work seriously, prosperout Norwegian voters couldn't have cared less about the few issues that could be drummed up. They preferred the sea, the beach and the mountains to political rallies.

The country has full employemtn, a favorable balance of trade and an increasing rate of production.

In the elections themselves the government coalition of Conservatives, Liberals, Christian Peoples parties and the Agrarian Center came out with 76 seats in the 150-member parliament and the opposition Labor party with 74.

For the coalition it was a loss of four and for Labor, which had ruled the country continuously for 35 years prior to the 1965 elections, a gain of six.

Like its Scandinavian neighbors, Norway is a welfare state which is expensive to maintain but preferred by most Norweigians.

How to pay for it provided about the only real issue of the campaign.

LAST JUNE the coalition pushed through a sweeping tax reform bill which made indirect taxes the chief source of government income.

The new law, which takes effect in January, drops the sales tax in favor of a 20 per cent added value tax to be applied at each stage of production and distribution.

It is expected to increase consumer prices by nearly six per cent.

At the same time, the new law eliminates state income taxes for more than 40 per cent of the Norwegians who now pay them and increases benefits to large families and persons living on pension.

It reduced from 72.5 per cent to 50 per cent the top tax on taxable incomes over $13,000. In Norway, where no one is very rich and no one very poor, this effects only about one-half of one per cent of all taxpayers.

POLITICALLY, attempts to look both toward close ties with its Nordic neighbors and toward the Atlantic give Norway at times the appearance of a split personality. Although a member of NATO, it carefully avoids arousing Russia, which with it shares more than 100 miles of border.

Its economy is linked closely to the United States from which it draws some $500 million annually. More Norwegians are said to live in the United States than there are in Norway.

Southern Sonoma Communities 'Marinized' By New Residents

It appears that Marin County is sending southern Sonoma County more than just an increase in population.

As the Marinites move northward to Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati, seeking more reasonably priced homes, they bring with them the Marin County style of living. Although sometimes regarded as unwelcome sophistication by old-time residents, the concerns of Marin are being felt.

WHEN VOCAL GROUPS appear before a city council or the board of supervisors, it can be safely assumed some former Marinites are in the forefront of the protest.

Conservation, which has never been a matter of widespread interest for Sonomans, is coming more into the picture. Organizations like Citizens Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands have attracted the interest of many new residents.

Peace groups like Sonoma County Citizens for Peace and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom count many former Marinites among their members.

The differences, although diminishing rapidly, still exist. Sonoma State College students, about one-third of whom are from Marin, still encounter some difficulty with Rohnert Park residents. Only in the past year have the hippie types been able to cash checks with local merchants and shop in the supermarket without drawing obvious stares.

AS SOUTHERN SONOMA changes from a series of small, individual cities into bedroom communities of commuters, the Marin penchant for participation in local government will be seen.

The newcomers do and no doubt will continue to feel the stigma placed on persons living in the subdivision area of the east side of Petaluma.

The first question old-timers put to new residents is, "Do you live on the east side?" Although the modern and comfortable east side homes may have greater financial value, they are not considered "established."

Undoubtedly Cotati will experience most of the influence of Marin as Sonoma State students take a more active role in city government.

Mayor Frank P. Dolinsek said that students already have 200 registered voters, which should be enough to elect at least one of their representatives next spring.

The mayor, who doesn't plan to seek re-election, said he'll watch the role of the students with interest to see what changes they will make. ... So will the other 1,500 residents.

Maybe Phone Company Could Have Recording As President

WASHINGTON — The most important division of the telephone company these days is the Department of Recorded Announcements. As telephone service in this country keeps getting worse, the Department of Recorded Announcements plays an ever-greater role in the system.

Heading up the DRA at the phone company is Miss Shirley Thrush, who recently was made a full vice president. I visited her at her complex which covered several acres outside Pleasantville, N. Y.

MISS THRUSH told me: "A few years ago I used to do all the recordings for the telephone company at my desk during lunch hour. But now, as you can see, I have an entire division devoted to it, and we're growing all the time.

"Any time anything goes wrong we have to make a recorded announcement, and you can imagine how many announcements we produce these days."

"Then, you thrive on the bad luck of the rest of the company?"

"I wouldn't say that," Miss Thrush said. "But let's say for years everyone in the company thought I was a joke. Now it's my turn to think they're all jokes."

"HOW DO YOU make the recordings?"

She took me down the hall to a large studio with a dozen mikes hanging from all positions. An attractive woman was standing at one of the mikes. In the control booth were an engineer, a writer, a script girl, a director and a producer.

Miss Thrush asked the producer what he was working on.

"We're doing 'the circuits are busy' recording."

"Oh," said Miss Thrush. "This is one of my favorites." We sat down in the control booth behind the director, who said over his mike "All right, Gladys. Let's do it again."

Gladys, holding her script, started to read into the microphone, "I'm sorry, all circuits are busy now. Would you please place your call at a later time?"

"NO, NO, NO," the director shouted over the mike. "You didn't sound sorry when you said it. The person who hears you isn't going to believe you. You must make him feel you're sorrier than he is that he didn't get the call. OK, let's try it again."

"I'm sorry," Gladys said dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief. "All circuits are busy. Would you place your call at a later time?"

The director said: "The sorry part was OK, but you didn't sound strong enough when you asked them to call at a later time. It was too weak. If someone heard you, they immediately would have dialed again. We want them to get the hell off the phone."

MISS THRUSH said to me, "They'll be doing this for hours. Come, I'll take you to another studio." We went down the hall to another studio and into the control booth. A girl was just reading the lines, "I'm sorry, the number you have reached is not in service at this time. Please be sure you have dialed the right number."

"Where were the chimes?" the director yelled. "They were supposed to come in before she says she's sorry."

"I thought you wanted chimes at the end," the engineer said.

"No, at the beginning, to get the caller in a good mood. You're going to tell him he's an idiot, and the chimes prepare him for it."

WHEN WE FINISHED the tour, I said, "You're doing a wonderful job here."

Miss Thrush replied, "The tail is now wagging the dog. If things continue as they have been, the telephone company could have its first woman president."

Bay Preservation Award To Be Given

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Creation of an annual award for the most significant contribution to the preservation of enhancement of the Bay Area environment was announced yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

The deadline to submit nominations for the award was set at 5 p.m. Oct. 22 at council offices in the World Trade Center at the Ferry Building. The winner will be disclosed in November.

The activity or project nominated must have taken place in the nine counties of the Bay Area between Jan. 1, 1967, and Sept. 1, 1969, and must "have been completed or implemented," the council said.

The chairman of the council's committee on Bay Area environment, Mortimer Fleishhacker Jr., speaking at the unveiling of the bronze sculpture that sympolizes the award, said, "It is a common misconception that business is not interested in good environment, that it is in fact the enemy of good environment. Nothing could be further from the fact." The council is an organization of business and civic leaders in the Bay Area.

Award winners, limited to any organization, company, individual, public agency or neighborhood group, will receive a small replica of the two-foot-high sculpture, a hand by Spero Anargyros.

Willis Will Coordinate Child Center

Dennie B. Willis, former superintendent of the Dixie School District for 15 years, has accepted the position of coordinator for the Child Center of 1030 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, Mrs. Robert Setrakian, board president, announced today.

Willis, who assumed his duties Sept. 2, will be responsible for the business administration of the center and coordination of staff activities in its projects.

The center, formed as a nonprofit corporation three years ago, attempts to aid children with learning disabilities, primarily through training their teachers as to individual needs.

San Anselmo, Kentfield, Dixie, Novato, San Rafael, Mill Valley, Sausalito school districts and St. Anselm's parochial have signed contracts totalling $90,945 with the center for this year. It is the second year for the first three. Federal and state grants fund the program.

the joy in our eyes, then, these words could go unsaid. This is one of the most charming, sturdily built, Bavarian chalet-styled modified "A"-frame homes that we have seen (3 bdrms., 2 baths plus den). Frank, Jr., et ux, by deed recorded April 22, 1936, in Book 314 of Official Records,

Advice On Dike: Act To Remove It

One way to take care of drainage problems in East San Rafael would be to have the broken dike declared a public nuisance and remove it, City Atty. David A. Menary told the San Rafael City Council last night. (Another San Rafael council story, page 1.)

Menary said that the area would then become part of San Rafael Bay, which it was at one time anyway until diked.

The dike broke last month, posing a flood threat. In addition, city officials called for improvement of drainage in the area, saying that drainage pipes were clogged with silt.

Menary said last night that the owners of ponding areas east of Highway 17 "are taking the position that they didn't block the drainage until Quail Hill fill was dumped into East San Rafael."

One of two principal owners has begun work on repairing the dike and property owners are getting together to work on a drainage solution for the whole area, Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles reported.

However, Henry Ghilotti, who owns property in danger of flooding this winter, maintained the dike patching is moving so slowly there won't be time to put in the drainage pipe city engineers say is necessary.

Menary noted the owners of the ponding area would "have their hands full" if there is damage to private owners.

"I think we ought to go for some outside help," Ghilotti told the council. He suggested getting in touch with state and federal authorities.

He also urged the council to consider a larger area for a drainage assessment district, maintaining the area currently involved will not correct the whole problem.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini asked Rawles to investigate the possibility of outside assistance and also asked for minutes of previous council meetings when the drainage area was discussed.

Corporation Yard Is Faced With Big Cuts

Shocked by bids $72,000 to $82,000 higher than estimated, the San Rafael City Council decided last night to eliminate parts of the planned new corporation yard.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini appointed himself and Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Fred S. Robbins Jr to study the plans for possible cuts. A special meeting will be held, probably later this week, for a final decision.

Cuts suggested last night included a storage building, the mezzanine of the main building and a hoist to lift equipment to the mezzanine. Bettini said those items could reduce the cost by $50,000.

The two bids received for the new corporation yard off Lincoln Avenue, south of Second Street, were $279,997 from the Rapp Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, and $289,289 from Campbell Construction and Equipment Co. of San Francisco.

The architect's estimate was $207,103.

Jensen protested the size of the main building and its walls, pointing out all of the equipment is currently kept outside.

Architect Robert W. S. Severin noted the walls are only on the street side and that much of the large equipment will continue to be left outside.

Jensen also criticized the kind of building, claiming "local contractors who are starving to death couldn't bid." He maintained that getting only two bids meant something is wrong with plans.

"Could it have been cheaper if there weren't a completion time limit (Dec. 15)?" asked Robbins.

Severin said local contractors had told him they would have bid and bid more cheaply if the strict time limit hadn't been imposed. He added, however, that most of the subcontractors for the Santa Rosa firm are local.

The time limit was imposed because the city has sold the old corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard and is scheduled to vacate that site by Jan. 2.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

COURTHOUSE — Delayed review of Severin's plans for development of the Courthouse Square site and for a revised community center because both items had been discussed informally with the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

MEETING — Heard Acting City Mgr. James H. McCown report on a meeting he had with County Administrator Alan Bruce on the courthouse disposal. "There were no resolutions of any of the problems," he said.

MANAGER — Learned 60 applications had been received for the post of city manager, as of the closing date, yesterday. Bettini announced a decision is expected by the next regular council meeting, 8 p.m. Oct. 6 at city hall.

PARKING — Adopted an ordinance prohibiting parking on Fourth Street between E Street and Lincoln Avenue between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. and restricting the parking of trailers, trailer coaches, utility trailers or auxiliary dollies for more than 24 hours.

QUAIL HILL — Approved relocating 19 town houses at Quail Hill to an area leveled when a knoll had to be removed because of slide conditions.

DITCH — Authorized spending $1,000 to clean a drainage ditch on private property along Sea Way to improve drainage and prevent flooding of the city street.

ROAD — Agreed city engineers could design a connection to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in East San Rafael in case it's ever needed. The work will be done with the county, which is redesigning a windy stretch of the street.

RECREATION — Asked the planning director to study a proposal by Councilman Harry A. Barbier to require developers to set aside some land for recreation.

PERSONNEL — Hired Robin L. Prosch as a fireman at $739 per month; and Myra L. Davey a typist clerk at $453 per month.

Petaluma Council Approves General Plan Revisions

The Petaluma City Council last night approved changes in the general plan as suggested by the planning commission and made several modifications of its own.

The changes included removing plans to extend Mountain View Avenue from the west side of the river to the east side. Replacing that traffic pattern would be a Caulfield Lane overpass of Highway 101 with a four-lane Wilson Street connection to D Street and the downtown district.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei objected to dropping the plans to extend Mountain View saying that perhaps in 50 years it would be necessary. City Engineer David A. Young said it could not be seriously considered for the near future because of great expense of cutting through the industrial area, railroad lines and the new sewage disposal plant.

Also modified was the plan to extend Sonoma Mountain Road to Petaluma Boulevard North. That route on the general plan will now cross Highway 101 and connect with Skillman Lane scheduled to become the Bodega Bay expressway.

The council suggested that an interchange at the Highway 101 crossing should also be planned to relieve the Washington Street interchange of traffic.

The third change would recommend rezoning to expand the commerical shopping designation at East Washington Street and North McDowell Boulevard. A shopping center is now being built there.

Plans to change the light industrial classification to commercial on Copeland Street along the river between D Street and East Washington Street brought a written protest. John W. Cavanagh Sr., father of Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr., said he has two industries interested in purchasing land there and would not like to see the zoning changed.

The plan change also increases the highway commerical designation on the west side of the old Redwood Highway in the Denman interchange area and increases low density housing on the northwest of the city near Rainesville Road and Stony Point Road.

A motion approving the changes brought a negative vote from Mattei and an abstension by Cavanagh.

Hub Group Sets Talk On Flood Problems

A panel discussion on "Flood Control and San Anselmo" will be held when the San Anselmo Homes Association holds its fall meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at 237 Crescent Road.

Panelists will be Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, Paul C. Zucker, county planning director, and Philip B. Lygren, Ross town engineer.

PETALUMA'S BOOM BEATS PREDICTIONS

Petaluma's population has surpassed last year, prediction by 1,623, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer told the city council last night.

In the preliminary report of the census taken last month, the official city population as of Sept. 10 was 23,753 compared to the 22,130 that had been projected a year ago.

The census showed 7,658 living units including 216 mobile homes and 404 vacancies. Meyer said 7,379 households were surveyed and that homes had an average population of 3.2 while mobile homes had 2.2 persons.

A more detailed analysis of the census will be made next month, Meyer said.

Election Districting Drive Fails

An initiative petition calling for a charter amendment on election districting was ruled invalid and dropped last night by the Petaluma City Council.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert said the petition filed by Donald P. Petro calling for a special election to establish voting districts did not have enough signatures to qualify. The amendment would have ended the present practise of electing city councilmen at large.

The attorney said that a petition to change the city charter requires 15 per cent of the registered voters at the time of the last statewide general election. Robert said the petition would need 1,248 valid signatures, while Petro's petition contained 1,184 names or 64 signatures short.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen was instructed not to begin work on verification of the signatures since it would be impossible to meet the regulations even if all were valid.

Petro, who circulated the petitions during his unsuccessful attempt for city council last June, accepted Robert's opinion but said the matter would not die. "It's back to the drawing boards," Petro said.

The Petaluma City Council also:

WATER MAINS — Awarded a contract for construction of new water mains to the Soiland Co. with a low bid of $199,999. The engineer's estimate had been $217,601 for the project to install a 12-inch main on East Washington Street to Lakeville Highway, along the east side of Highway 101 to Casa Grande Road to South McDowell Boulevard. A 16-inch main will run along Ely Road to East Washington Street near Old Adobe Road.

STOP SINGS — Heard a request from F. Q. Gifford, president of the Petaluma Gardens Homes Association, that more stop signs and painted crosswalks be installed in the subdivision for the safety of school children. David A. Young, city engineer said he would consult with Gifford and school officials to solve the problem.

LIBRARY — Received a letter from chamber president Rollan Rea supporting library trustees in not joining the county library system with out representation on the county board.

SERVICE STATIONS — Introduced an ordinance amending the service station ordinance to reduce spacing requirements at freeway interchanges.

INSPECTIONS — Introduced an ordinance similar to the Sonoma County ordinance establishing regular inspections of food handling establishments and setting fees for inspections.

MOBILE HOMES — Adopted an ordinance establishing a mobile home park zone and setting standards for development.

REPRESENTATIVES — Named Mayor Helen Putnam as the city's voting representative to the annual conference of the League of California Cities. Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr. was named alternate.

WRISTWRESTLING — Approved a resolution naming Petaluma as the home of wristwrestling and making it the official wristwrestling capital of the world.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors to consider an appointment to the recreation, music and parks commission.

'Angel Dust' Case Charges Denied

William Olaf Henrickson, 25, of San Anselmo, who claimed that his chemically treated parsley called "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three narcotics charges.

He is accused of possessing LSD, cocaine and marijuana.

Henrickson's attorney, Theodore C. Lachelt, said yesterday that he may also enter pleas of innocent by reason of insanity before the trial, which is set for the week of Oct. 27.

Henrickson, a parole violator, also faces charges in other jurisdictions, according to his attorney.

Barricades Coming Down In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British army today began dismantling Roman Catholic barricades in the riot-torn Falls Road district of Belfast.

In some instances, the army said, the local population was helping troops take down the barricades, but a crowd of women and children sat in front of their barricade in Gilford Street singing civil rights songs and refusing to let the army take down the obstruction.

The army said it had moved three battalions of soldiers into the district to "provide massive protection" for the Catholic inhabitants.

Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of the 7,500 British troops in Northern Ireland, said the dismantling operation began after talks with provincial government officials and in accordance with procedures worked out during talks last week with Belfast's civil rights leaders.

The agreement provided for British officers to reach separate agreements with the residents of each barricaded neighborhood on the protection the residents feel they need following removal of the barricades.

Belfast's Catholic minority threw up makeshift barricades during last month's Catholic-Protestant warfare, and the Protestants replied with barricades of their own. British troops have put up a "peace line" barricade between the two communities, and the Protestants removed their barricades voluntarily. The Catholics kept more than 150 barricades.

A Catholic citizens' committee had indicated earlier today that the city's Catholics were ready to remove the barricades, but it later withdrew the statement and called a meeting tonight to vote on the matter.

Jim Sullivan, chairman of the Central Citizens' Defense Committee, said: "The barricades stay until we've made a democratic decision."

He was replying to Bishop William Philbin, the Roman Catholic bishop of Down and Connor, who toured the makeshift barricades and told the men behind them that the obstructions "must come down now. We will not be bullied into keeping them by a small minority."

Freeland met yesterday with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Home Secretary James Calaghan. He returned from London today with orders to take down the barricades despite Catholic opposition.

Callaghan said after the meeting: "The barricades must come down, and progress must be made in the matter very quickly." He ruled out negotiations between the army and citizens' committees and said Freeland would arrange the timing and manner of the removal with the Ulster government of Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark.

Bridge Officials Seeking Transit Cash In Capital

Five Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District officials have gone to Washington hunting for federal money to help get the district into the transit business.

District directors are on the verge of trying buses and ferreis, and voted Friday to send up to four directors at any one time to accompany Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring in his hunt for money, especially for a demonstration project of ferries and for federal aid in buying a bus fleet.

Luehring left during the weekend with directors Lowell Edington of Napa County and William Moskovitz of San Francisco. Flying east today to join them are directors Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere and Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

The five, expected to return tomorrow night, are to report on their trip before a meeting of the "committee of the whole" at 9 a.m. Thursday in district offices at the toll plaza.

Jail Sentence In Auto Theft

Larry E. Bell, 19, of San Francisco yesterday was sentenced to six months in Marin County Jail by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for auto theft.

The youth had earlier admitted stealing a car Nov. 22, 1968 from Boas Pontiac in San Francisco. He was arrested in the car in Marin City.

The judge placed him on two years probation.

Guilty Plea In Burglary Count

Michael John Pereira, 19, of San Rafael admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he burglarized a Sausalito home March 20.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Nov. 3 and declared the offense to be second degree burglary.

Pereira was arrested when officers investigating a complaint by neighbors about a suspicious person at 156 Spencer Avenue found him carrying a television set from the William J. Troy home.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drinking Moonshine Can Trigger Saturnine Gout, Lead Poisoning

VAN DELLEN

Prolonged drinking of moonshine contaminated with lead may cause a secondary form of gout (saturnine gout). The lead buildup has an adverse effect upon the kidneys inhibiting the secretion of uric acid. The retained urates settle in the joints and other tissues culminating in gouty arthritis. This secondary form differs from the primary type, which stems from the overproduction of uric acid because of an hereditary defect in metabolism.

Saturnine gout due to lead ingestion is more prevalent than many people realize. The is understandable because leadened pipes, connections, and containers are frequently used in distilling moonshine whiskey. Authorities estimated more than 55,700,000 gallons of illegal whiskey were produced in 12 southeastern states. Almost 90 per cent contained lead.

ACCORDING to Doctors Gene V. Ball and Leif B. Sorensen, there were 2,734 admissions to the Medical Service of the Birmingham Veterans Administration hospital in 1967. Chronic lead poisoning was diagnosed in 98 veterans. In addition, 37 of 43 admissions were for gout related to chronic lead poisoning. The latter group were alcoholics who drank moonshine and also had lead poisoning, which was not their complaint. They came to the hospital because of gouty arthritis.

As a rule, kidney trouble per se does not cause gout. However, investigators demonstrated conclusively that impaired renal function which originated from the leaded moonshine was the sole cause of gout in these individuals.

LEAD POISONING from other sources is common in the United States, especially among children. Many of the young victims develop neurological abnormalities. Others also have kidney trouble and the Birmingham physicians wonder whether the youthful survivors of lead poisoning have or will develop saturnine gout.

TEMPORARY COLOSTOMY

C. C. writes: Is there such a thing as a temporary colostomy?

REPLY

Yes, the procedure is done to relieve obstruction or inflammation of the bowel and is recommended when life is at stake. An incision made into the abdominal wall creates an artificial opening to the outside so that the intestinal contents may escape without passing through the rectum. Temporary colostomies are employed when the reason for doing the procedure can be corrected and the rectum is and remains patent. If not, the colostomy becomes permanent. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

ALLERGIC REACTIONS

S. A. writes: If a person is allergic to a food or some other substance, how soon after eating the food or coming into contact with the offender would the reaction begin?

REPLY

From a few minutes to several days depending upon the amount consumed, how frequently the food was eaten, and whether the person is mildly or markedly allergic to the offender.

EAR INFECTION

D. F. writes: Can surgery cure an infection in the middle ear? Medicines have done no good.

REPLY

Yes. The most common procedure is puncturing the eardrum to allow pus to escape. If infection persists, there is a possibility the mastoid is involved. A second operation may be needed to promote drainage.

Jail Ordered For Marijuana Plea; Robbery Denied

Reade Collins Backer, 18, of Ross pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana in Tiburon Feb. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the offense a misdemeanor and sentenced the youth to serve 15 days in jail.

A preliminary hearing in that case was set for next Tuesday.

Richard H. Breiner of the public defender's office yesterday asked Judge Alvin H. Goldstein to hear a report today on whether Backer's mother, also a Ross resident, will hire a private attorney for him.

The youth and Stephen John Pappas, 19, of San Francisco are accused of taking the money from a 16-year-old San Anselmo boy after threatening him with a knife. Pappas has not yet been arrested.

HHH Claims Nixon Halted Summit Talks

Frost told Humphrey that he understood that Johnson had planned a final peace mission before leaving office but he "checked with President-elect Nixon and Nixon said, 'Please don't'."

Humphrey replied, "I'm sure that is true. That's my view of it, anyway."

A White House spokesman in Washington said there would be no immediate comment on Humphrey's remarks.

Humphrey said however, "I think a new president has a right to want to set his own course. And even though I must say that it seemed to me that the preliminaries had been so well worked out—over years, by the way, not weeks—that it would appear to me that it would have been well had it started."

Lynch Will Not Plead Rafferty's Book Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch is not going to represent State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty in a censorship suit brought by the San Francisco Board of Education.

Lynch said yesterday his office had refused the assignment "principally because we have already started to prepare an opinion in the cast for Sen. George Moscone and it might be in conflict," Moscone is a San Francisco Democrat.

Lynch also said that Rafferty's office was one where the attorney general had an option on whether to represent it in legal actions.

San Francisco's board brought the action after Rafferty threatened to life credentials of teachers using the books, "Soul On Ice," by Eldridge Cleaver, or "Dutchman," by LeRoi Jones.

Both authors are Negroes and both books contain four letter words considered by many to be obscene. Rafferty threatened to revoke credentials on a clause in the State Education Code opposing profanity. He said the books were "obscene or profane."

The school board's petition contends Rafferty's action conflicts with the board's authority to adopt textbooks and instruction materials.

California's Supreme Court has assigned the case to the Third District Court of Appeal in Sacramento, which is scheduled to hear it Sept. 24.

Sonoma Supervisors Reject Damage Claim

I-J Special Report

Bigone said that he was kicked in the face by a pony on June 7 while attending a 4-H Club showing at the Chris Beck Arena, Sonoma County fairgrounds. He said he suffered a fractured jaw, loss of several teeth and facial cuts.

Seashore Fund Is Cleared Up

A $10 million state appropriation to help the federal government complete purchase of Point Reyes National Seashore, proposed yesterday by two assemblymen, would be used to buy Point Reyes land which then would be exchanged for federal surplus federal land along the Southern California coast.

The result would be that the federal government would get $10 million in additional Point Reyes land, and the state would end up with $10 million worth of Southern California coast, not the reverse as reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

TV REVIEW

Comedy On Thurber Is Poor Try

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"My World and Welcome To It," NBC-TV's situation comedy based loosely on the works of the late writer-cartoonist James Thurber, bowed in last night as a weekly entry.

No one in his right mind actually expected the half-hour show to come anywhere near the genius of the late humorist. And it is frankly a commercial venture of a most difficult sort—trying to capture the gentle fantasy of Thurber in a raucous mass medium known least of all for gentleness.

"Imagination is what makes life tolerable," said a character in the debut, a perfect statement in aiming at the essence of Thurber. Yet imagination is so much easier to project when faced with words rather than blatant film. The subtlety of the imagination has more free rein with words; you participate with the author; you create your own images to your satisfaction. Not so with film.

At any rate, imagine Thurber with a laugh track. No laugh track was used in Sunday night's charming debut of the Bill Cosby show on the same network. And curiously, throughout the premiere of "My World and Welcome To It," I kept thinking about how natural Cosby would be to work with the material of Thurber. There is a natural lineage there, as indicated in the Cosby debut.

Well, being frank, if you are going to turn Thurber's stuff into something approaching a solidly commercial video situation comedy, I guess Monday's opener was about as reasonably okay as you can get in the standard variety.

Mays, McCormick In Old Form In Pennant Push

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — National League contenders may have to sit up and take notice now that rejuvenated veterans Willie Mays and Mike McCormick are returning to old form in the San Francisco Giants' pennant push.

The 38-year-old Mays cracked a run-scoring double and his 599th career homer and McCormick pitched his "best game of the year" yesterday as the Giants downed Atlanta 4-1 and moved within half a game of the front-running Braves in the wild West Division.

CAN TAKE LEAD

With ace right-hander Juan Marichal, 18-10, hopefully continuing his Candlestick Park mastery, the Giants hope to wrest the lead from the Braves when the two clubs conclude their season series tonight.

Marichal has allowed only one earned run in his last 36 innings at home and is an amazing 12-1 at Candlestick Park this season. He'll be opposed by Ron Reed, 16-9, as Atlanta takes a 9-8 series edge into the game.

While the frisky Mays was moving into third place on the career extra base hit list with 1,192, McCormick returned to his Cy Young Award form of 1967. The southpaw scattered five singles and didn't walk a batter.

BEST GAME

"It was McCormick's best game of the year," said Giants' Manager Clyde King. "Not too many balls were hit hard. It gave our bullpen a good rest. Frank Linzy was stiff—I don't think he could have pitched."

McCormick's eighth complete game boosted his record to 10-9. Marichal could give the bullpen added rest tonight. He has 24 complete games in 32 starts this year along with seven shutouts and a 2.19 ERA.

Mays' error on Hank Aaron's fly with two out in the first and Rico Carty's single gave the Braves a 1-0 lead. But Tito Fuentes' walk, Ron Hunt's sacrifice, Mays' double and Willie McCovey's single made it 2-1 in the bottom of the inning.

PASSES GEHRIG

Loser Pat Jarvis, 11-11, was touched for an unearned run in the fourth before yielding Mays' 12th home run of the season leading off the sixth. The extra-base hit broke a tie with Lou Gehrig on the all-time list.

"It was just a case of rising to the occasion for Mays," said King. "He knows how important he is to us, so he's going out and doing the job.

"Willie wants to try to play every day the rest of the way," the manager added. But I can't tell if he will until I see how he feels before each game."

McCormick explained his success as "everything getting over the plate." The pitcher added, "It was as good as I've thrown in a while. I had good control and was getting ahead of the batters."

JIM GILMARTIN

Excellent Timing On Nolan's Part

Like so: For the past six weeks his players kept asking: "Now, coach, now?"

49ers Come Of Age

Finally, on the evening of Saturday, Sept. 13, 1969, in a sophisticated playpen near Disneyland, halfway through their sixth consecutive preseason loss, the 49ers turned to their leader with the same old question.

This time Nolan surprised everyone. He took a deep breath, smiled and nodded: "Yes, boys, NOW!"

With that, the Niners stormed out of the locker room and proceeded to belabor the bejabbers out of the Los Angeles Rams in the second half of their final preseason tuneup. Offsetting the losing 31-28 final score was the fact that the 49ers had come of age. They arrived. And since there are no more playsies games and they start playing for keepsies next Sunday, I can't think of a better time for Nolan to give his nod.

So many pieces fell into place that it was difficult to recognize the Niners as the same team that previously had smelled out stadia from Denver to Seattle to Oakland to Anaheim to San Francisco.

Greatest improvement seemed to be in the offensive line. When John Brodie can complete 27 passes for 309 yards and four touchdowns against the vaunted pass rush of L.A.'s "Fearsome Foursome," then you know he's getting protection worthy of a wealthy Stanford graduate.

Brodie Could Have Big Year

With such chaperonage and with receivers like Gene Washington, Clifton McNeil, Bob Windsor et al, Brodie could have a banner season. I think Washington could become the NFL rookie of the year. His speed and good moves and hands are those of a veteran.

Encouraging, too, was the Niner's infantry attack against L.A., something they lacked until then. Doug Cunningham looked impressive on end scoots to supplement Ken Willard's rushes up the middle. If they can maintain this overland momentum, then defenses won't be so anxious to stack against the pass and San Francisco will do a lot of scoring.

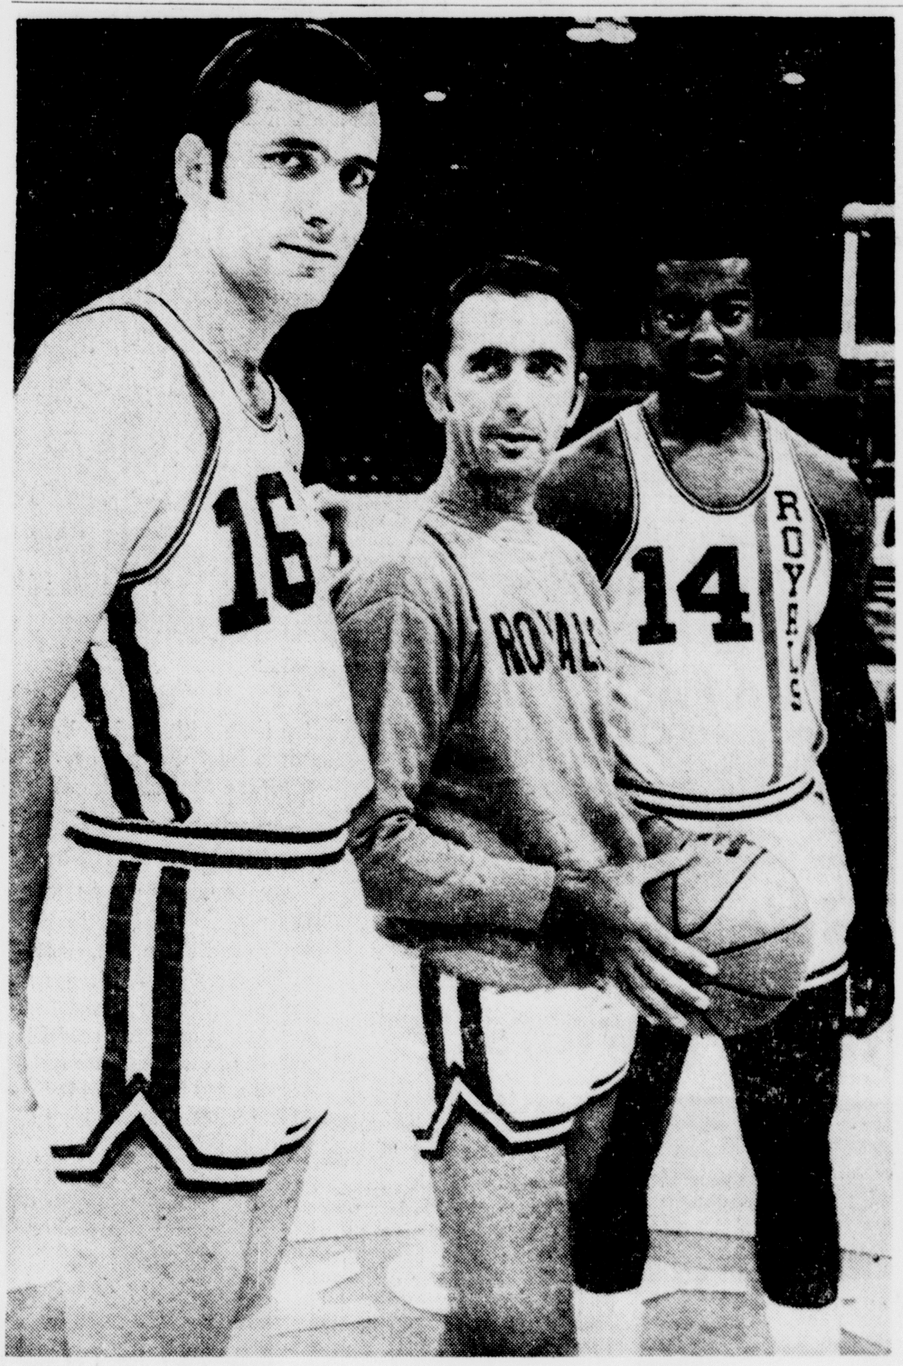
The Niners' loss in Anaheim was attributable to a goshawful chain of circumstances in which two fumbles, an intercepted pass and a blocked punt led L.A. to 28 points. Further, Tommy Davis missed an easy field goal and a penalty nullified a fifth Brodie TD pass. Aside from that the Niners played errorless ball, learning that it is not better to give than to receive. Charity begins at home, particularly in pro football.

Here's My Peerless Prediction

San Francisco's first three games against Atlanta, Green Bay and Washington should give the Niners the momentum they'll need when they go against the Rams at Kezar on Oct. 12.

For a shot in the dark, I think San Francisco will finish with a 10-4 record, splitting with L.A. and Baltimore, their division powerhouses, losing at Dallas on Thanksgiving night and at Minnesota on Dec. 14.

I don't think that will be good enough to ring the bell, but at least the Niners appear to have arrived and there is, indeed, always "next year."



COUSY WANTS TO PLAY

Willsey Wary Of Texas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California coach Ray Willsey made it clear at the weekly Northern California Football Writers luncheon yesterday that he thought he had his hands full with the University of Texas this coming Saturday.

Jones Ramsey, sports informaion officer for Texas, didn't dispute it. Asked if Texas had any weaknesses, Ramsey replied after a pause: "Punting—maybe."

Willsey, an assistant coach at Texas for four years, said he argued with Pete Newell, who was athletic director in 1965 when Texas was scheduled.

He quoted Newell as saying: "Texas is on top now, but their cycle will be over and they will be down by 1969."

OPTION

Willsey, concluded, "The record speaks for itself, and I'll take my option to blame Pete."

Various pre-season polls rate Texas between second and fourth in the nation.

Willsey said he was "reasonably pleased" with his team's latest practice. He said lineman Irby Augustine is still a doubtful starter, but that there was a good chance that the Port Arthur, Texas, candidate for All-American honors might get in the game.

Stanford coach John Ralston said his offensive receivers were the only positions in doubt for his opener Saturday against San Jose State.

"You can flip a coin between Demea Washington and Randy Vataha, but Jack Lassiter is ahead of Jim Cross, Ralston said.

He said the rest of the team was in good health and ready to go.

REGISTER

Coach Joe McMullen of San Jose State missed the luncheon to help his athletes register. His publicity aide, John Marks, said that as of yesterday morning only 30 members of the 50-man squad were registered.

University of Pacific coach Doug Stoval, whose team fell 14-10 last weekend to the Unipraised quarterback John Read but said inexperience hurt the team. UOP meets Western Micigan Saturday.

Pat O'Malley, whose Santa Clara Broncos topped St. Mary's 43-7 in the renewal of their "Little Big Game" was also full of praise for his quarterback, Denny Pastorini. The Broncos play the Cal Aggies next.

LEGAL BATTLE

Barry In Court, Or On Court?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Instead of pursuing his career on a basketball court next season, Rick Barry may find himself spending more time in a court of law.

The Washington Capitols of the American Basketball Association, who contend they acquired the services of Barry in the recent purchase of the Oakland Oaks, received a temporary court order yesterday preventing the high-scoring star from fulfilling terms of a two-week-old five-year contract with the San Francisco Warriors of the rival NBA.

NO WORKOUTS

The order, filed by Washington owner Earl M. Foreman and granted by U.S. Dist. Judge Gerald S. Levin, will keep Barry from even participating in preseason workouts with the Warriors until a show cause hearing is held Sept. 23.

In addition, Foreman's suit asks for $10 million punitive damages from the Warriors for "intentional and malicious conduct" in signing Barry to the contract when he was not free to do so.

The suit said Barry, who starred with the Warriors before moving to the ABA, has three years left on his contract and added that he would not even be on his option year until 1971-72.

Foreman purchased the Oaks franchise last month for a reportde $2.6 million and was quoted then that he went high because he felt he was also securing the services of Barry.

Franklin Mieuli, owner of the Warriors, however, said he signed Barry because "our understanding is that we were legally in our rights to do so."

"Barry came to us and told us he was free to sign with anyone when the Oaks were sold," Mieuli said. "On that premise, which was reviewed thoroughly by his attorneys and with them present, we then signed Rick to a five-year contract."

AFFIDAVIT

An affidavit was attached to Foreman's complaint in which he listed times and places he talked with Barry in an effort to get him to honor his contract, which Foreman said "was assignable upon sale of the Oakland franchise."

In a meeting with Barry in Los Angeles, Foreman pointed out Rick told him he planned "not to honor" the contract.

"He also told me," Foreman said, "that he would play in the District of Columbia only if he was legally obligated to do so."

W. German Track Team Walks Out

May, 27, ran for East Germany in the last European games at Budapest in June 1967.

International rules say an athlete changing from one country to another must live there three years before competing for the national team.

West German officials argued in vain that East and West Germany sent a combined team to the 1964 Olympics and should therefore be regarded as one country as far as May's nationality was concerned.

The West German athletes took the decision against the advice of their team officials.

They sent a six-man delegation to discuss May's position with the Marquis of Exter, president of the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF).

He upheld the federation rule and the West Germans voted, 29 to 27, to go home.

San Marin Gridders To Play Day Game

San Marin High School will open its 1969 football season against McClymonds of Oakland at Novato High School's field at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The football schedule for the week in yesterday's Independent-Journal sports section incorrectly said the game was to be played at 8 p.m. There are no lights at Novato High School's field.

Twins Back To Life When A's Get In Town

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The Oakland A's came to town, and just as predicted, the Minnesota Twins came back to life.

The Twins had lost five of seven games going into a two-game series with the A's, and it appeared Oakland still had a shot at catching pennant-minded Minnesota in the American League's West Division.

But the Twins, behind Harmon Killebrew's 43rd homer and Dave Boswell's six-hit pitching, mowed down the A's 6-3 and increased their division lead to nine games.

NUMBER IS EIGHT

Any combination of Minnesota victories and Oakland losses totalling eight would mathematically end it.

"This was a big one for us to win," said Manager Billy Martin. "We were lethargic, playing dead. When the players knew they had to win the game, they came to life. We bust out in rashes of bases hits."

The A's nominated Jim Nash, 8-7, to face Jim Perry, 18-6, as Oakland tries to do better than last night, when it blew an early lead.

The Twins spotted Oakland a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Rick Monday, in his second at-bat since recovering from a broken hand, drilled a two-run homer.

Tony Oliva's run-scoring double and Killebrew's 402-foot homer off Rollie Fingers, 6-6, into the left seats put Minnesota ahead 3-2 in the third.

LOAD BASES

Leo Cardenas lofted a fly to center, but Monday surprisingly threw to third rather than trying to get Killebrew at home.

"I didn't think I had time to get Killebrew," said Monday. "A good throw would have cut him down and I should have thrown to home."

TARS TO PLAY FIRST GAME IN KENTFIELD

College of Marin's season-opening game against San Jose City College definitely will be played on the Marin Catholic High School field in Kentfield, coach Dick Read announced yesterday.

The game will start at 1 p.m. Saturday, Read said, adding that the bleachers will be up by then.

In another bright note, Read said that former Tamalpais High School players Luther Brown and Charles McBride have dropped out of Maryland State and will play for the Tars. Brown is a halfback and McBride a center-guard.

Doyle Wins PCL Honors

PHOENIX (UPI) — Denny Doyle is the toast of the Pacific Coast League today. Make that a double toast.

In a balloting of the loop' sportswriters and sportscasters, the Eugene second baseman won dual honors as the Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year.

Doyle, 24, made the jump from the Class AA Eastern League and batted .310 with 29 doubles and 14 triples to go with his league-leading hit total of 182 and total bases, 257.

The Philadelphia Phillie farmhand was named to the All-Star squad along with his teammate, Larry Bowa, who won shortstop honors.

Raiders Get Back To Work

The Raiders had yesterday to rest up after their 21-17 victory over the Houston Oilers in the season's opener.

While the Raiders were winning, the Dolphins were losing by 27-21 to the Cincinnati Bengals, with a later Miami drive failing because of a lack of time.

On Saturday the teams will play at 8 p.m. in the Oakland Coliseum.

SUNDAY AT SEARS POINT

Camaros Seek Clincher

Roger Penske's Chevrolet Camaro team will be trying to clinch the Trans-American Sedan Championship when the 11th of 12 races in the series is run Sunday at Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma.

Mustangs, Javelins and Firebirds will be the cars to give the Camaros a battle for honors. Penske's team has clinched no worse than a tie in this nation-wide series, but a victory at Sears Point will give it sole possession. Leading the team are Mark Donohue and Ron Bucknum, Donohue with four victories and Bucknum two.

Ford's Mustang team, which already includes drivers such as former Indianapolis 500-mile winner Parnelli Jones, Peter Revson and George Follmer, has added Dan Gurney to its roster of drivers.

The Sears Point races around the 11-turn 2.5 mile track will be a two-day affair. Practice and qualifiying will be run on Saturday, plus Sports Car Club of America regional races from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sunday will have practice starting at 9 a.m., followed by two sports car races at noon and then the big Trans-Am feature 80-lap race starting at 2 o'clock. The main event will be 200 miles.

Bud Harrington of Mill Valley is tied for second place in the G-H Production and will be competing in the Sports Car Club of America race No. 1. Bob Lusk of Novato will be challenging in the F Production race, and Emmett Wilder of San Rafael will be trying to break out of a tie for the lead in C Sedan division.

Advance tickets are now available throughout Northern California, at all Bay Area Macy's, Sears and Emporium stores, plus British Motors dealers.

COMBINED AP & UPI

OSHAWA, Ont.—The Oakland Seals may have reached into the draft and pulled out a plum in defenseman Tony Featherstone.

He played in Canada's premier amateur hockey league last year and has looked outstanding in scrimmages here. General Manager Frank Selke says he "could give us something we've lacked — muscle."

Veteran forward Mike Laughton sprained an ankle.

49ers In Good Physical Shape

REDWOOD CITY, (AP)—San Francisco 49ers Coach Dick Nolan says his team is in good physicial shape for its National Football League opener at Atlanta on Sunday.

"It should be all right by game time," Nolan said.

Stan Hindman, who saw his first action since a shoulder separation a month ago, should be available for the Atlanta contest, Nolan said.

Swim Called Off

Combat Veteran To Coach Cadets

NHA TRANG, Vietnam (AP) — Maj. Karl K. Schwenzfeier, 35, of Philadelphia, a psychological warfare pilot with more than 200 combat missions, will coach the Air Force Academy gymnastic team when his Vietnam tour ends in August.

Schwenzfeier was 13 when he competed in YMCA meets in the Philadelphia area. When he was 21 and a junior at Penn State he won the Eastern collegiate National collegiate and AAU competitions.

The Air Force veteran was selected for the 1956 Olympic team but leg injuries prevented him from competing in the games.

ATHLETICS

Boswell and Tovar drove in two insurance runs in the eighth with singles, and the Twins had their 12th victory of the season over the A's against five losses.

Monday, who said his right hand still hurts, feels the A's still have a longshot chance.

NOT OUT

"We're still not mathematically out of it," he said. "Anybody who sells himself short will end up short.

"Minnesota has played good against us, at the same time we couldn't gain any ground because of all our injuries.' He said 10 regulars, including pitchers, have been knocked out of the line-up this season. Reggie Jackson, Oakland's home run slugger, rejoined the team after being hospitalized for a rash, but didn't play.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Carlton Didn't Look Sick To N.Y. Mets' Batters

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Carlton felt lousy. He was running a slight temperature, his back hurt and he arrived at the St. Louis ball park only about an hour before last night's game with the New York Mets.

The big left-hander had his sore back rubbed down, took a couple of pain killers—and went out and struck out 19 batters, the most strikeouts recorded by a pitcher in modern major league history.

Only there was on little problem.

"The Amazing Mets Super Swat got me," said Carlton, referring to Ron Swoboda, whose two homers produced all of New York's runs in a 4-3 victory that spoiled Carlton's masterpiece.

TWO STRIKES

Swoboda, fanned twice by Carlton, boosted the Mets from behind with each of his shots—and both came when Carlton had two strikes on him.

The triumph increased to 4½ games the Mets' National League East lead over Chicago, which lost 8-2 at Montreal, and reduced to 11 New York's magic number for clinching the divisional title.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays hit the 599th homer of his career in leading San Francisco past West Division leader Atlanta 4-1, drawing that torrid race even tighter.

The Giants trail the Braves by only one-half game and .003 percentage points. Cincinnati broke Los Angeles' four-game winning streak 4-1 to move ahead of the Dodgers into third place, just one game and .005 points back of the Braves. The Dodgers are 1½ games and .009 points back of the leader.

SCORES

In other games, San Diego handed Houston its fifth straight defeat, 5-3, keeping the fifth-place Astros 5 games back of Atlanta, while Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 2-1 and 4-3.

In the American League, Washington edged Baltimore 3-2, Cleveland stopped Boston 4-1, California blanked Chicago 4-0, Minnesota defeated Oakland 6-3 and Seattle edged out Kansas City 3-2.

Carlton, who struck out 16 in a losing effort to Philadelphia two years ago, said he wasn't aware of how many strikeouts he had until it was flashed on the scoreboard after he tied his old team record of 16 in the eighth inning.

"In the last inning, I went out there going for it (the record). I went out there to strike out three men.

"I was so nervous I would hit than foul out or ground out just so I could get the record."

The 24-year-old lefty received a standing ovation when he completed his string by setting down the Mets in order in the final inning.

Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians set the old record of 18 strikeouts on Oct. 2, 1938 and Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers matched it twice, while Don Wilson had 18 for Houston last year.

STEVE CARLTON
In record book

Carlton fanned the side in the first, second fourth and ninth innings and retired 12 of the first 15 Mets on whiffs.

Swoboda staked the Mets to a brief 2-1 lead in the fourth when he homered on an 0-2 count with Donn Clendenon aboard.

Then Swoboda, who has hit six of his nine homers while the Mets have taken 27 of their last 34 games, produced the winner on a 2-2 count with Tommie Agree on in the eighth.

Ron Fairly drove in four runs mer and John Bateman hit a two-run homer to back Mike Wegener's three-hitter as Montreal handed the Cubs their third straight loss and 11th in 12 games. It was the fourth straight victory for the expansion Expos, longest of the season.

Tony Perez' two-run single and Alex Johnson's RBI double keyed a three-run third inning that carried Cincinnati past the Dodgers. Woodward also had an RBI single in the ninth.

11TH HOMER

Willie Crawford's 11th homer of the season, in the sixth, produced Los Angeles' only run off Tony Cloninger, who had late relief help from Wayne Granger.

San Diego delt Houston's pennant hopes a big blow with a starting line-up that averaged 22 years and included six rookies.

Cadet Wins Trophy

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Cadet Roc Bottomly of Arlington, Va., captain of the Air Force Academy tennis team, won the annual Denver Post trophy for academic and athletic prowess. He maintained a 3.99 classroom average of a possible 4.00 for his four years at the academy.

Cards Face A 'Dodger'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals likely will face the same dilemma in the National Football League opener Sunday that confounded Baltimore last weekend—how to cope with Roger Staubach, the sensational, scrambling Dallas Cowboys rookie quarterback.

Baltimore stopped Dallas 23-7 in the preseason finale last weekend but Staubach, who isn't called "The Dodger" for nothing, kept the rugged Baltimore defense on the run.

TIRED BUBBA

"I never ran so much in all my life," said a weary Bubba Smith, the Colts menacing defensive end after chasing Staubach around the Cotton Bowl Sunday. "I've never seen anyone, including Fran Tarkenton, who can scramble like Staubach. The only times we caught him was when he was standing still."

Which wasn't often.

At one point, the 28-year-old Navy product, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1963, ate up 23 seconds to gain 14 yards in a run through half the Baltimore team.

What makes Roger run?

"I saw openings and I wanted the yards," said Staubach, who gained more yardage rushing, 118, than passing, 108, because he had trouble locating his receivers and reading the defenses.

POCKET PASSER

But he says he'll become a conventional, drop-back quarterback yet.

"I'm going to be a pocket passer," he said.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, released two rookies as NFL clubs reached their 40-man limit yesterday. Released on waivers were George Nordgren, a running back from Houston, and linebacker Chuck Kyle of Purdue.

The Colts dropped Coach Bobby Boyd, wide receiver Don Alley and running back Larry Conjar. Boyd was named defensive backfield coach after nine seasons as a defensive back with the Colts. But he was kept on the roster until the last cut, in case he is needed as a player.

The Los Angeles Rams released veteran Jim "Red" Phillips, Frank Marchlewski and three other players on waivers. The others cut were veteran cornerback Jim Nettles, second-year defensive end Rick Cash and rookie place kicker David Ray.

WAIVED

The Detroit Lions waived defensive end John Baker and two rookies, and sold defensive back Bobby Thompson to New Orleans. Baker, a 12-year NFL veteran, played for Detroit last year after the Lions acquired him from Pittsburgh in a trade.

The Saints cut two starters. Center Joe Wendryhowski, acquired in the 1967 expansion draft from Los Angeles, and cornerback John Douglas, a fifth-round draft pick in 1967, got the ax.

Green Bay, to no one's surprise, cut quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, who was kept on the active list after retiring to become offensive coach.

Apple-Chumming Friend Returns With No Buck

His daughter read him last Friday's column. He said that he was bringing some of the apples home to put on the top of my head while he practiced archery, "William Tell Style." Now what's he mean by that?

My wife excitediy telephoned me at the hospital to say she and the kids were shooting at a buck earlier in the day and were now in the process of skinning it out. A big forked horn, so they say! They were to bring in the horns to show me. I hope they have it tagged.

DEER SEASON ends in Marin next Sunday, so you had better get out this week.

Josie Segale, the gal who got the big buck in Plumas County during a special hunt last week called to give me further dope on the hunt. It seems her husband, Til, was along too, but missed two or three. Now he wants Josie to go back when the season opens Sunday, but he wants her to leave her rifle home. He's afraid she might shoot HIS buck. Now Josie says she wouldn't do that because it's illegal, but she would like to carry a gun for protection against bears and coyotes. I told her to buy a bear tag, and she's going to take a camera. I guess you're pretty safe, Til.

ON THE FISHING front, Frank Sue tried it this week at Elephant Rock in Tiburon, and then with Norm Quadros tried it at Lime Point by the Golden Gate Bridge. Nothing doing at Lime, but he saw three bass caught by anglers casting jigs at Elephant Rock.

You know what Frank caught? A five-pound salmon! Boy, was he happy. When a rock caster catches a salmon, that's something.

THERE ARE some bass at Richmond Bridge, but you're got to work for them. Slow jigging does the trick.

I sent Sam Knoles down to California City off of Tiburon for salmon. Nothing. But he saw about 15 caught. He needs me!

Rich Borba, who generally fishes out of Tomales or Point Reyes, came through with three halibut weighing 27, 23 and 22 pounds. If you get one of these, filet the fish just like a flounder, and you will have four filets without one bone. Go after them just as you would salmon, except the weight should bump the bottom and troll or drift very slowly.

HALIBUT HIT with a chopper action. If you land one too quickly, it might do all its jumping and tail slapping in the boat. You will think the bottom of your boat is being knocked out. Give them a bang on the nose every time!

The silver salmon plants made in Nicasio, Papermill and Drake's Estero creeks in past years were Oregon early season fish. They will be returning now. If you wait too long, they'll get old and red and won't hit. Millerton Point, Tomasini Point, Railroad Point and even White House Pool could pay off.

I HEARD that Mr. Saverio Auteri, a Marinite, 83 years old, caught a sturgeon that weighed 140 pounds. It was his first. Now why would a guy start fishing at that age? See what you've been missing, young fellow?

And about me! I will be here possibly another week until Sept. 22. After I get out I'm going to the Sierras for a month. My "A" tag for deer? It's for sale to the highest bidder.

Terra Linda, Drake Rated Marin's Best

By GARY TISCHLER

You guessed it. We're going to pick the 1969 Marin County Athletic League football finish, whether you like it or not.

How about Terra Linda High School on the inside track for a fourth straight title tie, this time with Drake

Which will leave San Rafael and Redwood as mighty good prospects, and Novato, San Marin and Tamalpais fighting it out somewhere in the lower division.

OBVIOUS CHOICE

Terra Linda is pretty much of an obvious choice. The Trojans have lots of lettermen and veterans coming back in a year that is generally thin for almost everybody else except San Rafael. They're used to winning at least a piece of a title, and tradition is pretty hard to fight, even in bad years, and this isn't one of them.

Trojan coach Don Lucas has promised a perkier and more versatile offense, with quarterback Tom Jackson expected to come into his own.

The running game is deep, wealthy and varied with such blasters as Mike Bridges and Rick LaHaye at fullback, Larry Kerr, Matt Bowman and a host of others to lead the way. The line is a little bit young, but it's a traditionally tough one.

Defensively, the Trojans are hard to fault. They have Dewey Forry at a linebacker and two all-leaguers (Bridges and Bob Daniele) in the defensive backfield for starters.

If anything will hurt Terra Linda, it's the toughest preseason schedule around.

The Trojans go against Riordan Friday night in San Francisco, then follow with Hogan of Vallejo on Sept. 26. That will be two of the top teams in Northern California, and a couple of losses, if that's the way it will turn out, could be deflating, physically and mentally, since the Trojans haven't lost more than one game in each of the past two seasons.

Drake could be the real dark-house in the league, with a distinct chance to take it all. Two factors point to a possible breakthrough. The Pirates of San Anselmo have one of the best back fields in the league, with returnees Bob Sutherland, the league's top rusher last season, and Mark Silverman, another starter. Kevin Peak is reportedly doing well at the critical quarterback spot.

The line, always a big thing at Drake, is young, but it appears to be blossoming into a good one. That's the whole key for the Pirates. If the young line comes through, watch out!

If tradition means anything, the Pirates will be tough and they could be back to haunt Terra Linda. They shared the title with the Trojans in 1966 and 1967 and missed another tie by a point, losing to Novato, 14-13 in the final game of the season.

San Rafael has all the earmarks of a winner, with a flock of lettermen coming back, headed by tackle Chris Bonner, quarterback Lowell Widmer, end Bruce Dambra, back Bruce Nave and flanker Bob Peterson.

DON LUCAS
Trojan coach

The only problem the Bulldogs may have is turning into a winner, after a deflating 1-8 season last year. Coach Bob Muster also lost valuable center Dan Coleman, a player Muster said he "can't afford to lose." Coleman suffered a broken leg during a scrimmage against Pacific of the Alameda Athletic League Saturday.

Redwood would appear to be out of the running with a really green backfield and such key losses as quarterback Tim Peters, full back Pete Richter, do-everything Pete Carroll and tackle Gary Kasprzak, to name a few.

But the Giants could surprise a lot of people if some young backs come through. The line is solid and experienced, headed by all-league center Phil Simon.

The quarterbacking seems to be better than it was supposed to be, after Pete Cooney turned in a good job against tough Alameda. Sophomore (oh) Jay Lehman could turn out to be a joyful surprise.

Novato is awfully thin, all the way around and will rely heavily on younger players. The quarterbacking should be good behind Brett Bilsboro and the Hornets have a first-class ballplayer in all-league linebacker Dave Perron, who doubles at split end.

But one standout player will not be enough for the Hornets, who have no bench, some good running backs and brand new lines.

San Marin of Novato will make its first venture onto the varsity football field, and it won't be a disaster, but neither should it be a roundhouse success.

The Mustangs have a winning tradition going for them, with a 9-0 junior varsity season behind them. They're used to playing together, with everybody back from the squad. But as yet, they're not big enough and wise enough to bust everybody up. Top players look to be linebacker Jack Burnam, quarterback Ken Gnoss, tackle Kerry Atkinson and halfback Steve Francis.

Tamalpais is under a new regime with new head coach Mike Davlin on hand. The Indians, like most people only more so, are young and inexperienced and very light.

Davlin is building for the future on some promising youngsters, most notably Clifford Hall and Bill Washington, a pair of speedsters in the backfield. But the Indians are a long way away and this isn't their year.

Olympic Fund Man Found Innocent

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Joe William Tate of Dallas, who said he didn't get a dime of the $72,000 missing from the fund raised in the Southwest for the 1968 U.S. Olympics, was acquitted yesterday by a federal court jury.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated less than one hour before returning its innocent verdict on 19 counts of conspiracy. Two of the original 21 counts against Tate were dismissed before his trial opened last week on grounds they did not involve him.

Joyce Ann Dodson, indicted with Tate, pleaded guilty previously to two of 21 counts. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Charles Tessmer of Dallas, attorney for the 44-year-old Tate, said his client was involved in an "ill advised romantic relationship" with Miss Dodson when the couple took over the fund drive in 1966. Tate testified he broke off with the petite brunette when she tried to have him committed to a mental institution.

Marin Policemen Remain Unbeaten In Tournament

The Marin County peace-officers will go into the final round of the Northern California Law Enforcement Softball Tournament as the only unbeaten team left when the tourney picks up again Sunday at Albert Field, San Rafael.

The Marinites remained unscathed with a pair of victories Saturday and Sunday while the field was trimmed down to three teams.

Marin downed San Jose, the only other unbeaten club Saturday, 4-1, coming from a 1-0 deficit to coast home on three homers, one each by Dave Welty, Dave Jones and Art Myers. In other games Saturday, Modesto eliminated Berkeley, 4-3, and Santa Clara downed Alameda, 4-0.

Sunday, Marin knocked out Alameda, 7-5, in an error-filled contest that saw Jones blast a two-run double and Art Myers get three hits.

Santa Clara ousted San Jose, 2-1, and the FBI dumped Modesto, 7-3. This Sunday, the FBI and Santa Clara tussle at 11 a.m. for the right to meet Marin in the double-elimination finals.

Dolinsek Is Still Over .300 Mark

John Dokinsek of Novato remains high and Ken Johnson of Larkspur remains low in the batting department during their stint in minor league baseball this summer.

Dolindek, playing for the Houston Astros' Covington, Va., Appalachian League club, is hitting .307 after a .267 week. He's got seven homers and 37 runs batted in.

Johnson is at an even and dismal .150 for the New York Yankees' Ft. Lauderdale A club after a .167 week. He's driven in 20 runs with two homers.

Knee Injury Caused Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — The death of Cincinnati Begals' linebacker Frank J. Buncom resulted from a knee injury suffered last week in practice, the Hamilton County coroner ruled yesterday.

Dr. Frank Cleveland said a clot formed in Buncoms' knee moved to his lungs and caused heart failure. He called the case a pulminary unboli, due to the injury of a knee.

Buncom, 29, an eight-year pro, two years with the Bengals of the American Football League, died in his downtown hotel room Sunday morning.

Kentucky Derby's Streak Since 1875

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The world famous Kentucky Derby has been run over the same race track continuously since 1875, making it unique in American thoroughbred racing.

At the time the first Kentucky Derby was run, only three other race tracks now in existence were operating. They are the New Orleans Fairgrounds, Pimlico and Saratoga.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

General Telephone Held Excellent Quality Stock

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. You used to frequently recommend General Telephone & Electronics but recently you never mention it and it's not done too well. What's your current opinion? — S.J.

A. I continue to like General Telephone for its strategic position in communications and electronics, the spread of its telephone networks especially in California and Florida and its achievements in sophisticated research to advance its total operations. I consider GT&T an undervalued investment opportunity for anyone wanting a good-long-term stock.

The dual nature of this holding company has in the past provided strong growth but more recently flattened the earnings trend. Heavy, unexpected losses occurred on several fixed-price military contracts and industrywide weakness developed in the home entertainment market. GT&T's Sylvania subsidiary links it to the latter because Sylvania is a leading producer of radio and TV sets and the tubes required for their operation. Such negative factors could not be entirely offset by expanding operations in telephone subsidiaries, so GT&T's share price was penalized.

For the first half of 1969, through June, earnings again moved up on combined revenues and sales 12 per cent higher than in the first half of last year. These promising gains are expected to continue.

Q. Two months ago I put $6,500 into Decatur Income Fund to build up for a year and then take monthly withdrawals. My June and July statements credited nothing to my account. Would another conservative fund build up faster? — J.C.

A. Probably not, because quick capital gains and maximum income are incompatible. Decatur's assets are 40.2 per cent invested in bonds and preferred stocks which do not have the gopower of many common stocks offering little if any income. You bought a quality income fund yielding about 4.7 per cent. Net asset value increased 25 per cent during 1968 and 102 per cent for five years through 1968. You can't expect a large increment every month; and capital gains are directly related to market conditions. Dividends in 1968 totaled 55 cents a share and the capital gains distribution was $1.15.

Big Trade

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico buys $1,090,000,000 in goods from the United States per year, compared with the $619,400,000 worth of Mexican products bought by the United States, according to the American Chamber of Commerce.

Poultry Production

MANILA (UPI)—Philippine livestock and poultry production went up from 89,743,097 in 1967 to 95,712,393 in 1968, according to Anacleto B. Coronel, director of the Philippine animal industry.

Mexican Stock

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The Mexico City Stock Exchange, founded in 1891, had a turnover of more than 20 million shares, worth more than $2.2 billion, in 1968, an all-time high.

Troop Cuts Cheer Wall Street Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon's announcement of further troop cutbacks in Vietnam bolstered stocks today in fairly active trading.

The UPI Marketwide Indicator was up 0.18 per cent on 1,549 issues crossing the tape. There were 710 advances and 530 declines.

Volume of 10,500,000 shares near the final bell was about in line with yesterday's.

Active issues included American Telephone and Revco D. S., largely the result of big block transactions. AT&T traded three blocks amounting to 232,500 shares at 50 1-2, and Revco a block of 177,000 shares at 19 1-4. AT&T closed at 50 3-4, off 1-2.

Also heavily traded were Kinney National Service, Benguet, UAL Inc., and Atlantic Richfield.

There were several point-plus movers in the oils group, mostly on the downside. Texaco closed down 1 1-4 to 32 1-2 and Jersey Standard was up 1-2 to 72 1-8.

Point-sized mover in the electronics were in both directions with IBM closing up 2 3-4 to 346 3-4.

Steels, motors and chemicals, meantime, generally traded in fractions. So did rails, aircrafts, and most airlines.

Sears Checking Locations For Large Store To Serve Marin

It is no secret that Sears Roebuck and Co. has been checking over possible locations in Marin County for a suitable spot for a large store.

Up to now it has not been reported that anything definite has been decided upon, the main reason being that an operation of this kind requires about 12 or 13 acres, according to Sears' policy. With such an investment at stake, sites are chosen carefully, with a great deal of study given to both present and future shopping patterns and traffic.

Meanwhile Sears has made one definite move to expand its representation in Marin to something more than the present catalog stores in San Rafael and Novato and the San Rafael service department. This is a so-called "Satellite Store," for which a lease has been signed in the Red Hill Shopping Center, San Anselmo, through Tom Ireland of Grubb and Ellis Co.

Sears will take over the 4,500 square feet formerly occupied by the hardware and garden supplies store at the west end of the center. Remodeling is now under way and a loose estimate would be that occupancy may take place by late October.

A number of these satellite store with limited inventories are maintained by Sears in many area. Often they serve as pilot stores to pretest retail shopping patterns and potentials.

Another addition to Red Hill Shopping Center will be the Swiss Watchmaker, a removal from the Corte Madera Shopping Center — another lease by Ireland. Occupancy is now set for Oct. 1.

SAN-OAK BOOK DISTRIBUTORS, headed by Earl Johnson, has moved from the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito to San Rafael. New quarters are located at 62 Belvedere Street.

FORMER SAN RAFAEL RESIDENT Herbert A. Danielson has been elected vice president, operations, of Pacific Gas Transmission Co. Now living with his wife Lucile in Spokane, he has been operations manager of the pipeline company since 1965 and will continue to direct the operating headquarters staff for Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia. He was gas superintendent of the North Bay Division of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and headquartered in San Rafael from Oct., 1956 to March, 1964.

Sullivan

JEREMIAH V. SULLIVAN of San Rafael, manager of Wells Fargo Bank's San Anselmo office, has been promoted to assistant vice president. He joined the bank in 1947 in the head office auditing department.

RICHARD F. ANDINO of San Anselmo has been promoted to Hawaii freight division manager for Matson Navigation COo. in Honolulu. He joined the company in 1958 and before his recent promotion was Far East freight operations manager.

TRIPS: Mrs. Saga M. Lempio of Saga of Finland, Sausalito, will be among a group of women's fashion buyers attending Scandinavian Fashion Week in Copenhagen this month. Leaving tomorrow, she will also visit markets in Amsterdam, London, Paris and Stockholm.
